New Methods, Much Money. Four, Instead of 400,000. Dictatorship? We Have It. Guaranteed Deposits.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE PRESIDENT says "We have undertaken new methods," and we HAVE with a vengeance. "WE," meaning 123,000,000 Americans, led by the President, will spend in the next six months, in various useful ways, one thousand million dollars a month, or at the rate of TWELVE BILLIONS of dollars a year.

Tom Reed, when Speaker of the House, yelled because the country spent five hundred millions in one year. What would he say of a thousand millions A MONTH?

TWELVE BILLIONS in a year is a great deal of money, but it is not too much, not enough, if well spent, to drive out depression and bring back employment.

We sent ten billions to Europe, never to come back, and spent twenty more billions for other peoples' war on top of that. We might well spend some of our billions productively, at home.

GERMANY, WITH the help of many doctors, scientists, psychiatrists, judges, hospitals, prepares to "sterilize" hundreds of thousands of German men, women and children, from infancy to fifty years of age and older. The idea is to pick out the unfit, and, by surgery, make it impossible for them to have children.

It might be simpler, more effective, to select four, instead of 400,000 Germans, sterilize the four, with the headman's assistance, and go along in the old German way. That old way used to work well enough.

MUSSOLINI believes that war is probable, even should the wicked Japanese never sail through the air against Rome. He is giving military training to two million young Italian boys.

LAGUARDIA, new mayor of New York, asks for dictatorial powers, the right to "hire, fire and regulate pay." Many exclaim:

"Dictatorship! Never, NEVER!"

What do the innocent things suppose they have always had from well-organized political machines? Do they imagine that they have ever had any say in their government?

What is the difference between dictatorship used secretly, and open dictatorship?

MR. WALTER J. CUMMINGS, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, says the situation as regards security of bank deposits should be made clear.

The facts are that all national banks MUST deposit certain monies to be used to guarantee all bank deposits up to twenty-five hundred dollars and have done so. State banks are not compelled to enter into this arrangement, but may do so if they please.

It is a pleasure to announce that throughout the whole country only four or five hundred state banks have refused to join in the plan for guaranteeing deposits.

Thirteen thousand banks, all the national banks, and nearly all state banks are included in the guarantee.

YOU WILL be sorry to hear of an epidemic of influenza in Tokio, with more than forty deaths a day.

You will be glad to hear that leaders of thirty Protestant denominations have decided to promote a "spiritual revival, recovery and advance" to keep step with the business revival.

Nothing could be more desirable than that, or more gratifying than the fact that "great social ideas of Christianity are being woven into the fabric of our national life."

THIS NATION has recognized Russia and now Russia discovers nine new sources of gold, all capable of being worked immediately.

These Russian gold sources, if richly productive, will soften the hearts of our "best minds" that think Russia should not be recognized. Also the discovery of gold will strengthen Russian belief, bound to come sooner or later, that perhaps Karl Marx did not know best.

What quinine is to malaria, gold, "yellow and cold," is to Communism.

DR. DERN, Secretary of War, yesterday announced the purchase of one hundred fighting airplanes, including forty-six bombers, in accordance with President Roosevelt's determination to "strengthen the defense forces of the nation."

Angels that read our thoughts can testify that this country hasn't the faintest idea of attacking anybody. But it does intend to organize such defense as will make attack from the outside extremely dangerous for the attackers.

ANYBODY DRINKING alcohol on the theory that alcohol cures or prevents cancer, may stop drinking the alcohol. Experiments, in Buffalo, with mice show that pure ethyl alcohol, otherwise acceptable to the mice, does not cure cancers that afflicted them.

Many cancerous mice, kept continuously drunk in the interest of science, enjoyed the alcohol, but it did no good to the cancers.

A learned German, D. Thursz, had better results with rats. Alcohol seemed to help some forms of cancer in rats, and on other forms it had no effect.

Prompt treatment, surgery and radium, not alcohol, are advised for cancer.

MISS JULIA MARIE DOYLE

CIVIL SERVICE BOARD NAMED

Mayor W. N. McNair today appointed his new Civil Service Commission.

The members are Attorney B. B. McGinnis, Attorney Julia Marie Doyle and Fred W. Minor.

McGinnis has been active in Democratic politics for years. Miss Doyle aided McNair in the campaign. She has an office with Congressman Henry W. Ellenbogen, Democrat, and Howard W. Neely, Republican Fourth Ward leader. Minor, a Republican, has been employed as a salesman by M. L. Benedum, oil man "angel" of the McNair campaign. He was Benedum's selection for Director of Supplies.

They replace Dr. F. H. Frederick, Dr. S. H. Johnson, both Republicans, and M. B. Donnelly, Democrat.

The announcement came after Mayor McNair asked several of his secretaries if they knew Miss Doyle. When assured they did he said:

"I think she would make a good civil service commissioner. You may give out the list."

Miss Doyle was surprised when a newspaper photographer apprised her of her appointment. She said she had hoped to get a city position, but did not know she was being considered for the Civil Service Commission.

Insull's Appeal Hearing Scheduled

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The public hearing on Samuel Insull's appeal from an order deporting him from Greece January 31, was set by the State Council today for January 19.

The verdict will not be returned on that day, but will be made public later.

False Fire Alarm Brings Capitol Scare

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—A false alarm for fire at the Capitol brought engines and trucks racing there today, all because a zealous new employe had mistaken smoke from a chimney to be a sign that the House of Representatives' roof was about to blaze up.

City Sleuths Told to Arrest 'Big Shots'

STRICT LABELING OF LIQUOR ORDERED

DETECTIVES TOLD TO GET 'BIG SHOTS'

Open Season Declared On Vice Overlords; Protection Gone

Shorn of political protection and bereft of big bootlegging profits by legal rum, vice overlords and petty law violators today heard what sounded like the crack of doom for lawless.

Orders went out to the city detectives to bring in the big shot racketeers. Open season was declared on all those who formerly flourished by paying toll to the powers that were.

The new setup in City Hall with the inauguration of Mayor William N. McNair already has brought results—something that long years of Republican administrations did not bring forth, vice crusades and promises notwithstanding.

RAIDS UNDER WAY

Police raided booze plants and moonshine joints. Blinds were up and daylight was shining through houses of vice. Gambling dens were on the wane. Even the ever-present numbers operators were looking for cover.

Forty-eight city detectives were notified at the morning roll call by Inspector Frank R. Boyd that they need have no fear of political reprisal, that Mayor McNair cares nothing about politics.

The Detective Bureau has been made a unit in itself, Boyd said, with the inspector given free rein—an arrangement that has not existed since C. C. McGovern headed the bureau, in the administration of former Mayor William A. Magee.

Boyd said:

"Don't be afraid that a politician may put you on the spot if you arrest one of his friends. We have a new detective docket; let's see how many autographs of some of the big shots you can put in that book."

Boyd told the detectives there will be no protection. He got his instructions from Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr.,

Frederick Deyerberg, Noted Musician, Dies

LONG BEACH, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Frederick Deyerberg, 71, noted musician, and one of the most famous players of the French horn in this country, died at his home here last night. He came here three years ago from the East.

He was the father of Fred W. Deyerberg, composer and player of French horn in the Long Beach Municipal Band for the last 10 years.

Rock Slide Here Delays Pennsy Train

Rocks sliding down an embankment at the north end of the Sheraden-Ingram tunnel "signaled" a Pennsylvania Railroad train to stop today. The track was not obstructed, railroad officials said, but the rocks disrupted the signal system and delayed a train bound for Pittsburgh from Cincinnati and Columbus for 15 minutes.

American Aviatrix Killed in France

Flier Lost In Storm 4 Hours

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Dean W. Burford wrote another thriller of the night skies early today when he brought his mail plane safely down at the Newark Airport after being stormbound more than four hours.

It was his second air adventure within a month. Last December 11 he bailed out of a mail plane over Cambria County, Pennsylvania, when his plane was caught in a terrific snowstorm.

Burford took off from the airport at 12:03 o'clock this morning with a valuable mail cargo bound for Pittsburgh. Forty-five minutes later he advised the field by radiophone that his wings were coating with ice and that he was experiencing "great difficulty."

Heavy fog had settled over Newark and a sleet and rain fall began.

The radiophone went suddenly silent, and ground officials expressed alarm, fearing that Burford, a veteran pilot, might have lost his way in the black, fog-choked skies.

Communication was restored at 3:45 a. m., at which time Burford said he had sufficient gas to remain aloft seven hours, and that he would remain in the vicinity of the field until an opportunity to attempt a landing presented itself.

He landed at 4:40 a. m.

Burford, whose home is at Columbus, O., was one of two pilots who took to their parachutes the morning of December 11 when their planes were caught in an Allegheny snowstorm. He landed unhurt, floating down gently while the $35,000 plane crashed and was wrecked. A cargo which included a shipment of diamonds valued at $75,000 was salvaged.

Early this week Burford circled a fog-shrouded Pittsburgh, seeking familiar landmarks when the Department of Commerce directional radio beam was interrupted by a minor defect. He had been "riding in" on the beam from Columbus. The roar of his motors was heard by Bellevue residents who telephoned the City-County Airport and the pilot was guided in by the radio operator there.

CITY CASHIER'S CAGE LOOTED

Five hundred dollars in $10 and $20 bills were stolen from the cashier's cage in the City Treasurer's office yesterday.

Confirming the theft, Treasurer James P. Kirk said he had been informed that Cashier George K. Klinker had momentarily left his cage to answer a telephone call, thinking it had to do with illness at his home.

When Klinkner returned the pile of bills was missing. Klinker told his superiors he believed someone had reached in and taken the money. The cage was left open. City detectives were notified.

The city will suffer no loss, as a bond covers the amount taken.

5 Students Expelled For Pacifist Stand

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5.—Five Ohio State University students today were expelled from the school by President George W. Rightmire because they refused to accede to an order that they register for military training.

Recognition of U.M.W. Ruled by Johnson in Mine Dispute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, ruled today the H. C. Frick Coke Company, of Pittsburgh, must sign a labor contract with John L. Lewis, International president, and Philip Murray, International vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, in their official capacity.

At a half hour meeting with the National Labor Board, prior to his regular press conference, Johnson was asked to give his recollection of the specific terms required in the President's agreement signed by owners of the so-called captive mines last October 30.

Johnson replied:

"My recollection is that they agreed to make contracts with whoever was elected by the workers, and if it happened to be John L. Lewis and Philip Murray, that they should be designated in the contract by their official titles."

Johnson said there was further difficulty of "esoteric and frog-hair splitting" as to whether that meant actual contracting with the union.

LABOR BOARD DEFIED

The NRA chief also was asked if he could say anything concerning contemplated legislation to strengthen the power of the National Labor Board, but he said he did not feel at liberty to discuss the question at this time.

The H. C. Frick Coke Company, a United States Steel subsidiary, is on record as challenging the Labor Board's authority to settle the dispute at its Western Pennsylvania mines.

Nathan I. Miller, former Governor of New York and counsel for the Frick Company, issued the challenge yesterday at a four-hour

PINCHOT SIGNS BONUS BILLS

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, left his sick bed in St. Luke's Hospital shortly after noon today to sign four bills enabling the payment of a $50,000,000 bonus to World War and other veterans in his state.

The signing of the bills marked the close of a drive begun in 1921 in Pennsylvania for a state bonus to veterans.

After numerous delays, the proposition was approved in a vote on a constitutional amendment last November and a special session of the Legislature, which adjourned December 21, passed the bills signed today.

Actual payment is not expected to begin until next spring.

Century-Old Letters Found as Man Dies

Letters written nearly a century ago, were found today among the possesions of John P. Moore, 73, who died in Allegheny General Hospital following a stroke at his North Side lodging house.

After the body was removed to the Morgue his possessions were taken from the house at 1217 Federal street. The letters apparently were addressed to Moore's father, John P. Moore.

U. S. Credit and Sales Tax

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Noted Author and Ambassador to Italy Under Presidents Harding and Coolidge.

THE United States is in the red.

Congress may face this startling statement without pretense and there is no reason why the President should not boast rather than hide the fact.

As a matter of fact, the United States has been going into the red on its accounting since the depression.

Wrangling does not help much. The truth is that we are spending more than we can collect or earn in a long stretch to follow, so as to create, artificially, jobs and readjustments for many millions of us.

Why not?

MR. HEARST nearly four years ago asked for five billion in a bond issue, when five billion rather than seven or ten would have done the work. He advocated a manufacturers sales tax which would have pulled us out of the hole. His idea was to feed the snake of depression enough to keep it asleep while there was still time to let it wear out its sickness.

Now, the President by semi-inflationary and government job measures has to feed the python every 30 or 60 days.

Congress faces facts.

The press of America faces facts.

The President faces facts. And there is no reason why they should lie to each other. The United States is going into the red.

And why not?

HERE is a country with tremendous resources of soil and hands. It can afford to mortgage its future in order to keep its present safe. Congress, as one reflective Senator says, is only concerned with the question of how to prevent waste when we have to put our paws into our pockets and pay out of capital, rather than earnings, when we are in a pinch.

Such is the theory of the progressives. And it is a good theory.

We may as well stop the nonsense of fooling ourselves. The idle in America are not the idle in the industries which produce consumable goods. The idle in America in the main are of two classes, i.e., one, the idle four million who are always idle and the idle six or seven million who were in our great national over-expansion industry of overbuilding.

OVERBUILDING, created by over-extension of credit and values and hopes and expectancy and by the bankers' desire to get a commission on new over-expansion, had become America's top business.

Seventy per cent, at least, of our unemployment today can be laid to natural, national idleness and to the dedication of labor to "capital industries," i.e., building of plant to make goods which we cannot consume and cannot sell abroad without lending money to buy from ourselves.

Such is the set of facts which faces a reassembled Congress. Why not recognize them? The United States is in the red and going deeper into the red in order to create, artificially, building jobs on public works of various kinds.

Probably, this is lots better than a dole—than relief to poverty, than the dangerous narcotic of pure dependency. Probably, it is true that we must admit that to keep our idle fed and busy, it is necessary to go into our vast national savings and asests to put people to work—to go into the red.

WHAT is ridiculous about it is the concealment and pretense about a balanced budget. No doubt there is fear that without this nonsense about a balanced budget the credit of the United States may "crack down." Of course, it will not—as every foreign banker knows.

In a world where "I won't pay" is a favorite expression of our present world-wide, rotten demoralization, the best promise of the lot is still the United States' promise to pay, provided that such a promise is expressed with definition—a promise to pay in definite and not inflationary and wobbly buying power.

Make no mistake about it: The administration will allow this Congress to go into the old sock or take it out from under the mattress.

WE should have done this three or four years ago when Mr. Hearst advised it. We should have used the deep-seated credit of the United States by tapping our resources through the levying of a five per cent sales tax. We must continue to have a deaf ear to those who said "let us go back to yesterday."

In this, there is no criticism of the President. He has tapped our credit and he will go on tapping it. Why not? So long as some of us are hungry and cold, we have to do it.

You can write reams about this Congress, but all that counts now is the demand for frankness, for candor, and for truth from the White House.

The United States is in the red!

And it can pay—

THANK GOD!

ALL BOTTLES MUST SHOW CONTENTS

State Board Moves To Prevent Adulteration

HARRISBURG, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Bottled liquors sold in Pennsylvania hereafter must bear labels telling how much each bottle contains, the ingredients and when it was manufactured, the Liquor Conhrol Board said today.

At the same time, a "dictionary" defining every drink in stock, was issued with a draft of regulations.

The regulations prescribed that every manufacturer shall affix to each bottle or package in which liquor is placed for sale within the commonwealth a printed label or labels which shall set forth:

1—Name and address of manufacturer.

2—Quantity and description of the contents.

3—In the case of whisky, rum or brandy, an additional label giving the amount of proof and whether the whisky, rum or brandy is straight, blended or compounded.

4—In the case of straight whisky, rum or brandy, the year of its manufacture.

'RECIPE' OF BLENDS

5—In the case of whisky, rum or brandy blends, the kind or the kinds of whisky, rum or brandy blended, together with the quantity and nature of flavoring, if any.

6—In the case of whisky, rum or brandy compounds, the kinds of whisky, rum or brandy, and quantity and kinds of spirits, flavoring and other ingredients.

Further prescribing the details of labeling, the board ordered they must be affixed to each side of the bottle or package; they must be at least "2 inches in size," and printed in type not smaller than

HOUSE VOTES $2 WHISKY TAX

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The House today approved a tax of $2 a gallon on distilled spirits, estimated to produce $300,000,000 in revenue during the first full post-repeal year.

This action followed defeat of proposals to levy a $4-a-gallon tax and a $1.50 tax.

Representative O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, who proposed the $4 rate, contended the tax rate did not affect the price to consumers because of profiteering by distillers.

OFFERS AMENDMENT

Representative Dirksen (Rep.), of Illinois, offered an amendment calling for $1.50. He has seven large distilleries in his district.

Representative McKeown (Dem.), of Oklahoma, said he fav-

SPENDING THE DAY WITH M'NAIR

Mayor McNair's day as the chief executive of the city began today in the bathroom.

A gentleman by the name of Fisher, His Honor related, dropped into the McNair home in East End, cornered the Mayor in the bathroom and announced he knew who "the fixer" for the rackets is.

This so occupied the Mayor that he did not shave.

He instructed his guest to go out and find "the fixer." The Mayor himself tried to find this elusive genius a few weeks ago by invading a downtown bookie's spot. He promised Mr. Fisher any job his heart desires if he finds "the fixer."

From his home the Mayor took his beard to Homeopathic Hospital to visit his 82-year-old friend, Francis W. Maguire, distributor of single-tax pamphlets who sees eye to eye, to say the least, with the Mayor on taxation. This necessitated neglecting his lobby demonstration today.

The strain of the mayoralty has been so great that Maguire was rushed to the hospital yesterday.

En route to Maguire's room, the Mayor passed a woman patient who had been recuperating in a wheel chair. The woman spoke up:

"We expect a lot of things from you, Mayor."

The Mayor shrugged:

"What can I do?"

The reunion between the two single-taxers found both, no doubt, for the first time in years, without a single pamphlet on the single tax.

When it was discovered that the electric light in Maguire's room hurt his eyes, the Mayor had him moved immediately and handed an attache $5 for the new room, explaining that his (McNair's) credit was not so good and, also, the city might not be able to pay his salary this month.

Outside Maguire's room, the Mayor pitied:

"Poor Maguire. He's too old to get mixed up in all this."

The Mayor then let it be known that there was a chance he might apologize to the four Democratic

U. S. Deficit May Force Sales Tax Enactment

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—With Congress stunned by President Roosevelt's "brutally frank" revalation in his budget message yesterday that the government is seven billion dollars "in the red," interest centered today more than ever upon the question of taxes.

While revision of the income tax law is to begin next week, with increases in all brackets almost certain, and substantial increases in inheritance taxes, advocates of a general manufacturers' sales tax found comfort in the thought that the government's desperate need for revenue is inevitably advancing their cause.

More and more people in Congress, Democrat and Republican alike, are coming to the view that eventually the government is going to have to come to the general sales tax.

The income tax has failed to produce up to expectations. Every time Congress plugs up loopholes, the lawyers find new loopholes, as was brought out in the Senate Banking Committee's investigation by the disclosure that the 20-odd millionaire partners of the J. P. Morgan firm, including Morgan himself, paid little or no income tax between 1929 and 1932.

KANE TO IGNORE M'NAIR ADVISOR IN CITY BUDGET REVISION

TWO MILLIONS TO BE SLASHED BY COUNCIL

Department Heads, Not Mrs. Smith, to Be Depended Upon

Council will reopen the city's 1934 budget, which at present figures will result in an estimated deficit of at least two million dollars, as soon as sub-committees begin their sessions — probably next week—Councilman John J. Kane said today.

In announcing he would move to reopen the $21,230,000 budget, Kane revealed that he intends to disregard the advice of Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, Mayor William Nissley McNair's personal adviser on city finances.

Mrs. Smith was named by the Mayor during December, after he ignored plans proposed by party leaders, including Kane and Councilman Thomas J. Gallagher, Walter R. Demmler and John M. Huston, for another group to sit in on the last Council's budget sessions.

SNUBS MRS. SMITH

Resentment of the Councilmen at McNair's choice of Mrs. Smith is thought to have stirred his remark:

"I'm not interested in what Mrs. Smith says about the budget.

"She, of course, has been working as the Mayor's observer, but as far as I'm concerned, I'll give my attention to the recommendations of the department heads."

McNair's ignoring of other party leaders in naming Mrs. Smith was one of the first of a series of incidents that resulted in the split between the Mayor and councilmen.

Kane said of the budget:

"The city can't go on with the present budget. It must be balanced, or as nearly balanced as we can make it, without hampering city functions too much."

He did not say what departments he would cut.

The budget, as approved by the last Council, was for $90,000 more than that of the 1933 budget, although calling for the same millage. Estimated receipts for the year run in the neighborhood of 19 million dollars.

ECONOMY SUGGESTIONS

Mrs. Smith is understood to be prepared to offer economy sugestions that will result in a saving of some $600,000-odd, but there has been no plan advanced which would result in the two million dollars saving. The Democratic Councilmanic bloc is nuderstood, however, to be prepared to make some radical suggestions.

President of Council Robert Garland and Councilman William A. Magee have announced their readiness to co-operate in the budget sessions, although each favors sufficient delay to allow the new department heads to make themselves familiar with their financial needs.

McNair was to spend today studying his departments' expenses with Mrs. Smith and M. C. Conick, auditor, who has been aiding her. He spent considerable time on the task yesterday.

There was some possibility that he would be prepared shortly to ask Council to reopen the budget — the ordinary procedure being for the Mayor to submit estimates to Council, rather than for Council to request the Mayor and department heads to supply the information.

CITY ECONOMY BOARD URGED

Mayor William N. McNair today had before him a letter from the Western Pennsylvania branch, National Economy League, urging the appointment of a voluntary committee of businessmen to study Pittsburgh's municipal government and suggest practical and efficient economies.

The committee, the league pointed out, would be similar to that named in Baltimore, whose suggestions in 1933 were responsible for a budget surplus of $950,000 compared with a deficit in 1932 of $2,300,000.

'Seeing the People' -:- -:- By QUIN HALL

members of Council whom he warned yesterday to keep hands off the police department after they had paid a visit to the new superintendent, Ben Marshall.

VIEWS ON APPOINTMENTS

His Honor read through a newspaper report of likely appointees in City Solicitor Cornelius Scully's office and observed:

"I see that Dick Scully made some appointments. I didn't know anything about that. Who did he name? . . . Where are the Italian lawyers? They were even going to appoint a Negro lawyer. I hope they appoint some Catholics, too. You know what I'll do; I'll get Bishop Boyle to come in and see me and let him give me a lift."

As to filling the Public Safety Director's job, the Mayor suggested:

"We ought to have a Catholic in the Department of Public Safety, but that's up to Davie Lawrence."

The next pronouncement concerned the police in politics:

"I will tell the police that I don't object to them being in politics, that they are American citizens, they can vote for their friends or anybody else. That's their business and I'm going to tell them that."

All these manifestos were issued in the etherized atmosphere of the hospital, after which His Honor moved to his office in the City-County Building.

Here he agreed to a suggestion by his Republican safety director, Harmar D. Denny, Jr., that the flags on the building be put at half-staff out of respect to the memory of H. Raymond Hilliard, former City Treasurer, who died today.

On his way to the Treasurer's office to express his regrets to employes of that office, His Honor chatted as he stepped into the elevator:

"I hear all the racketeers have moved to Millvale. We ought to annex Millvale and drive them to Ross Township."

Outside his own office the Mayor was approached by a middle-aged man who asked him to sign a Civil Service application for a laborer's job. The Mayor said:

"Why should I sign it. I've got my job."

WORKS ON BUDGET

Nobody accepted the invitation, except the Mayor himself. Inside he closeted himself with M. C. Conick, auditor. A secretary announced that His Honor was working on the budget and would not see callers.

The callers included J. M. Wesoky, the gentleman who is crusading for that $4,000 advertising job which the Mayor has promised to invent. Rebuked yesterday by the Mayor for his lack of knowledge of the single tax, Wesoky returned today, laden with books and treatises and persistence. Waiting in the anteroom, he generously offered:

"If the Mayor wants to talk to me, I'll see him."

After awhile the Mayor appeared in the ante-room and told a friend:

"They are arguing in there over the budget. I'll go back when they're through."

The Mayor then detected the apple vendor, the gentleman whose business began booming on inauguration day, and apologized:

"I'm sorry I won't need any today. I'm having lunch at the Henry George Club."

For lunch the Mayor went to the weekly meeting of the Henry George Club. A few minutes after the speaker, Dr. William Van Essen, took the floor, the Mayor retired to a hallway to talk for 20 minutes or more with Mrs. Anne Felix, defeated Democratic candidate for Congress, and Fred W. Minor, Benedum man just appointed to the Civil Service Commission.

Returning, he listened to Van Essen for five minutes, then departed.

FAVORS FREE DANCES

For perhaps 30 minutes His Honor was virtually retired from creating such lines as these. Then he returned to the wars. He was sitting in the dance-permit office talking politics and police with newspapermen when Mr. Michael Poti emerged from the lobby and announced he wanted a 1934 dance permit for the Caruso Restaurant, in Liberty avenue.

This was the second time the Mayor had been confronted with this issue, and his solution was unchanged. He said he didn't see why you should have to get a permit for a dance when you don't need a permit for a dance in your home. And he sent the happy Mr. Poti away with this assurance:

"You can go back and hold your dance, and if any policeman interrupts you, tell him you were talking to the Mayor."

It was about 2 o'clock then, and the Mayor remembered he had an appointment with his police magistrates to discuss abolishing the all-inclusive suspicious-person charge, so, while the magistrates waited, he went out to get a shave.

and Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall yesterday.

The instructions, coming from officials who served in Republican regimes, were construed as an admission, not even tacit, that vice existed under political protection in the past.

HILL POLICE PRAISED

Tribute to the police of the Hill district was paid by Sidney A. Teller, director of Irene Kaufmann Settlement. He praised Capt. John Schnurr and his men for their activity, and said there was a decided improvement in the district, but there was still much to be done.

Pledging co-operation of the Hill social agencies, he said:

"Many of the poolrooms are breeding places of vice and crime, and we have asked the superintendent of police not to renew the license of any place which cannot show a clean past record. Also some of the pawnshops have been displaying firearms and selling them contrary to law. All of this must be stopped."

Oakland police knocked off a 500-gallon liquor still in a raid on a residence at 4107 Beechwood boulevard this morning. The raid followed arrest of Joseph Busha, 33, of 1618 Fifth avenue, with 75-gallon cans of moony in his automobile, police said.

John Stein, 26, said to have been in charge of the still, also was arrested. Lieut. John Showalter led the raiding squad.

Both Busha and Stein were held for court by Magistrate Charles McCall in Oakland Police Station.

REVENUE AGENTS ACTIVE

State revenue agents and city police raided a one-man club today at 934 Reedsdale street, North Side. Joseph Schaffer, 38, was arrested, and a small quantity of wine, whisky and beer was confiscated. Schaffer was held at North Side Police Station for a hearing tomorrow morning. Police said he had no license to sell beer or liquor.

In two other raids last night, police arrested Philip Robbibarro, 43, of 507 Foreland street, and Carl Hoffman, 42, of 114 West South Diamond street, and seized moonshine liquor. Both were turned over to state authorities on charges of violating the state liquor laws.

Five others were held for court at hearings on charges of violating the state laws. They are Alex Manant, Sr., and his two sons, Alex, Jr., and Charles, of Carnegie; Louis H. Kahn, proprietor of Kahn's beer garden at 1716 Murray avenue, and Sylvester Zak, 19, of 1915 Larkins way, South Side.

WILLIAMS SEES QUIET TIMES

Percy R. Williams, secretary to Mayor William N. McNair and chief city assessor, is looking ahead to more tranquil times in city affairs, he said at a testimonial dinner last night in the German United Evangelical Church, 1722 Jane street, in honor of Councilman Thomas J. Gallagher.

Williams said the first few days of the administration had been "strenuous." Mayor McNair was slated as a speaker but did not attend.

FRICK COMPANY TOLD TO SIGN WITH UNION

closed hearing on the company's dispute with the elected representatives of its employes.

The dispute, growing out of the company's refusal to negotiate a "union" contract also involves the "check-off," or method of collecting union dues.

JOIN NRA DEFIANCE

By its stand on the contract issue, the Frick Company joined the ranks of the Weirton Steel Company, of Weirton, W. Va., and the E. G. Budd Manufacturing Company, of Philadelphia, first to defy rulings of the Labor Board.

The Budd and Weirton concerns refused to permit the board to supervise elections of employe-representatives at their plants.

Judge Miller told the board:

"Nothing I may say can be construed to mean that you have the power to make us sign a contract with the United Mine Workers, except as individuals representing our employes."

Miller insisted the October 30 agreement was their pact with the President and that signing a union contract and arbitration by the National Labor Board were not included.

PLEA FOR MINERS

Both Lewis and Murray denied they ever had asked for a closed shop, stating certain mines under contract with the union employed non-union miners. Lewis added that miners, free of company interference, desire to join the union.

Miller was asked if his company would refrain from discriminating against men for joining a union. He replied that to discriminate against union men would be a violation of the law, "assuming that the recovery act is law."

In addition to Miller, the owners were represented by Thomas Moses, president of the Frick company, and W. L. Irvin, president of the United States Steel Corporation.

PAY TAXES, TIP TO JOBHOLDERS

Mayor William N. McNair wants all city employes who are property owners to pay their taxes promptly.

This became apparent today as 1,500 employes of various departments received their delayed pay in cash for the last two weeks of December.

As each one presented his slip to Paymaster Louis Glesenkamp, he was given an envelope containing the pay along with a slip which read:

"Request of W. N. McNair, Mayor—Please pay promptly any taxes on property under your control or assist in whatever way possible to have your friends do so."

About $80,000 was to be paid out today. Additional employes will be paid each day for the next week until the entire payroll is met.

Receipts from 1934 taxes continued to pour into the treasury as the city controller's office kept up the stream of tax statements to property holders.

MISS MARY E. KANE

RELATIVES GET PAYROLL JOBS

Miss Mary E. Kane, a sister of Assemblyman Leonard P. Kane and sister-in-law of former Councilman Frank L. Duggan, has been given a place on the city payroll.

Miss Jeannette Huston, 4736 Kincaid street, daughter of the new Democratic councilman, John M. Huston, also has a job.

Miss Huston is now engaged at $3.50 per day as an extra clerk in the City Controller's office. She and about 75 other extra workers are preparing 1934 tax bills for the mails.

Huston was candid in explaining his daughter's employment. He said:

"Yes, that's right. My daughter is working as an extra clerk. I got her on through Dr. Kerr. I'm not ashamed of it. Everything's O. K."

Dr. James P. Kerr, City Controller, said yesterday that he hires the extra clerks.

Miss Kane also holds a position as extra clerk.

Former Councilman Duggan denied that his influence with Controller Kerr got his sister-in-law on the payroll.

Third Scrip Issue Voted in Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The City Council yesterday authorized a third scrip issue, for 13 million dollars, to help carry the city through the fiscal year ending June 30 next.

The first issue of 18 million dollars was put through last spring and the second for 10 million dollars was authorized last fall. The issue now authorized today will be dated February 15 and will mature next August 16.

CWA TO UPHOLD UNION RIGHTS ON PROJECTS

Pitt Cathedral Job Cited by Hopkins In Wage Dispute

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Support of the policy to employ only union men on skilled labor jobs on CWA projects in communities where organized labor prevails was announced today by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. At the same time he declared CWA officials and foremen would not be permitted to interfere in questions of wage disputes raised by organized labor.

Hopkins spoke specifically of Pittsburgh projects. In the case of the Cathedral of Learning he said skilled workers employed by the CWA should conform to all the regulations imposed by the contract for the original structure. He said:

"It is our definite policy to employ union men for skilled labor where closed shop conditions exist, and in Pittsburgh doubtless the CWA men could be supplied by the unions. This means that union wages will be paid. I am delighted to hear that this is the case."

Hopkins explained where union men were not available in relief ranks, any CWA workers recruited for a job under closed shop conditions should be paid the union scale for skilled work.

He declared the Civil Works Administration would not tolerate conflict with workers where disputes arose. He said:

"It has grown to be a custom that every time a man who rises up to defend labor or make a speech regarding living conditions he is classed as a 'Red.' We must not forget that these people usually are free-born American citizens and are sincere in their interest for their fellow men. They have a perfect right to hold mass meetings as long as they preserve order.

"Ours is not a Red-baiting organization and we shall make every effort to avoid becoming involved in controversy. We are too busy trying to get millions back to work and improve their living conditions to mix up in any kind of disputes. CWA officials or foremen who presume to assert their authority in antagonizing these people will be fired."

State Employment Head Rules On Union Men

Ralph W. Gibbs, director of the State-Federal Employment Agency here, said he had received verbal orders from A. W. Motley, state employment head, that all unfinished jobs, resumed with CWA funds, were to employ the same percentage of union labor as they had under private supervision. Attempts to procure a written confirmaton of the order from Harrisburg have been unsuccessful, Gibbs said.

A closed shop policy had been followed on the Pitt operation previously, so men working there now are union men. Gibbs said he was merely following orders in eliminating non-union labor.

STUART APPROVES

James L. Stuart, county administrator, expressed his belief that the policy is fair, saying that a change from closed shop to open shop on a project probably would prove unpopular.

Eric H. Biddle, State Civil Works Administrator, has announced no further projects will be accepted from Allegheny County pending a meeting in Harrisburg on January 9 of deputies and administrators from Pennsylvania counties.

Difficulty was encountered by city works officials in the launching of the third section of their employment campaign this week. Henry D. Johnson, city engineer, said:

"On some jobs there were no tools, on others no workmen, and on still others no foremen. On only one project were the three essentials present."

DRIVE CONTINUES

He predicted the three would be successfully combined today, however, and the drive would be progressing smoothly by the end of the week.

The confusion has been attributed to failure of city supervisors to specify exactly where workers are to report. A corps of men taken in city trucks to Obey School yesterday spent the day waiting to be told where to begin work. No supervisor apppeared, and nothing was accomplished. A city engineer informed the men later they would be paid for an hour's work.

CWA Demobilization Starts in February

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(INS.)—Demobilization of civil works employes will begin about February 15, particularly in the southern states, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, said today.

This demobilization must take place even if Congress votes the extra 350 million dollars recently requested, Hopkins said.

Pittsburgh Riverman Killed on Railroad

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 5.—Guy Muray, 50, Pittsburgh riverman, was killed under a freight train here today. Murray, a fireman on the Pittsburgh Coal Company's steamer Beacon, anchored at Pike mine overnight, apparently was returning to the boat when he stepped in the path of an engine.

Ingrate, Says LaGuardia, Makes Good Mayor

By CHARLES H. BAYER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Within the ranks of his own Republican party, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia is confronted with a threat of rebellion that very shortly will determine whether his non-political credo is adamant or flexible.

No less than their Tammany cousins, Republican district leaders nourish their locality prestige through distribution of patronage. The spoils system, long the boon of politicians and the bane of the city, has been thrust out by LaGuardia as a menace to his program of municipal rehabilitation.

More than one Republican district leader, striving with tremendous zeal in the campaign to effect LaGuardia's election, believed that the candidate had his tongue in his cheek when he vowed that once in City Hall he would forego all political considerations.

They were amazed and chagrined when LaGuardia ignored them completely and stepped into non-political fields for his cabinet aides. Swallowing that bitter pill, they have been hopeful that he would, at least, give them minor plums. LaGuardia has given no evidence of such intent. Indeed, he has thrown down the gauntlet:

"One has to be an ingrate if he is to be a good Mayor. I have turned down intimate friends for the places they wanted because I did not consider them qualified for the jobs, and these were men who worked hard for my election. Quite possibly, there may be a fusion of politicians to sabotage the administration."

It has been conveyed to LaGuardia that if he expects these leaders to instruct their Assemblymen in support of the measures he seeks of the Legislature, it would be wise for him to "play ball" by distributing patronage among the leaders who control legislative votes.

VILLAGE ORDERED ABANDONED IN ANTHRAX OUTBREAK

100 CHILDREN MENACED BY DISEASE

Families Defy Edict, Too Poor to Flee Deadly Scourge

MEDIA, Pa., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Get out!

That notice has been served on every family in the village of Sackville. The 80 homes in the 135-year-old wool mill community have been ordered abandoned because of an outbreak of a dangerous disease, anthrax.

The order was given yesterday by R. H. Sack, who personally owns the dwellings and is president of the Sackville Mills Company, on which the village depends for its livelihood.

It is to protect the 100 children from the disease that he has ordered the settlement vacated, Sack said. He added that "a reasonable time" will be given the residents in which to comply.

But fathers and mothers are shaking their heads. Working folk who live in a village without sewers, running water or electricity can ill afford to transplant their families to another town.

Sack declared:

"We are not afraid of an epidemic. There has been one death from the disease and a number made ill. Wool workers do not fear the disease, as it is not serious if treated promptly."

The anthrax first was contracted in the carding room of the mill, where sorters are believed to have handled wool from a diseased animal. "Woolsorters' disease" is another name for the disease, caused by bacteria.

Workers are wearing masks and gloves to prevent infection, Sack said.

Telling of his efforts to protect nonworkers, Sack said:

"We have been soaking the ground throughout the village with gasoline and burning it to get rid of any germs that may be there."

Three hundred persons are affected by the order to evacuate Sackville, which is three miles south of Media, Delaware County seat, and 10 miles southwest of Philadelphia.

SPY SUSPECTS' LIBERTY DENIED

PARIS, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—A formal plea for liberty by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, of East Orange, N. J., held in connection with investigation of an alleged spy ring, was denied today by a magistrate, who asked that they be held in jail pending completion of the inquiry.

The first court hearing was granted the American couple along with scores of other prisoners—including eight others the police charge are spies—in accordance with a law providing that every prisoner appear in court at least once monthly.

Questioned as to documents police said they seized in the Switzes' hotel room, the Americans replied that they were victims of a "frameup."

Weather Conditions.

The low pressure that was centered over Arkansas yesterday morning moved northward and is now centered over Wisconsin. It produced light to moderately heavy rainfall over most of the states east of the plains states during the last 24 hours, and is still attended by cloudy weather with rain over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region and light snow over the Upper Mississippi Valley states. There was a marked rise in temperature over the states east of Indiana, little change over the Mississippi Valley states and a rise over Manitoba and Saskatchewan. It is somewhat colder than yesterday over the Rocky Mountain states. There is no cold weather indicated for the next several days.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling this morning or about stationary. Moderately heavy rainfall over the Upper Monongahela basin and over the headwaters of the Kiskiminetas will likely cause a slight rise in the Monongahela and the lower Allegheny rivers. Stage at Franklin is 6.6 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 15.9; Pittsburgh, 16.4; Dam No. 4, 14.0; No. 6, 15.5; No. 10, 17.0, and No. 12, 18.7. The dams are down.

'JILTED' SUITOR ARRESTED IN GIRL'S DEATH

Love Tryst Murder New Theory in Mystery

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—A young married man described as the rejected suitor of attractive Leota Childress, 18-year-old foster daughter of a well-to-do farmer, was held on a blanket warrant today as officials pressed an investigation into her strange death.

First supposed to have been slain by four robbers who found her alone at home, then believed to have perpetrated a fantastic suicide, and now again listed as a murder victim—such has been the progress of the probe into the baffling circumstances of the young girl's death.

FINAL TRYST SEEN

The girl's erstwhile admirer, Andrew Smoot, was taken into custody at Schoolfield, Va., last night after Solicitor J. R. Jones said he had uncovered evidence leading him to believe the girl had held a final tryst with Smoot, the day of her death, before breaking off their relationship because of Smoot's steadfast refusal to divorce his estranged wife.

The girl had pleaded with Smoot to obtain a divorce and when he failed to carry out a promise to do so by Christmas, she resolved to sever their friendship, the Solicitor said he had learned by questioning friends and examining correspondence between the man and the girl.

MURDER THEORY

Solicitor Jones said he was convinced the girl had been slain, and that theory of suicide was out of the question.

She was found lying on the floor of her home, a bullet through her heart, by neighbors who had heard her plea for help on a party telephone line. She said:

"Send help quick. Robbers are tearing up the place."

Then the receiver crashed.

An examination of the house, which apparently had been ransacked, revealed that $610 was missing. It was presumed the robbers had slain the girl and taken the money. A little later, however, a note was found in the girl's apron, saying that she would rather die than reveal to the robbers the place where the money was kept, and that she hid it in an outhouse. The money was found there intact.

Officers, regarding the story as incredible, then considered a theory that the girl, sorrowing over her love affair, had concocted a weird plot to cover up her suicide, but Solicitor Jones quoted physicians as saying the position of the body and powder marks on her apron indicated that she could not have killed herself with a .22 rifle found in the room, and ordered Smoot's arrest.

Billings Parole Plea Up Tomorrow

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Warren K. Billings, convicted with Thomas J. Mooney of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, will come before the state board considering his parole application here tomorrow.

The convict, whose application filed last October ended his 17-year alliance with Mooney for nothing less than a pardon, wants to go to his 78-year-old mother in Brooklyn, N. Y., he said.

FUNDS LACKING, LIONS STARVE

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Pedro, leader of the Longfellow Zoo's pack of lions, is dead, and "Captain" A. M. O'Reilly, his trainer, has quit his job.

They say Pedro died of pneumonia, but O'Reilly knows it was because "Pedro didn't get enough to eat."

Not only did Pedro die of starvation, the "Captain" stated, but the remainder of the large group of lions is facing the same fate. He said:

"They need food and medicine. And fuel is needed to keep them warm."

And why are these kings of the jungle unfed in their zoo homes? Because, says the "Captain," there is no money with which to buy them food.

Longfellow Gardens, located near the city's famed Minnehaha Falls, once attracted thousands of visitors, but in recent years since the falls dried up and the automobile provided new diversions, there has been a struggle to keep the zoo and its collections of beasts together.

GIRL TRAPPED IN BURNING CAR

Miss Anna Deudak, 23, of 433 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, was in Presbyterian Hospital in a serious condition today suffering injuries and burns received as the automobile in which she was a passenger burst into flames after colliding with a truck and overturning against a fire plug.

The accident occurred in North avenue, near Federal street.

Two companions of Miss Deudak, Harry Hubbs, 33, of 925 Russellwood avenue, McKees Rocks, son of the chief of police of Brownsville, and Albert Lufrano, 21, of 510 Island avenue, were less seriously injured. They were taken to Presbyterian Hospital.

Hubbs, an East Liberty druggist, was thrown from the machine.

Lufrano pulled Miss Deudak from the machine, but not before she had been burned about the legs and face.

Hubbs and the driver of the truck, Antonio Parrino, 40, of 20 Jacksonia street, were arrested.

'Mystery Woman' In Brougham Divorce

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(INS.)—A woman identified only as "Miss Seton" intervened yesterday in the divorce action filed by Lady Brougham and Vaux, the former Valerie French, granddaughter of the first Earl of Ypres. The action is expected to be heard shortly.

Lady Brougham and Vaux was at one time engaged to Bradley Martin, Jr., of New York.

MARY DEFENDS SELFISH WIVES

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—There'd be a school for wives in this country that would teach them how to be "reasonably selfish" if Mary Pickford had her way. She said:

"Women ought to learn that kindness is sometimes the most devastating and weakening influence. Wives especially make this mistake. There ought to be a school where women are taught how to be reasonably selfish. It is the unselfish ones who ruin themselves and everyone depending upon them."

"America's Sweetheart' said she had made a New Years resolution to treat herself as well as she treats the persons she likes best.

Her comment was made yesterday after her arrival in Chicago to fill a theatrical engagement.

She said she thought there was no possibility of a reconcilation with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, whom she has sued for divorce.

U. S. WILL SUE DOUG ON TAX

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—A civil suit against Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., motion picture actor now in England, to recover approximately $72,000 is to be filed by the federal government in District Court, it was announced by United States District Attorney Peirson Hall.

Hall received authorization from Attorney General Cummings to file the suit.

According to Cummings, Fairbanks was erroneously and illegally given refunds on income tax payments for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929 in the amounts of $53,231, $7,507, and $677, respectively. The government is to ask the return of this money plus interest amounting to over $10,000.

In Cummings' communication, it was revealed the suit is to be based on a re-examination of the actual value of four million dollars worth of stock in the Elton Corporation which Fairbanks received in exchange for rights in certain motion pictures.

'BAWLED OUT' IN PRINT, DUKE SUES NIECE

Briton Resents Article Lady Sibell Wrote For Magazine

By THOMAS C. WATSON
Universal Service.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Pretty young London society girls who are socialists cannot bawl out their uncles in print and get away with it.

Lady Sibell Lygon, 26, daughter of Earl Beauchamp, found this out yesterday when her uncle, the Duke of Westminster, prominent British landowner, issued a writ claiming damages against her.

Lady Sibell, whose blood runs deep blue, is socialist editor of the Oxford and Cambridge Magazine, owned by Earl Beauchamp. In a recent number she criticized the Duke of Westminster for spending so much time and money in France.

She mentioned that the duke had met with troubles in the British Isles, where he is barred by tradition from court circles because of two divorces. Lady Sibell added that dukes are "to be looked up to."

The duke, however, failed to turn the other cheek. Had he not sloughed off his tenants' arrears in rent at the time of his last marriage? Is he not known as a generous host, friend and landkeeper? He promptly issued the writ, asking damages.

The Duke of Westminster owns hundreds of acres of valuable London property and has vast British and Scottish estates. He is a yachtsman of note and fought against the Boers and in the World War. And yesterday he took up the challenge of another conflict—in the family this time.

DAUGHTER BUYS M'CORMICK FURS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Two opulent fur capes, from among the many treasures of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, were put on the auction block, and for the first time since the sale of her effects began, Mrs. McCormick's daughter, Muriel, showed signs of emotion.

She bought both—an expensive affair of chinchilla, and a striking Russian ermine. Spectators around her noticed that she flushed and seemed upset.

Her perturbation was quite foreign to the composure with which she has watched her mother's belongings auctioned off during the three past days.

As usual, she sat with her husband, Maj. E. D. Hubbard, and as usual she bought lavishly. Her purchases amounted to almost $20,000. But everything about yesterday's sale was lavish, for a crowd of 2,500 of the wealthy and curious packed every inch of the auction room.

PASTOR SCORES IN DEATH TRIAL

International News Service.

PIGGOTT, Ark., Jan. 5.—Testimony given by a defense witness that John MacMurdo, slain janitor of the strife-torn Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle, threatened to kill the Rev. Dale S. Crowley if he ever entered the church caused a stir today in the pastor's trial for murder.

Homer King, non-member of the two warring church factions, scored heavily for Crowley's defense when he testified MacMurdo had told him he aimed to kill the pastor if he "ever came inside the tabernacle door."

Five days prior to the fatal shooting of MacMurdo, King went to the tabernacle, he said, and the aged janitor showed him three holes that had been drilled in the wall. MacMurdo placed a pistol in one of the apertures and told King that he could "pick Crowley off" from any part of the auditorium, the witness testified.

"Ten years is the minimum age the law allows for sterilization with the consent of the guardians' court."

EVA LE GALLIENNE WRITES BOOK

Autobiography Lauds Ethel Barrymore as 'Really Grand'

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Some of the background of Ethel Barrymore's recent hurried trip to Philadelphia in defense of Eva Le Gallienne comes to light in Miss Le Gallienne's autobiography, "At 33," published today. She writes:

"The two seasons I spent in support of Miss Barrymore were of immense importance in the development of my work . . . Only those who have been privileged to work with her in the theater know what a really grand person she is.

"Underneath any moodiness or occasional temperamental fireworks, she has a warmth and generosity of spirit which compel undying devotion in anyone who has ever known her. She is one of the few stars now a days who still inspire their companies with an almost fanatical loyalty."

Miss Barrymore joined Miss Le Gallienne earlier in the winter in criticizing a Philadelphia women's club after Miss Le Gallienne had not kept a lecture engagement.

Talking pictures, Miss Le Gallienne says in the book, do not conflict with the theater. She writes:

"Canned vegetables can never take the place of those picked fresh from the garden. No matter how good the record of a voice, it cannot supplant the living voice itself.

"There is an element of surprise about the living performance of a great actor in a great part; you, as a member of the audience, by your very response or indifference become a factor in the miracle that may happen . . .

"No! It is not from without that the theater is in danger; it is from within.

"In the old days, the palmy days of the theater, an actor could also be a stage hand, a stage hand could also be a musician, a musician could also be a playwright . . . provided he was competent for the jobs.

"Nowadays we are all specialists, belonging to certain unions and controlled by them. This situation has brought about much good, but also some evils."

MISS EVA LeGALLIENNE . . . . SHE TELLS ALL ABOUT ETHEL

Wife, 60, Wed 30 Years, Tells of Cruelty, Sues

Thirty years ago Wilhelmina Mohn married John Mohn, a farmer, of Wexford. Today, before Judge Harry H. Rowand, she asked that the court grant her a divorce.

She is 60, she testified, and he, although he wouldn't disclose his age, she added, must be nearly 70. They have five children.

On July 1, he came to the farmhouse drunk, and beat her with the handle of a pitchfork, she said. She related that she spent two weeks in the Valley Hospital at Sewickley, after eight stitches were required to close the wound in her head. He threatened either to kill her or send her to the "crazy house," she added, saying that as a result he was sentenced to two years in jail, with the limitation of three months and then probation.

CO-OPERATION PUSHED BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt and Congress, working so far in a spirit of team play, concentrated today on a developing program for permanent domestic readjustment, which largely shoved aside international problems.

The President called in House leaders in charge of appropriations in the first of the promised executive-congressional co-operation conferences.

PARLEY ARRANGED

Mr. Roosevelt arranged to talk with Chairman Buchanan, of the House Appropriations Committee, and the chairmen of the subcommittees on appropriation with a view to keeping expenditures within a 10,000 million dollar budget for this year and the 6,000 million dollar budget announced for next year.

Quarters close to the President represented him today as pleased both at the general tenor on Capitol Hill and the speed at which Congress is tackling its tasks.

Indications came from the White House, meanwhile, that Mr. Roosevelt is giving renewed consideration to his bi-metallic monetary program. Leaders of the silver bloc in the Senate were predicting optimistically today a new administration move to aid the cause of the white metal.

As the Roosevelt-Congress domestic program took shape, word came from Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, as the aftermath of a White House parley that the long pending protocol for American adherence to the World Court would be sidetracked but that early consideration would be given to ratification of the pact with Canada for development of the St. Lawrence waterway.

PRESIDENT CALM

The general support given his message to Congress and his startling nine billion dollar deficit announcement, was received quite calmly by the President as he turned to details of his congressional program.

Indications of new administration action to aid silver were strengthened today by Senator Robinson's confident prophesy that there would be no silver legislation at this session.

Observers coupled this forecast with the fact that support for action favoring the white metal apparently has grown on Capitol Hill. They pointed out also that two Democratic silver leaders in the Senate—Wheeler, of Montana, and King, of Utah—appeared pleased after a talk with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday but would not predict presidential approval of their 16 to 1 measure.

Apparently something is in the wind, but those who have talked with the President concerning his monetary policy are saying nothing, even though giving indications of believing strongly that a new domestic money plan is in the offing.

Here again, Mr. Roosevelt has cast aside international negotiations, asserting other nations are not prepared for permanent currency stabilization on a world-wide basis.

DOMESTIC READJUSTMENT

The whole administration-congressional program is very pointedly based on a domestic readjustment.

As soon as Secretary Hull returns from the Pan-American conference at Montevideo, the President will go over and transmit to Congress his reciprocal tariff plan, but even that contemplates no world-wide tariff revision. Rather it will center on understandings with individual nations.

A little later, and probably in the same connection, Mr. Roosevelt will propose something on war debts.

While still determined to concentrate primary attention upon budget matters, the President is expected to pass on to Congress shortly, possibly through special messages, his requests on continuation of the RFC at least until June 30; continuation of the Civilian Conservation Corps; alteration of the NRA and Securities Acts, and possibly stock market regulation."

House Due to Vote Extension for RFC

VASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Speaker Rainey today predicted the House next week will vote extension of the life of the Reconstruction Corporation. Its authorized tenure expires the latter part of this month.

Rainey also indicated that the corporation's lending authority would be extended probably for a year.

Congress Sifts Problems of Huge Budget

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Congress was still half-stunned today by the revelation that the federal budget is over 7,000 million dollars "in the red," that federal expenditures this year will exceed 10,000 million dollars, and that the national debt in 1935 will reach an all-time high record of nearly 32,000 million dollars.

This "brutally frank" picture of federal finances was placed before Congress by President Roosevelt in submitting the greatest peace-time budget in the country's history. The phrase "brutally frank" is his own. It staggered Democrat and Republican alike.

After the first shock of surprise the Democrats were inclined to be philosophical about it. They shrugged it off by saying it was the cost of national recovery, and they stoutly asserted the country is recovering.

At the same time, the Republicans felt that President Roosevelt has at last given them an issue upon which they can go to the country in the approaching congressional elections—the issue of Democratic spending.

On all sides the question arose:

"Where is the money coming from?"

To that question there were various replies, depending upon the particular slant of whoever was replying.

President Roosevelt frankly informed Congress that in the next six months the government must borrow approximately 10,000 million dollars, of which 6,000 million dollars is new money, and 4,000 million dollars to finance maturing securities.

The manner in which this is to be accomplished was not disclosed, but there was no intimation that other than the usual methods will be pursued—i.e., public offerings of government securities.

Many Republicans privately expressed doubt that the public, even though business is getting better, is in a position to absorb 10,000 million dollars in new government obligations during the next six months. Some Democrats were inclined to agree with that view.

However, it was pointed out that the President still has a couple of aces in the hole. If the bankers hold back in the refinancing program, if they insist upon interest rates which the administration considers unjustifiably high, or, in short, if there is any attempt at "gouging," the administration has an unused weapon at its command.

This weapon is the so-called Thomas amendment, under which the President can, if he chooses, devalue the dollar down to 50 cents gold, and issue 3,000 million dollars in new currency.

By impounding in the Treasury all the gold now held in the Federal Reserve banks and devaluing the gold content of the dollar 50 per cent, the government would net a clear profit of about 3,600 million dollars in terms of the revalued gold.

Should this procedure be adopted, it was pointed out, and Mr. Roosevelt use this prerogative of issuing 3,000 million dollars in new currency, it would provide the Treasury with nearly the 7,000 million dollars which the budget is in the red. That it would constitute inflation is conceded, but those who favor this course assert it would be sound and modest inflation, and not of the type to seriously disturb the country.

U. S. HASTENS FINANCING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Terming market reaction to President Roosevelt's budget message "very good," Secretary Morgenthau said today the Treasury will begin "right soon" on its 10,000 million dollar financing program.

The President's chief financial aide, whose confirmation in his new post by the Senate is expected next week, also disclosed that an intensive effort to collect back taxes is in the making, he having summoned internal revenue collectors and agents to confer with him January 17.

Back taxes exceed 800 million dollars, he told reporters, and the Treasury plans to see how much of this can be brought in as nourishment for the Treasury, whose books—the President told Congress yesterday—would be some 9,000 million dollars off balance within two years because of the recovery program needs.

Morgenthau said:

"We will work out a quota on back taxes for each internal revenue collector, put the quota up on a blackboard and see how far the collectors can bring down their quotas.

"We'll have a little rivalry."

Morgenthau said that just now the Treasury has no definite plans as to the exact date of the first financing issue, its size, or the type of obligation to be offered.

DEBT CUT FIGHT CERTAIN IN CONGRESS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The reported intent of President Roosevelt to propose a downward revision of America's 11,565 million dollars foreign debt total today developed terrific opposition on Capitol Hill.

The Republican minorities in House and Senate were ready to battle the President on the debt issue—and with considerable Democratic help. This was indicated when Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, regarded as rather friendly to Mr. Roosevelt, secured prompt Senate action on a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for a report on the present status of the foreign debts.

BORAH SEES ATTACK

Borah admitted:

"It was the forerunner of an attack on those governments which failed to pay their debts."

In other quarters it was interpreted as the opening shot in a Republican attack on any administration move to reduce the debts. It is an open secret that Mr. Roosevelt favors some sort of debt concessions—kind and extent unspecified. Likewise, it is believed he favors trade concessions to many foreign nations in an effort to build up America's foreign trade.

The Republicans will fight him on both grounds. They will oppose trade concessions to any of the defaulting debtor nations and they will oppose any reduction of the debts in return for trade concessions to the United States.

BLAST BY REED

The attitude of Republicans was expressed by Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania. Reed said:

"It seems to me there is less excuse now than ever before for cancellation of further reduction of those debts. I think the defaults, that have occurred, were deeply resented by the American people.

"When I view the enormous deficit, indicated by the President's budget message, and hear that there is a likelihood of a further debt cancellation, I am sure the American taxpayer is the forgotten man."

Plan to Guarantee Farm Bonds Backed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—A bill for government guarantee of both principal and interest on Farm Credit Administration bonds issued in exchange for farm mortgages appeared certain today to have administration support.

While President Roosevelt conferred at the White House again with Gov. Myers, of the Farm Credit Administration, Chairman Smith, of the Senate Agriculture Committee, announced that such legislation would be put before both branches of Congress next week.

'ALICE' HOLDS COURT AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Legal celebrities of the federal government gathered at the White House last night to meet the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, to chat with the cabinet, and to munch cookies and drink punch in a gallant mood.

The occasion was the annual White House reception to the Supreme Court.

Flanked by White House aides resplendent in gold braid, the President seemed in a happy mood and Mrs. Roosevelt, standing next to him, was a stately figure in a simple silver-brocaded white gown.

The guest list included all the justices of the Supreme Court, headed by their chief, Charles Evans Hughes.

In one corner of the state dining room Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, must have relived some of her debutante days. Around her gathered a gay and bantering throng of the veterans in capital life.

The crowd remarked:

"Alice is holding court again."

But the one-time queen of the White House said a warm goodby to her cousins now living there and left early.

There was interest among the guests in the cabinet. They exclaimed at the youth of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his wife; they seemed very interested in the new Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and his young wife and her gold-cloth dress; and they all wanted to see the rather shy Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins, who took an early leave.

STATE ORDERS LABELLING OF LIQUOR

'STRAIGHT' WHISKY

"Straight" whisky, rum or brandy shall mean whisky, rum or brandy which is the product of a single distillery.

Whisky, rum or brandy "blend" shall mean a mixture of two or more straight whiskies or rums or brandies of different ages not excluding harmless coloring or flavoring ingredients used solely for the purpose of coloring or flavoring.

Whisky, rum or brandy "compound" shall mean a mixture of straight or blended whisky, rum, brandy, spirits, harmless coloring or flavoring used solely for the purpose of coloring and flavoring, and any other harmless ingredient.

Braddock Liquor Store May Open Monday

As the Liquor Control Board issued its label edict, Philip W. Gundelfinger, district superintendent here, announced that Allegheny County's second of 21 state liquor stores "probably" will open at 849 Braddock avenue, Braddock, next Monday.

LIQUOR ANALYZED

Meanwhile independent analysis by City Chemist F. C. Buckmaster has proved that the whiskies, gins and other brands of liquor are "just what America was buying before prohibition," according to the Control Board.

Defending its liquid products, the board said complaints against the quality of state store liquors were "based on false knowledge," adding:

"Actually, pre-prohibition sales in America were largely those of blended whisky made by mixing bonded whiskies with newer whisky which was not bonded, and with distilled spirits.

"His conclusions are that the cheaper brands are relatively just as good as the more expensive which are higher in alcoholic content, and which have more of a flavor because old whisky was used as a base."

Harold B. Gelman, of 5710 Munhall road, has been named manager of a state liquor store to be opened at 4761 Liberty avenue, according to announcement today by the Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg. Gelman's aides, according to the Associated Press, will be Robert P. Colborn, of 3829 Liberty avenue, assistant manager; Jerome Stable, 1723 Murray avenue; John J. Burns, 61 Lincoln avenue; C. Edward Balcerzan, 221 Steuben street, and Curtis Andrew Greiner 809 Cruicible street, clerks.

Other Pittsburghers appointed to positions include: Kenneth E. Burke, 321 Atwood street; Ernest W. Rehorst, 2612 Norwood street, and George J. Fossett, 406 College avenue, Oakmont, clerks; Rose Marie Beardsley, 875 Neely Heights avenue, Coraopolis; Gertrude M. Nugent, 121 Orchard street, Pittsburgh, and Clara D. Milano, 1205 Beaver avenue, stenographer-clerks; Harry Listenes, 751 North Negley avenue, assistant accountant, and Anna Siegag, Tarentum, junior stenographer-clerk.

Among 18 applications for licenses as retailer dealers refused were Joseph Lerner, 2135 Wylie avenue; Liberty Hall, 2204 Carson street; Joseph Yagatich, 3329 Penn avenue. Licenses were issued to 83 applicants bringing the total to 5,133.

Contracts were announced in Harrisburg today for remodeling the following liquor store sites in the Pittsburgh district: 14 East North Diamond street, Pittsburgh; 16 West Eighth avenue, Homestead; 999 Merchant street, Ambridge, and 304 North Main street, Butler.

RUM PRICE CUT AIM OF U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—A plan intended to decrease the price of liquor is being formulated by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., Federal Alcohol Control Administrator.

Choate also told newspapermen he had telegraphed governors of the 21 wet states, including Pennsylvania, for any information they had concerning the sale of "adulterated or unwholesome liquor" which can be traced to wholesalers or manufacturers.

This was intended, he explained, as a move to increase the supply of wholesome liquor.

The Administrator said he would complete his price-reducing plan soon, adding:

"I hope we will be able to shorten the spread between the manufacturer and the retailer."

He made clear states alone have authority over retailers.

Liquor Stores Ban Personal Checks

HARRISBURG, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Your check's no good in a state liquor store—unless you happen to have a hotel, restaurant or club license.

The Liquor Control Board said the stores have been instructed not to accept personal checks, but may cash checks presented by licensees in payment for liquor.

Row Over Who Carried First Bottle Stirs House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The simple question—"Who carried the first bottle?"—sent the House of Representatives a-tingling today.

Two Illinois members—Britten and Sabath, were the principals, the former being an advocate of an embargo against French wines.

Sabath told Britten, with a reproachful air:

"You are an expert on French wines. I don't want to talk to you."

Britten returned:

"I want to ask the gentleman when he is going to pay back that bottle of gin he borrowed from me three years ago?"

Face reddening, Sabath waved his hand toward Britten to cease:

"I'll return it when it is legal. I don't want to carry it through the streets."

Demanded Britten with an incredulous tone:

"You don't want to carry it? Who carried the first bottle?"

The exchange stopped there.

GROCERY CODE APPROVED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—President Roosevelt today approved the code of fair practices and competition for the wholesale food and grocery trade, affecting 13,000 establishments having net sales of $9,537,322,597 and employing about 185,000 workers.

This is the first major code that was transferred from the AAA recently for the NRA to handle.

Becoming effective Thursday, the code provides for a work-week of 44 hours, an average reduction of 15 hours, and is expected to result in a 15 per cent increase in employment.

Minimum rates of pay are fixed at $14.50 per week in cities over 500,000 population, $14 in cities of 100,000 to 500,000, $13 in cities between 25,000 and 100,000, and $11 in the smaller communities.

The Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse will present "Up Pops the Devil" in the Hotel Schenley Theater next week. The play, a comedy by Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich, will be given Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

BANKING CODE HEARING SET

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The schedule of service charges proposed by a group of New York banks last week, which so aroused Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's ire, today prompted him to call an opening hearing on a code of fair practices and competition for banks February 15.

Johnson said:

"It appeared that a deputy administrator negotiated that code with the New York banks as a general code to be adopted by various localities at their discretion, but it took me only 30 seconds to see that it offered no discretion except on the matter of hours.

"It was too far-reaching and couldn't be accepted."

Japanese War Lord Improves from Flu

TOKIO, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Gen. Sadao Araki, Minister of War, who developed pneumonia after an attack of influenza prevailing in epidemic form, is in no immediate danger, physicians said today.

HOUSE VOTES $2 TAX ON WHISKY

ored the sale of "good liquor" at cost. McKeown said:

"I hope we don't have liquor that will make a rat spit in a cat's face. I am going along with the committee on this bill."

O'Connor asked:

"Have you had a drink of this legal stuff they are putting out?"

Replied McKeown:

"No."

O'Connor said:

"I advise you not to."

Representative Rogers (Dem.), of New Hampshire, advocated a tax of $1 a gallon, asserting that the $2 rate was too much.

Chairman Doughton, of the Ways and Means Committee, said the $4 rate was "entirely unreasonable" and urged the House to reject it.

RATES CONSIDERED

The committee, he said, had carefully considered the rates proposed, and concluded that $2 was reasonable.

The Dirksen amendment for a $1.50 a gallon rate was defeated by a rising vote of 143 to 39.

Senate and House committees on the District of Columbia opened joint hearings on a liquor control bill for Washington. The most troublesome question to arise was whether the capital shall serve its liquor through government dispensaries or licensed dealers.

'Purified' Water Fatal to Goldfish

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Goldfish are dying by the bowlful as a result of recent high water here.

When the rising Spokane River caused seepage into wells of the city water supply, impurities were found in the drinking water and chlorine was added.

Dr. Ralph Hendricks, city health commissioner, said goldfish owners had complained to him that the chlorine was proving fatal to those dwellers in glass houses.

Schnitz and Knepp Fete May Be Set Back Again

The festival of the Schnitz and Knepp, now tentatively set for January 18, may be postponed if the Italian Democratic Committee has its way.

The committee has arranged a testimonial dinner for Mayor William N. McNair on that date, and accordingly has advised Burgess Harold McNair, of Middletown, Pa., that the "Schnitz-Knepp affair will have to be postponed until a later date." At the same time the Burgess was invited to attend the dinner.

Further, the committee advised Burgess McNair they had obtained the consent of Mayor McNair to attend the banquet as "originally promised."

DISTILLER SUIT HEARING SET

Hearing on suits filed in Federal Court by three distilling companies, attacking the constitutionality of the $2 a gallon floor tax under the Cordier Act on all prerepeal liquor, was set yesterday by Judge R. M. Gibson for January 18.

Postponements granted since the suits were filed early last month have been by agreement among counsel for the plaintiff concerns and state authorities. Under temporary injunctions, the state officials have been restrained from interfering with operations of Joseph S. Finch & Co., A. Overholt & Co. and the Large Distilling Company, pending hearings on applications for interlocutory injunctions.

The actions were brought by the three companies against William A. Schnader, Attorney General, and Leon D. Metzger, Secretary of Revenue.

'Social Visit' Traps Husband After Six Years

Vincent Donnelly, 28, of 112 Alcar street, after a six years' absence appeared at the home of his wife last night, announcing that he merely wanted to pay a "social visit."

Mrs. Donnelly, being skeptical, refused to admit him, and when he forced his way in, she forced her way out and called police. Arrested for disorderly conduct, Donnelly, at a hearing in Morals Court today, was accused by his wife of deserting her and her two children.

Civil Works Force In Pied Piper Role

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Lacking a Pied Piper, health authorities have asked for 900 men.

They requested the Civil Works Administration to provide the men to set traps in a drive against Philadelphia's rats. The rodent population is estimated at two million.

RUM LICENSE BAN FOUGHT

First appeal against the State Liquor Control Board refusing to grant a license was taken today by the Fern Garden Inn, near Carnegie, in Quarter Sessions Court.

The action was by Charles H. Rock, proprietor. Judge Slyvester J. Snee withheld decision. Attorney John D. Meyer, appearing for the board, charged Rock only cited one arrest for liquor law violations when applying for his license. Meyer produced United States Court records revealing Rock was arrested twice in 1929 and pleaded guilty to two charges of possession of beer.

Rock testified he had obtained a certified record from the court prior to filing the application. He assumed the record, which only cited the one case, was complete and had given the papers to Attorney James H. Duff for presentation with the application.

GLASS INDUSTRY SHOW HERE NEXT WEEK

Dealers' buyers from throughout the country will trek to Pittsburgh next week when the annual trade shows of the Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers opens Monday and continues eight days in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The shows, not open to the public, is reported by Manager J. M. Hammer as creating more interest among the manufacturers than in several previous years. Larger exhibition space is being engaged, he said. Orders during the show will indicate the business outlook for the year. Immediate and advance orders are placed by buyers representing the largest dealers in the country.

Manufacturers are expressing their faith in increased business by introducing a greater amount of new lines. The American dinnerware manufacturers will present a new trend in dinnerware with simplicity as the keynote.

Simultaneous with the American manufacturers' showing in the Fort Pitt, which will be the official headquarters of the group, independent dealers, importers and manufacturers will hold individual displays at the Hotel William Penn.

HIGH ALIMONY SET BY GARY

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—William M. Ritter, wealthy lumberman, of Washington, said in court yesterday he had been persuaded to agree to pay his former wife, Mrs. Gertrude Devine Webster, $70,000 a year by the late Elbert H. Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation.

Mrs. Webster, who is 63 years old, is suing her former husband to force him to pay her the amount stipulated in an agreement drawn up before they were divorced in 1922.

Ritter told the court he had already given Mrs. Webster $1,200,000, a Washington home and an estate in Manchester, Vt.

The witness told of long arguments over the terms of the agreement before it was signed, and said:

"My wife contended that she could not live within $70,000 a year and told me that Judge Gary said I ought to pay it. I said: 'If Judge Gary said it, I'll do it.' I fell for it and agreed to pay her $70,000 a year."

REPPIN'S HOPES BUOYED

International News Service.

CANON CITY, Col., Jan. 5.—Herbert Reppin, 25, was en route to his home in Newark, N. J., today after satisfying himself that the fight to save his brother, Walter, 18, from death in the Colorado lethal gas chamber was well under way.

Herbert made a 10-minute call to Walter's cell in the state penitentiary here before leaving for the East. Walter thanked Herbert for his efforts in his behalf in Denver and said he felt more than ever that he would be saved from the gas chamber.

Herbert patted him on the back and told him to be brave.

There were no tears, no sentiment. Only the guards on duty at the time knew of Herbert's visit to the prison.

DEMPSEY WAITS HEIR, 'HOPES IT'S TWINS'

International News Service.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 5.—Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, today confirmed reports that an heir will arrive in the Dempsey household in a few months. He said:

"I am delighted to admit the report is true. It looks like my greatest wish is coming true. We are both terribly happy and hope it is twins."

Mrs. Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams, musical comedy star, smiled joyously as the former champion announced the coming event, on his arrival here from the Pacific Coast. She declined to comment, but Jack repeated:

"It's all true. We hope it's twins and we'll be satisfied whether it's a boy or a girl."

Dempsey said the event was about six or seven months distant. He and his wife stopped in Salt Lake City for 20 minutes while en route to Chicago.

MAGDA GUARDED FROM KILLERS

International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Strong parties of guards have been sent to Sinaia, Rumania, following many threats to kill Mme. Magda Lupescu, sweetheart of King Carol, according to the Daily Mail today.

King Carol is a frequent visitor at the villa near the royal castle, and telephones Mme. Lupescu frequently and at all hours, according to a dispatch sent by way of Vienna.

Armed detectives and other guards have been doubled at Sinaia and three companies of Rumanian infantry are stationed at the castle.

The Daily Mail dispatch says Mme. Lupescu is not only a target because she is Jewish, but is blamed for King Carol's failure to attend the funeral ceremony for the slain Premier Ion G. Duca.

The populace believes Mme. Lupescu feared an attempt would be made to assassinate Carol and prevailed on him to remain in the castle.

Doubts even are expressed over the loyalty of King Carol's own guard.

Mme. Lupescu is declared to be in a nervous state regarding the King's safety and refuses to leave him.

Stock Operator Seized in Probe

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Philip H. Philbin, Jr., who controled Atlas Tack Corporation's stock during its recent rise and fall on the market, was ordered arrested today by Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall after Philbin failed to account for checks totaling $404,000 which passed through his hands.

Detective Lieut. James F. McCoy took Philbin, accompanied by his attorney, Paul McCauley, and McCall to the Elizabeth Street Police Station.

LIST SPEAKERS TO HAIL SMITH

The guests who will greet Judge Ralph H. Smith at a dinner marking his 35th birthday, in the William Penn Hotel next Monday night, will hear a list of speakers representing nearly every phase of life in the Pittsburgh area.

A partial list of speakers includes: John H. Adams, principal of Perry High School; Judge Samuel H. Gardner, Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of Pittsburgh parochial schools; Dr. John B. Sutherland, head football coach at Pitt; John G. Daub, retiring potentate of Syria Shrine; Dr. J. E. McLenahan, Joseph A. Richardson, chairman of the dinner committee, and Judge Smith.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, originally scheduled to speak, is in a New York hospital and cannot attend, but Mrs. Pinchot said she would be present.

English Comedian Robbed in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Perfumes, furs and jewels valued by Jack Barty at $2,000 were stolen in a daylight robbery at the English film comedian's home yesterday, he reported to police. Barty was absent from home. He came here from London about four months ago.

AERO-STREAM CARS READY FOR DEBUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Fishtail cars—teardrop cars—snowshoe cars—cars that bend their knees—cars that shoot ahead as "smoothly as a grape being squeezed out of its skin."

All these and more are being arrayed in all their glory today for the thirty-fourth annual national automobile show, which opens tomorrow in Grand Central Palace.

Designers have studied icebergs, snowshoes and tears. The salesmen, exhausting the dictionary, have coined new language to describe the creations. Aero-stream, for instance.

STREAMLINES DOMINATE

The accent this year is on stream-lining. Engineers found that icebergs, moving through water, are round in front, pointed behind—like a snowshoe or a fish.

Some cars are built with these lines in mind. Another school of body design favors more familiar lines, but with smart new styling. Everything looks faster, smoother.

PRICE RANGE WIDE

Cushions are deeper, softer, engines more powerful. Some pleasure cars have superchargers, hitherto characteristic only of racing machines. The long-legged person has more room for his knees. Prices range from under $500 to more than $7,000.

Along with the 250 cars and chasses on view will be a million dollars' worth of parts, equipment, accessories.

The show, being put on by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, represents an industry which in 1933 produced goods with a wholesale value of $1,655,928,000. It will be open all next week.

Man Tries Suicide But Dies of Fright

BILLINGS, Mont., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Claude V. Farmer attempted suicide and frightened himself to death, Coroner Francis M. Smith decided today.

Farmer, a 59-year-old Billings merchant, was found dead in his hotel apartment. There were a dozen wounds on his left wrist. Coroner Smith said none of the wounds was serious enough to cause death and there was evidence Farmer had stopped the flow of blood and then collapsed.

Gamblers Too Few, Gould Casino Shut

NICE, France, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Frank Gould's Casino, the "Palaise Mediterranee," badly damaged by fire November 24, will remain closed for the winter season, it was announced today, because there are too few gamblers here.

Edward Baudoin, who holds the lease, said there were not enough tourists in the Riviera to warrant the expense of refurnishing the lavish playing rooms.

AUTO EXHIBIT OPENS HERE TOMORROW

A special display of new 1934 Chevrolet cars and trucks will open tomorrow morning in the Wabash Station Building, Liberty avenue and Ferry street, according to an announcement today by A. H. Goodman, manager of the Chevrolet Pittsburgh zone office.

The local show opens simultaneously with the National Automobile Show at New York.

The exhibit will continue daily from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. except Sunday, Until Saturday, January 13. Special entertainment and music will be features of the free show, according to Goodman.

Considerable local interest is anticipated because the new Chevrolet models represent radically improved cars. As Goodman states:

"Our 1934 cars represent more than annual new models and we are unusually fortunate in being able to hold this advance showing in Pittsburgh. Motorists here have been anxious to get the earliest possible view of the new models. In arranging for this exhibit, it will be possible to display the complete line and within the next week or two we expect to have every dealer in this territory supplied with sample cars."

That the new Chevrolets will prove a revelation to local people is an accepted fact by those who have seen and driven the new models, Goodman declares. The new "knee-action" wheels, longer wheelbase, greatly increased body space, radical changes in appearance and 89-horsepower motor are some of their new features, he pointed out.

THREATS DELAY DEATH ARREST

CRISFIELD, Md., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The threat of "possible mob action" today caused authorities investigating the murder of an aged Marion Station woman on New Years eve to delay the apprehension of any suspect in the case.

A formal statement, issued by two Baltimore detectives co-operating with Somerset County officials in the probe, indicated a Negro was wanted in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Margaret Brumbley, whose body was found on her bed early Monday. The statement of the detectives said:

"Due to information received through authorities of possible mob action, we thought it advisable to postpone our activities until we received advice from higher authorities."

The detectives, Sergt. Walter Martin and Sergt. Stewart Deal, declined to elaborate on the statement. While Sergt. Martin refused to say who were meant by "higher authorities," they was understood to include the sheriff, state's attorney and Circuit Court judge.

JAPS' ATTITUDE HELD THREAT OF WAR

If Japan does not change her attitude toward Manchuria war is likely to result, in the belief of Dr. T. Z. Koo, a former official in the administrative department of the Chinese railways service, and a member of the national committee of the Y. M. C. A. of China, who arrived here yesterday to be the guest of the Pitt Y. M. C. A. during a three-day visit to the city.

At present, he stated, Japan is trying to penetrate Mongolia to gain a foothold in Siberia, to enable her to wage war against Russia. Russia, he believes, is not sufficiently prepared and consequently does not want war.

In case war breaks out in the East, Dr. Koo says, the United States, towards which China has the friendliest feelings, will be drawn into the struggle. Just what attitude our country would take in the matter he terms uncertain.

Dr. Koo, in connection with his work among students in China, has visited student gatherings in India, Australasia, Europe and Canada, and is now making a tour of universities in the United States, where his talks deal with various problems confronting China today.

Last night he spoke before the Thursday Night Dinner Club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. and today he is scheduled to appear before two Pitt groups at a luncheon and afternoon meeting. In the evening he will appear before committee groups of the 14 branches of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A.

Following meetings tomorrow with high school students, he will leave for Yale, where his appearance is slated.

CHINA WARNED BY U. S.

PEIPING, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The United States legation informed the Chinese government today that the United States looks to the Chinese government for full protection of the lives and property of Americans in Fukien.

The American declaration was preceded several days ago by a similar one from the Japanese regarding Japanese in Fukien.

The Fukien situation became serious when rebels overthrew the National authorities and established what they termed a peoples' government. The Nationalists retaliated with bombing planes.

The foreign quarter of Foochow, where 144 Americans live, has been untouched by the aerial bombs. A United States destroyer, the Fulton, is standing by.

ABANDON HOPE FOR 144 IN PIT

International News Service.

DUCHOV, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 5.—Attempts to rescue 144 entombed miners in a local pit were abandoned today when the government ordered the blasted shaft sealed.

With all hope of bringing the men out alive now lost, the government ordered the shaft isolated to prevent a raging fire from spreading to other mines.

It is hoped the bodies will be recovered in several weeks.

Further tragedy was added to the disaster today by the deaths of two members of a rescue party attempting to free the entombed miners.

The two rescuers were killed and eight seriously burned by fire, which balked the efforts of police, firemen and mine officials to reach the trapped men.

Woman in Hospital After Taking Poison

Mrs. Sue Reynolds, 39, was in the McKeesport Hospital today suffering from the effects of poison she took in her home, Park avenue, East McKeesport, late yesterday, according to hospital authorities, who said her condition was undetermined.

GLOBE-TROTTING

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Several columns ago there was an item about the 100-year-old copper penny owned by Mrs. J. S. Poland. Mrs. Peter Moraca, of Latrobe, has one even more ancient, with an 1802 date. It is 132 years old. In addition her collection boasts of a Liberty Head dime dated 1871.

Mrs. Mary Herold also possesses two rare coins. Her pennies carry 1806 and 1848 dates.

Lately stories of Christmas displays have been printed here. We can't overlook the exhibit at the home of Melvin Etters, 1415½ Pine way, Coraopolis. It's chief attraction is a miniature of the Duquesne Incline and a model of Hell Gate Bridge. A panorama of houses, buildings, roads, mountains are parts of the homemade landscape.

Every one is invited. No charge.

Jim and John, Pittsburgh—Don't look for anything right away on your soldier bonus. According to late advices it probably will be March before the preparatory work and organization is completed. Veterans will have ample notice and instructions on how to apply probably will be sent through various veterans' organizations.

Vet—If you were living in Kentucky at the time of enlistment you are not eligible for the Pennsylvania bonus. Only veterans who gave Pennsylvania addresses at the time of their enlistment are eligible.

Ray Smith—The Department of Military Affairs, Harrisburg, is the place to contact.

Mrs. Thomas J. Horrocks—As soon as the new Director of Public Works gets settled in his office I'll see him about roping off a street for the Twelfth District of the Fourteenth Ward.

Perry High Student Has Perfect Record

Eda Grupen, member of the February graduating class at Perry High School, has maintained a perfect honor roll record through her course at school. She will graduate with high honors. Aside from scholastic accomplishments, she has excelled in dramatic literary, and oganizing activities at the school.

Pitt Frat Merges With National Unit

The University of Pittsburgh has announced the merging of Theta Delta Psi fraternity, a local student organization, with the national fraternity of Theta Chi. The active members of the Theta Chi group will now number 27, with 25 pledges. Alumni members will become affiliated at the fraternity's Founder's Day banquet next month.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

For a quiet half-hour of dinner music, try Fran Eichler's band from 6 to 6:30.

Scotland Yard Detective Thriller On Tri-State Stations Today

"The Death Dress," first of a new series of "Front Page Dramas" re-enacting sensational news events, is heard over a group of radio stations in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia this afternoon and evening.

Dramatized from a feature story in next Sunday's American Weekly, big magazine distributed with the Sun-Telegraph, "The Death Dress" gives a graphic account of clever methods used by Scotland Yard police in running down the murderer of a beautiful young English girl.

It is heard on the following schedule: WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, 2; WALR, Zanesville, 5; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5.15; WAIU, Columbus, 7:15; WADC, Akron, 7:45, and WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m.

James J. Long Gives Sports Review

Jimmy Long, dean of Pittsburgh sports writers, gives his weekly review of events in the world of sports over WCAE tonight at 6.

The Globe Trotter is heard over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.

"Aircaster" aircasts over WCAE-WJAS at 6:30 p. m.

Thousands Auditioned, Few Hired

By AIRCASTER

Figures obtained from the five local broadcasting parlors indicate that about 300 would-be radio stars apply for auditions every week.

As one who has witnessed the blasting of the hopes of these applicants in the audition cubicles, it seems to me that there are few sadder spectacles than the weekly pageant of the disappointed, as it parades out to the street, to try again somewhere else.

Yet, there is no kindly way of discouraging the ceaseless flow of hopefuls toward the radio temples.

Fame, fortune and success are the lures that make hope spring eternal. The stoppage of auditions would only serve to increase the determination of the hopefuls who write, phone, and send recordings of their talents, if any.

AMBITIONS

Mobbed by an army of applicants when it was part of my duty to hear auditions on a station atop a department store, I first thought that someone must have hailed the shoppers in the store downstairs, "Let's all go up to the radio station and have an audition, just for the sport of it!"

But one soon learned that the ambition to go on the air was the highest hope of the applicants' lives.

It was a delicate task to sit, poker-faced, listening to hundreds whose well-meaning friends or families had urged them to try out on radio, but who had no more qualifications to sing or play or speak over the air than a jackrabbit.

TEARS FLOW

You couldn't crush their ambitions by frankly telling them so. Instead, you politely lied your way out of it, trying to send them away with a smile.

But the more sensitive maidens often shed hot tears, and you showed them a roundabout way out of the studios, so the waiting crowd in the reception room might not see them weeping.

The first concert in second series of Morning Musicales in Hotel Schenley brought out a good attendance yesterday morning with Earl Wild, pianist, and Robert Johns, baritone, soloists.

Mr. Lissfelt

The program was made of excellent music and it was especially interesting to hear Johns. His voice is large, extraordinary in quality and range, and he sings musically. Even in the greatest outbursts of tone he retains a certain tenderness that is most appealing.

There is a gasp in his breathing which may be the result of a recent illness and which might become affectation unless looked after at once, and surely he should never again attempt a German song without more knowledge of that language, for some of his finest songs were marred by complete ignorance of vowel sounds.

Earl Wild is now growing up and we have waited in vain for some sign of maturity in his playing. Yesterday morning during the Liszt "Funerailles" there was occasional suggestion that this young man was paying attention to musical values, but in his Chopin Etude and the Ravel tone poem I failed to find the slightest subtlety of expression. His fingers carry him along at a good rate, but he seems quite oblivious of finer nuances.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Even though times are far better than we dared hope they'd be a year ago, there are still people who need help, particularly some of the public school children.

So the Thurston Preparatory School Aumnae Association is going to start a soup kitchen. The members will serve luncheon every day to the children at the Fort Pitt School, beginning Wednesday.

Girls to Give Benefit To Aid Soup Kitchen

Later there's to be a benefit to help finance the soup kitchen. There was a meeting of members at a tea Wednesday, given by Mrs. Ella Reineman and Betsy Williams, and another session yesterday, in charge of Miss Louise Wright, principal of the Fort Pitt School, to discuss serious business.

Mrs. C. B. Cunningham and Miss Myrtle Hargrave head of the soup kitchen committee, assisted by Valerie Kapp, Mrs. James Crookston, Dorothy and Helen McCune, Mrs. Charles Albertson, Mrs. Marshall J. H. Jones, Mrs. John Booth and Mrs. Charles Berghane. Suzanne Anderson is president of the Alumnae Association.

Junior League Art Show Unusual, Varied

The second of the fascinating series of art exhibits the Junior League is sponsoring January 10 to February 3 in the clubrooms, Clark Building, is not only unusual, but varied. There'll be not only paintings, but wood carvings and tapestries, paintings on velvet.

The preview of this exhibit will be Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the clubrooms. And Miss Eleanor Chalfant, president of the Garden Club, will pour at the tea table. This exhibit, by the way, is dubbed "Flowers in Art," representing work from the Tenth to the Twentieth Century.

It's expected that this exhibit will be of great interest to all the different garden clubs roundabout.

15th Century Tapestry To Be on Exhibition

In the exhibit will be a Gothic Northern France, Fifteenth Century tapestry, called Mille Fleurs. It depicts the Passion of Christ, the arms of Ferdinand of Aragon, the arms of Isabelle of Castile.

Mrs. J. D. Rockefeller is lending a floral painting by Fantin-Latour (1836-1904), and a Nineteenth Century painting on velvet.

Some Wood Carvings By Joseph Woodwell

Wood carving by a Pittsburgh artist, Joseph Woodwell, grandfather of Pittsburgh painter Mrs. J. D. Hailman, will be shown, too. The exhibit, loaned by Mrs. Hillman, consists of four wood carvings—large baskets of fruits and flowers, which once decorated the bandstand at Economy, Pa.

The Yananaka Company will loan four Chinese paintings by Haumg-Chuan and Har. Yu. From Knoedler of New York will come paintings by Monet, Renoir, Redon and Jan van Huysum.

Talking about the Junior League reminds me that one of its most active members, Mary Carroll, daughter of the W. C. Carrolls, is home from New York for a holiday visit.

Pittsburghers Sail For Southern Seas

Sailing today on the Santa Elena, bound for such fascinating port as Havana, Columbia, Panama, Mexico, California, British the H. C. McEldowneys and their daughters, Mrs. Charles H. Matthews, Jr., and Mrs. W. L. G. Gibson. The Frank J. Humphreyses and Miss Amelia Jacobs will join the group, too.

The Taylor Allderdices have been in New York, stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria. At the Plaza in New York has been Mrs. William Watson Smith. Mrs. A. R. Hamilton has been at the Madison, and the William B. Trainers at the St. Regis. Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson joined her son, Worthington Johnson, at the St. Regis.

Gossipy Chat

By NANCY JANE

Two little Sewickley Heights girls gave an attendant at the Allegheny Country Club one of his most amazing moments a while ago.

After several hours of ski-ing, the girls went into the clubhouse and asked the attendant, "Where are the drinks?"

He gasped, and finally recovered enough to ask them just what kind of drink they wanted.

"Why, hot chocolate," they chorused.

Much relieved and amused—he had a table arranged for them. And they had their hot chocolate.

But she couldn't wear the slippers. What modern bride could?

Mrs. Hamilton To Attend Meetings

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women and a director in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will attend the General Federation board meeting to be held in headquarters at Washington next week and will remain over for the Cause and Cure of War conference the following week.

Others from the State Federation who are members of the board are Mrs. S. Blair Luckie, of Chester; Mrs. Charles T. Owens, of Norristown; Mrs. John A. Frick, Allentown; Mrs. H. D. Steever, Easton; Mrs. Ellen Foster Stone and Mrs. L. L. Blankenburg, of Philadelphia.

The mid-year meeting of the State Federation board is scheduled to take place in the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, January 23 and 24, when first plans for the October convention will be made.

In addition to the Pittsburgh work which was done at Christmas upon request from Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt to the State Federation, Mrs. Hamilton parcelled out 19 other such tasks through her constituents. Mrs. Hamilton says the requests from the 130 individuals were largely for food and clothing.

One little girl wrote that she would be willing to go giftless if her little sister might have a doll. Every appeal but one was reached through a nearby federated club, which, Mrs. Hamilton holds, is further proof of the value of federation.

FROCKS FOR THE LITTLE GROWN UP GIRLS

The Dixie evening ensemble, right, combines a pinky gold crepe gown with a jacket of bright orange glazed calico. The decollete in back is very low and square.

Note the graceful front hem panel. Hoops that are more Rhumba than Victorian give a picturesque flare to the black taffeta dancing frock, left. The bib is white crepe, and it borders the daring back decollete which is cut to the waist. The big sleeves are like lanterns, shoved high up under the shoulder so that they are doubled and very perky.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IMPUDENT, AREN'T THEY, the little frocks sketched above? They are especially adapted to the girl who wears a 12 or 14 size, and who distinctly dislikes little-girl fashions. No bread and milk has gone into their inspiration, but quite a lot of sugar and spice and all that's nice, instead.

FROCKS LIKE THESE are invaluable for the girl who dances a lot, and who expects to give her formal gowns a lot of wear and tear. They are made of practical materials, for all their dress-up look, and although they are distinctive, they will become just the right girl so well that she won't mind wearing them till they drop apart.

The jacketed model is a swell one for cruises and for Southern wear, as its crepey fabric will not wilt in fog, and its cotton jacket will give just the right amount of protection from tropical dews. There is a lot of patio dining in the warm resorts, and a little wrap for the shoulders is often essential.

THE LOVELY SKIRT line of the taffeta frock makes it a good model for dancing or for more sedate recreations. It is a sheath, really, gone very Spanish at the hem, and it is a particularly youthful treatment of the all-black formal gown.

Through the Spyglass @ VIEWING THE NEW

To find out the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column . . . CALL GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPY GLASS. Or . . . send a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply.

A couple of gasps in regards to some worthy items which are in the clearance bailiwick . . . and then we'll haste away to the land where cocoanuts grow! (Meaning, go South, young woman!)

Gasp No. 1 being made in reference to a whole pile of shoulderettes which have gone and gotten themselves soiled for some reason or other and now have to be sold for ⅓ off! They include pink, maize, and tearose silk-and-wools, or plain wools. Many with ribbon ties . . . one or two jacket styles . . . and the prices beginning at $1 (you figure it out yourself . . what one-third off would be. Our mathematics is punk!) Considering that there are plenty of draughts as yet . . . and will be for some time . . . you could use one at these prices!

Just tighten up your belts as we gasp this second number into your ear! News about the smart rhinestone belts which have had a comedown . . . glitterers that they are . . . and now will appear for only $1 (this for a double strand belt of them!) Others suffering from the same malady are the suede family . . . some with the popular wooden buckles.

And now let us pick a few daisies in warmer climates and turn our thoughts to this thing of Southern wear (those who ARE going South will want to know these things . . . and those who AREN'T can profit by getting certain items NOW for spring wear).

We know where there are some stunning handkerchiefs to wrap 'round your neck . . . your head . . . or just flap gaily in your fist! Fully a yard square, these, of brightly printed linen . . . with anchors and all that sort of thing. $1.75.

And children's sun and swim suits! If any of you have tried pricing these you'll know that it's rare to find such suits as we've seen for $1.95 . . . these days, any way!

For they're remarkably styled . . . some with felt fish cut out and appliqued down the front . . . some with ducks quacking their way across the tummy . . . some with woven wool brassiere tops which are just too sophisticated and cute on a little girl for words! Many colors . . . made by the famous Hollywood makers . . . in sizes 2 to 6. And we're assured that the next group they buy will cost much more!

With them a suede boucle sweater. In one of the Fruit Shades — lime green, golden lemon, or blue, turquoise, or white. Suede boucle is that lovely soft fabric which reminds one of velvet (without being velvety) and clings (without being slippery). These have turtle necks, long sleeves, and come in sizes 34 to 38 . . . at $1.98.

* * *

And lastly . . . trip into the sunshine with a new bag somewhere in the picture! We have never seen better looking ones than these with round circlets of wood and a pouchy shape slung from this . . . of wooly string.

FORD ABSOLVED IN BROTHER'S BANKRUPTCY

International News Service.

DETROIT, Jan. 5.—Why did Henry Ford, the world's wealthiest manufacturer, permit his brother William to go bankrupt?

Because, the Detroit Times said today, William Ford wished to stand or fall alone.

The newspaper said it learned from a source close to William Ford, that this was the explanation of the voluntary petition in bankruptcy which William filed last month and which came to light this week. The petition listed debts of $412,000 and assets consisting only of a home, a few parcels of real estate and some stocks.

William Ford's failure, the petition indicated, was due to the collapse of William Ford & Co., a tractor and farm implement concern.

'STAND OR FALL ALONE'

The Times story said:

"William Ford, who hitched his tractor implement business to the soaring star of his brother Henry's success, went into bankruptcy court this week not because aid was wilfully withheld from him, but because it was understood from the beginning that he would stand or fall alone.

"This was the answer offered by a friend and former associate of William Ford today to the question, asked often with a lifting of eyebrows—why did Ford allow his brother to become a bankrupt?"

SILENT ON CAUSE

Whether the removal of the Fordson tractor plant to Ireland several years ago turned the tide for William Ford & Co., or whether its demise was just another depression casualty could not be learned. William Ford would not talk about it, and spokesmen for the Ford Motor Company would only say:

"Henry Ford never discusses personal or family affairs."

Excepting Edsel B. Ford, son of Henry, relatives of the founder of the Ford Motor Company have seldom been connected with it in important positions. Three hold dealerships, however—on the same basis, the Ford sales office insists, as other dealers.

FLOOD BLAST RUMOR PROBED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—An unverified report that a check dam a mile above Montrose, containing 100,000 gallons of water, was dynamited, precipitating the New Years Day disaster which cost at least 39 lives, was scrutinized by the Sheriff's office today.

The report came as Coroner Frank Nance announced plans for an extensive investigation of the catastrophe, which caused damage of more than five million dollars. He said a jury of experts would be impaneled to decide whether any negligence was involved and propose a preventive measure.

Heading investigation of the dynamite rumor, Capt. Norris Stensland said two men were under surveillance.

The dam was owned by a private water company. It was understood investigators had come upon sections of pipe which appeared to have been ripped, as though by the force of a blast.

Meantime an army of 6,500 men continued searching for bodies and removing the vast amount of debris washed down from the mountains upon Montrose, La Crescenta, La Canada and Venice.

BOMB BLAMED IN AIR TRAGEDY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—A Justice Department report, believed to contain an opinion that a bomb placed with murderous intent was responsible for the death of seven persons in an airplane crash near Chesterton, Ind., today was given study by federal officials.

Whether federal action will be forthcoming was not immediately disclosed. There were indications, however, that the government might take a hand. The investigation was conducted by a Justice Department agent.

The crash occurred last October 10. Agents were reported to have obtained eye witness accounts of an explosion inside the plane just before it crashed, and to have compiled considerable evidence of a bomb being unloosened inside the passenger compartment.

Although Attorney General Cummings made no public statement, it was stated in authoritative quarters that he believed the explosion tragedy was a result of "sabotage."

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now, instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Swindlers Lose $5 and Watch On Second Visit

Terry Feiler, part owner of a lunch wagon at 612 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, has a good memory.

When two men came into his place late yesterday with a hard luck story of being stranded and needing $15 to get back to Ohio, he took a plated watch and a $5 bill which they proferred in exchange for a $20 bill, and accused the two of being swindlers.

They started after Feiler, he told police later, but he grabbed a butcher knife and they retreated. He said:

"I got back $5 of the $8 they took from me in Elyria, O., eight months ago."

CHAPIN LINKED TO BANK POOL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A pool to support market prices of Guardian Detroit Union Group bank stock was formed in October, 1930, and managed by a committee on which Roy D. Chapin, then Secretary of Commerce in the Hoover administration served as an active member, Senate investigators were told today.

The revelation came from Ernest Kanzler, former chairman of the board and brother-in-law of Mrs. Edsel Ford, during his second day on the stand before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Kanzler said the other members of the committee managing the pool were Charles B. Warren, former ambassador to Japan; Hal Smith, a Detroit attorney; James Inglis and Kranzler.

Kanzler said the pool was organized by 112 officers and directors of the bank to absorb up to 60,000 shares of group stock at no more than $60 a share. He said about $3,200,000 worth of stock was bought by the pool and held by agreement for one year.

Kanzler said he personally bought 34,000 shares at a cost of about $1,500,000 under the pool agreement, sold it at a huge loss and bought it back later at "a low level."

Police Czar Bans Tall Men As Chauffeur

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Tall men cannot qualify for police chauffeurs under the new regime of Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan, World War commander of the 27th Division. He said:

"I have observed that some of the men who drive the cars now are too tall. They have to bend down when they get into the cars. That does not look so good. A man should be able to get in without lowering his head."

FLORIDA STORM TAKES 3 LIVES

Universal Service.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Jan. 5.—A wall of water, picked up from Pensacola Bay by two tornadoes, engulfed the Pensacola waterfront yesterday.

Three persons were killed, 15 injured, and heavy property toll was taken by the avalanche of water.

One of the tornadoes roared out of the Southwest. It swept through the business section and sped into the hinterland. The other, tearing a course westward, hit the waterfront and the naval air station.

Witnesses said that water picked up by the tornadoes reached a height of 200 feet.

Fire department officials estimate the damage at between $500,000 and a million dollars.

ENTIRE FLEET IN MANEUVER

WITH THE U. S. FLEET, Off Southern California, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The third and final day of the maneuvers of more than 100 fighting ships of the Navy today was centered on a defensive operation by the entire fleet.

Admiral D. F. Sellers, commander-in-chief, aboard the dreadnaught Pennsylvania, maneuvered all of the battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers and submarines, with the train ships and the mobile target ship Utah in the role of an enemy force.

2 HELD, LINKED TO FLOOD OF BAD BILLS

Two men arrested by police in Wooster, O., and turned over to United States Secret Service operatives are believed by government officers here to have been the passers of counterfeit $20 Federal Reserve Bank notes that flooded the Pittsburgh district for several days before Christmas.

Several victims here have partially identified the prisoners through police photographs as the men who gave them spurious notes in making small purchases of merchandise, according to Chief W. A. Landvoigt, of the United States Secret Service in the Pittsburgh district.

The suspects, arrested for passing and possessing fake $20 bills, gave their names as Donald A. Skimmer, 24, of Bucyrus, O., and Peter D. DeAngelo, 28, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Arresting officers reported finding 35 bogus bills in their possession. These were said to be of the same printing as those passed here.

Several sets of automobile licenses were found in the suspects' car, the officers reported. One victim here, Landvoigt said, made a positive identification.

Harry Soroka, of Horning, arrested in Butler and charged with possessing and passing counterfeit $10 bills, was committed to jail in default of $1,500 bond, pending a hearing Mondoy.

MAID, 14, SLAIN, BOXER HELD

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Clutching a pink baby garment in her hands and with a shot through her heart, the body of Minnie Hardt, 14, a domestic, was found last night by police in the home of Mrs. Eva Marchak, where she was employed.

Mrs. Marchak, police said, told them that the girl was killed accidentally by her brother, Harry Kaplan, 19. Police apprehended Kaplan. He also claimed the shooting was accidental.

Mrs. Marchak in her story said she was entertaining a sister when her brother came. She added:

"I let Harry in and he went to the dining room where Minnie was working. A little later I heard the shot. Harry ran to me and said it was an accident. Then he ran out."

'Blue Sky' Conviction Upheld in Heir Case

XENIA, O., Jan. 5.—(INS.)—The Second District Court of Appeals today upheld the conviction of McClain Catterlin, 57, of Brazil, Ind., on charges of violating the Ohio "blue sky" laws.

The conviction was handed down in Common Pleas Court here in connection with the sale of membership certificates in the International Corporation of Harper Heirs, an "ancient estates" organization, allegedly designed to collect mythical inheritances.

CUT THIS OUT

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear, which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages toward the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula, which is used extensively, is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

NESBIT TRUST APPEAL PUSHED

A further step in the move to appeal the State Supreme Court's decision on the Harrison Nesbit trust fund case to the United States Supreme Court was revealed today. Chief Justice Robert S. Frazer handed down an order in which the State Supreme Court prothonotary must hold the case records for 30 days.

The State Supreme Court earlier this week refused the petition of Attorney H. Fred Mercer for a reargument. The decision ordered all but $349,233 of the $828,000 trust fund paid to 10 creditor banks. The fund was set up by the late Pittsburgh banker to go to his widow and children.

The holding of the records gives Mercer 30 days to appeal for a review by the United States highest tribunal.

LEAGUE ASSAILS GRAHAM'S PAY

Action of the Board of Education in extending Dr. Ben G. Graham's contract as Superintendent of Pittsburgh Schools for a six-year period at an annual salary of $13,500 was protested by the Allegheny County Real Estate Owner's and Taxpayer's League in a resolution announced last night.

Terming the figure "exorbitant," the resolution said the United States Commissioner of Education receives only $8,000 a year, and that the action arbitrarily pledges the board to pay "this fixed salary over a long period of years."

Public Opinion Blamed for Wars

Blame for wars was laid at the door of the people and not the diplomats by Alden G. Alley, of the National Council for the Prevention of War, in an address last night at a peace meeting in the First Unitarian Church, Morewood and Ellsworth avenues. He added, however, that public opinion in the matter of war "is far ahead of what it was in 1914."

Young Wife Found Strangled With Silken Cord

CHAPTER II.

Scarcely more than 15 minutes had passed after Carroll had started his return trip, before the desk sergeant at the Towson police station laid aside a crossword puzzle which he was placidly working out, and answered the telephone.

There was a man at the other end of the wire, a man so badly frightened and whose voice trembled so that the sergeant could just catch the words he was trying to gasp out.

"Towson Police Station? For God's sake, send a doctor quick. This is Paige speaking, Ranny Paige. My wife is dead—somebody has killed her! Call a doctor quick, will you?"

"Coming instantly, sir," answered the Sergeant, as the ominous significance of the words sank in. "Keep your head and we'll be there in ten minutes.

"Riely," he shouted to a dozing patrolman. "Ranny Paige's wife is dead! Phone Dr. Henry Warner here in Towson and tell him to come as quickly as possible.

"Biggs and you, Henderson," to a couple of policemen who were standing dumb with surprise, "come with me. Biggs, you can drive and step on the gas!"

A minute later the Sergeant and his two assistants were flashing up the Towson State road and 10 minutes later, they were running up the box-lined walk to the Paige house.

Ranny Paige, as white as a ghost, was standing in the open hall door.

"Thank God, you're here," he cried. "This is terrible! Come upstairs."

Without asking any questions, the three police officers followed him to the second floor and into a tiny room at the front.

Girl Found Dead

Stretched out on a chaise-longue was the body of a young girl, her face black and distorted, her mouth swollen. The men winced with horror. One glance told them that she was beyond all human help.

"Dead!" said Paige hopelessly.

"How did it happen?" asked the Sergeant glancing around the room.

"I don't know. I just came home. She was dangling there—from the chandelier, hanging from that yellow silk cord which belongs to her dress. I cut her down—"

Now the Sergeant perceived that one end of a slender rope was attached to the main chandelier in the center of the room and that an overturned chair was directly underneath it.

"Suicide," he murmured.

Just then there came the sharp sound of grinding brakes on the drive outside, the slam of a door, and a moment later, Dr. Henry Warner, minus a hat, and with his black bag in his hand, came dashing up the steps.

He stopped in the open doorway and gave an involuntary gasp as his eyes took in the scene.

"It's Sunny," explained Ranny Paige. "Oh, doctor, she isn't dead, is she?"

Dr. Warner bent over and touched the lifeless hand for a moment. Then he laid his ear against the girl's breast.

"She's quite dead, Ranny," he said gently. "There is nothing that we can do. What happened?"

Investigation Begun

One of the officers explained briefly.

"Oh, who could have done

Synopsis

Police Officer Dickey Carroll, young college graduate, had made two indiscreet arrests which brought reprimands from his superiors. Therefore, when he saw a stranger emerging from the Paige estate, in Baltimore's exclusive residential section, at 2 o'clock in the morning, he failed to make an arrest. Carroll did not know then that stark tragedy had invaded the home which Randolph (Ranny) Paige shared with his popular young wife, Sonia.

POLITICS

Verona, Benedum, McNair Back Malone

By MARK SHIELDS

Mayor William N. McNair and M. L. Benedum have been joined by a recruit in their effort to have James F. Malone confirmed by City Council as head of the Department of Public Safety. They probably don't know anything about it, and this is for their information.

Mr. Shields

Their new negotiating aide in an effort to swing a pivotal vote in Council, split five to four against Malone, is John J. Verona, Republican chairman of the Third Ward, and long known as the boss of the Hill district. Mr. Verona, at one time a police magistrate, and an ardent follower of former Mayor John S. Herron in the primary, has been endeavoring to influence Councilman William J. Soost, Republican city chairman, and last remnant of the Republican organization in City Council.

He has been pleading with Councilman Soost, who has announced against Malone, to drop his combativeness and go along for confirmation, instead of standing with the four Democratic councilmen in blocking the elevation of the former Republican chief of the Fifth Ward. He appears to have had no luck.

Soost Unmoved By Pleadings

Verona, Soost and Harry A. Little, Republican, who retired as president of Council New Years Day, talked the matter over in the Amerita Club Wednesday night. Little was present accompanying Soost. The subject was discussed at some length, and Verona was urgent that Malone should be approved.

Today Soost said he had been unmoved by the pleadings and would remain adamant in his determination to vote against Malone should his name ever come up. The councilman said he had passed his word to be against Malone and was not in the habit of breaking it.

That would seem effectively to close the door on Mr. Malone for all time, and it will be amazing if his name is ever offered as a nominee for safety director. The action of the four Democratic councilmen yesterday in visiting the Department of Safety and assuring Director Harmar Denny and Supt. Ben Marshall that politics need not be considered in the operation of the police department is sufficient evidence that they are set in their determination to vote against Malone.

Visit Interpreted as Anti-Malone Gesture

That assumption is plain from their past attitude that the selection of Mr. Malone as safety head would be to throw the police and fire departments into the political pot. Their visit can be interpreted only as an additional and vehement assurance to the entire police force that they need not expect Mr. Malone to be their boss. Otherwise there was not much point in the visit.

There isn't a great deal councilmen can do about the police force, except refuse confirmation to the safety director. True, they can reach and discipline the force through withholding appropriations, but they cannot make such action apply to individuals, and can move in this direction only to reduce the entire personnel. That could not serve to deal with an individual.

Handling the personnel of the police force is a job only for the administrative department. The disciplining, promotion or shifting of police officers is something in the hands of the executive of

BROTHERS HELD IN 30 THEFTS

Suspected of being members of an Oakland gang responsible for 30 robberies, two brothers, Joseph Gryck, 18, and Chester, 15, of 13 Ethel street, were held over for further investigation in Central Police Court today.

City Detective John Novack testified Joseph was arrested Tuesday night after attempting to sell a gold watch for 30 cents. Chester was arrested at his home last night. It was alleged thousands of dollars in cash and jewelry were taken in the thefts during the last six months. Both boys denied being connected with the gang.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 5.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Roosevelt proposed in his speech that the NRA and a lot of these other government regulated business ethics would be made permanent. Well, that was a terrible blow to some business men. They had figured they would only be required to be honest by the government till the emergency was over.

Will Rogers

The papers tell of a little country in the Pyrenee Mountains, that has six army officers, and only six plain soldiers. Well, that strikes us as being mighty comical. Yet we got 120 million people and 60 million hold government jobs.

Yours, WILL.

THE PLUNGE OF DEATH

Christmas trees in two Pittsburgh homes were down today and in their places preparations went on for the funerals of John B. Horan, 42, of 426 Danna street, and James W. North, of 1302 Grotto street.

Both men, CWA workmen on the Cathedral of Learning, were fatally injured yesterday when they fell 40 feet after a scaffolding brace snapped.

Neither had worked much for years, until Wednesday. They were carpenters, and had children, North, four and Horan, two. Prospects of work had brightened the holidays in both homes.

But the widows of the men will get 35 per cent of the monthly wage, until they die or remarry, and children under 18 will get 10 per cent each until they reach that age, die or marry, according to Herbert E. Callaghan, manager of CWA insurance in Allegheny County.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

EX-CITY TREASURER HILLIARD DIES

'BEST CITIZENS' WORST, WOMEN VOTERS HEAR

City Manager Backer Blames Wealthy for Bad Government

The so-called "best citizens"—bankers, industrialists and executives—contribute most to the corruption of a city and balk civic reform, Murray Seasongood, former Mayor of Cincinnati and president of the National Municipal League, told the League of Women voters in Carnegie Music Hall today.

Speaking in behalf of the city manager form of government, he described its effectiveness, declaring it had eliminated graft, corruption, political "pull" and dishonesty in Cincinnati. Every employes, including policemen and firemen, is under civil service. Since the police cannot take graft, there are no rackets and little crime in the Ohio metropolis, he added.

Explaining the close call of the city manager government at the last election, he said:

"Any reform government is up against three difficulties. One is: The longer it is in power, the more toes it has to step on.

"Another is that it is balked and fought by the so-called best citizens—bankers, industrialists, corporation heads—who have come to expect special privilege, are willing to buy favors which make for the corruption, and are primarily interested only in their own advancement.

"The third is that there is only a limited number of sane, logical and liberal people in a community, and a reform government wins few converts."

Seasongood denied the assertions made by anti-city manager Republicans that the garbage disposal costs in Cincinnati are the lowest in the country because convict labor is used to take garbage and ashes from the curb, and not from the house. He declared:

"Such statements are 99 per cent false. Convict labor and taking garbage from the curbs was the practice under the old Mayor system, and not under the city manager plan. Garbage and ashes are taken by city-paid employes from the houses."

Seasongood named modern improvements which have saved the city hundreds of thousands of dollars—such as machinery to write tax bills and payment of employes by check.

TRAFFIC COURT HOURS CHANGED

Traffic law violators must rise earlier hereafter to appear in Traffic Court by reason of a change in hours for Traffic Court and East End Police Court.

Magistrate Charles F. Papale, newly appointed, announced today that effective tomorrow, Police Court will open between 8 and 8:30 a. m., and Traffic Court between 9 and 9:30 a. m. The time for hearings thus will be advanced about one hour.

Papale explained that night traffic officers heretofore have been required to appear in court late in the morning, which interfered with their rest.

FOREST HILLS MAN, HIT BY AUTO, DIES

Run Down Monday, Driver Called To Inquest

Struck by an automobile in Ardmore boulevard, January 1, Curtis Bert, 27, of 113 Lennox avenue, Forest Hills, suffered injuries which caused his death last night in Columbia Hospital, the Coroner's office reported. The machine was driven by Robert Mulloly, of 205 Church avenue, Turtle Creek, according to the report. He was ordered to post bond pending an inquest.

Abe Lippock, 21, of 3245 Ward street, driver of an auto which figured in a collision with a horse and wagon in the West End, reported to Oakland police last night.

Leo Schaer, 30, of 625 Montclair street, and the horse, owned by L. Keloker, 64, of 171 Fullerton street, were injured. Both Lippock and Keloker were arrested for reckless driving.

Thieves who stole an automobile from Joseph Lewandowski, of 6416 Forward avenue, South Side, yesterday, abandoned the machine after it was wrecked against a pole in Carson street last night.

Mrs. F. P. Sullivan and Miss Nettie McCarthy, both of 124 Fountain street, Crafton, are recovering from injuries today received when an automobile driven by Edward Huth, of Fountain street, crashed into a parked automobile at Gibson street, West End, last night. Huth told police that the brakes on his car did not hold.

A fence, an automobile and a house were damaged today when a truck, driven by Joseph W. Dean, 35, of 1807 Larkins way, ran wild late yesterday on James street, Turtle Creek. The truck struck an automobile, owned by P. R. Foight, of Export, Pa., went through a fence, owned by Paul Schmidt, of 1616 Center street, Turtle Creek, and lodged in the back porch of a house at 1306 Center street.

THUGS GET IDLE MAN'S 1ST PAY

Wassel Petrosky, 49, who said he had been unemployed two years and two days ago found employment, was robbed of $6, his first pay, early today, he told attendants at West Penn Hospital.

Petrosky was found by police at Twenty-eighth street and the Allegheny Valley Railroad and taken to the hospital, suffering a probable fracture of the skull. He said he had been beaten and robbed.

Police said they believed Petrosky had fallen to the railroad tracks, sustaining his injuries. Petrosky said his home was in a shanty along the railroad tracks near Twenty-ninth street.

Lindbergh 'Fixer' Indicted in Bail Jump

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Irving Bitz, who, with Salvatore Spitale, was chosen by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to act as intermediary in the search for his kidnaped son, was indicted yesterday on a charge of having jumped $25,000 bail last October when he was awaiting trial for carrying a pistol.

J. M. WESOKY WRITING TO HIS MAYOR . . . 'DEAR MAYOR—'

POLICE SHOTS ROUT GANG

Half a dozen shots were fired by city police early today as they battled a gang of hoodlums in Tunnel street, near Wylie avenue, detected attempting to kick in the door of a house adjoining the city stables.

Four of the shots were fired by Patrolman John Mazza, attacked by the gang after he had ordered them to disperse. Mazza was off duty at the time. Patrolman Michael Nowicki, who ran to Mazza's aid upon hearing the shots, fired twice at the fugitives as they climbed into an automobile and fled.

None of the bullets are believed to have found a mark.

TWO BOYS HURT BY DYNAMITE

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 5.—Two children were in the Citizens' General Hospital today with injuries received while playing with dynamite caps yesterday.

The boys, Milton, 5, and Gerald, 9, found the caps in the junk yard owned by their father, Joseph Kachman, of Apollo, the hospital reported, and one struck a match to a cap.

Both suffered severe burns on their hands. It was said they might lose some fingers.

Heeds Advice of Mayor to Become Peabody Pupil

J. M. Wesoky, would-be city advertiser, is going to Peabody High School for three months to learn about the theories of Henry George.

He signed up today in a senior class taught by Forrest C. Henderson. He will start class Monday morning. B. Edwin Miller, principal at Peabody, commented thus on his newest student:

"We are very glad to have him come over and learn all he can about the single tax and economic rent."

When he applied to Mayor William N. McNair yesterday for the $4,000 a year job he was met by a fusillade of questions on the single tax, etc.

Wesoky could not answer his questions any too well, the Mayor thought, and told him to take a course at Peabody. When he reapplies for the job of advertising Pittsburgh, the young embryo disciple of Henry George said:

"I'll be an authority on all things the Mayor favors."

Wesoky, who lives at 6923 Bishop street, made a new appeal to the Mayor again today by writing him an open letter. In it he told of his qualifications and just why he should get the job.

Congress Gets 'Collect' Message From President

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

It is ready to march with him across the uncharted seas and to face the future with a confidence worthy of a group picture.

They said that Franklin couldn't play those giants in the Capitol Rose Bowl. But on Monday he rushed the message across the goal. Yesterday he kicked the budget for the extra point.

The boys were astonished by the President's frankness and honesty. The combination is so unusual that it is practically a trick play these days.

BANK DIRECTOR, CLUBMAN ILL 2 MONTHS

Abscessed Tooth Leads To Infection And Death

H. Raymond Hilliard, 44, City Treasurer during the brief term of Mayor John S. Herron, died early today in Homeopathic Hospital. He had been ill since October from an infection caused by an abscessed tooth. Apparently recovering, he became critically ill at midnight and died at 4:45 a. m.

Mr. Hilliard was named City Treasurer in April by Mayor Herron shortly after Herron was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mayor Charles H. Kline. He succeeded Richard W. Thompson.

BORN IN PITTSBURGH

Mr. Hilliard, whose home was at 5817 Solway street, was born in Pittsburgh, a son of W. Henry R. Hilliard, director in several of Pittsburgh's leading financial and industrial corporations, and of Mary MacMasters (Jones) Hilliard.

He received his education in public and private schools of Pittsburgh and St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., and was graduated from Harvard University in 1914.

Returning to Pittsburgh, he was employed in the bond department of the Mellon National Bank, was made manager in 1922, and in 1925 was made assistant cashier. When appointed City Treasurer he was connected with a brokerage office. He resigned in 1927 to go with the Waverly Oil Works.

BANK DIRECTOR

Mr. Hilliard was director of the Logan Trust Company, of New Kensington; the Braddock National Bank, and of the Bessemer Trust Company, of Braddock. He was a member of the Pittsburgh, Allegheny Country, Harvard, Pittsburgh Golf and Fox Chapel Golf clubs, and was a trustee of the Homeopathic Hospital.

During the World War, Mr. Hilliard was second lieutenant and instructor of Light Field Artillery.

He was married to Miss Elizabeth Webb Levering, of Baltimore, Md., February 28, 1920. He leaves his wife, three sons, Harry, George and Levering Hilliard; his mother, Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard; a brother, Thomas J. Hilliard, and two sisters, Mrs. C. Dudley Armstrong, of Lancaster, and Mrs. Thomas A. Robinson.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the place to be designated later.

A pioneer in aviation in Western Pennsylvania, C. P. Mayer, Sr., 70, of Kerwin Heights, Bridgeville, died suddenly in his home last night.

Mr. Mayer owned and operated Mayer Field, one of the first airports in the Pittsburgh district.

He was president of the Mayer Brick Company and the Mayer Lumber Company. For many years he had been identified with business, religious and civic movements in the Chartiers Valley. His death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Mayer leaves his wife, Philomena Schulte Mayer; a son, F. C. Mayer; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Solemn high requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Agatha's Church, Bridgeville, at 9 a. m. Monday.

FRANCIS W. MAGUIRE — MAYOR WILLIAM N. M'NAIR

OFFICIAL FIRED AFTER ASKING DAVIS PROBE

National attention has been directed to Tennessee by the arrest of powerful banking and political figures. Following is the third of a series of articles on the case, which has national ramifications.

By EARL L. SHAUB
Universal Service.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 5.—Tennessee's political circles were stirred today following declaration by A. W. McLane that he was ousted this week as United States attorney here because he had suggested federal investigation of reports concerning officers of the American National Bank, of which Paul M. Davis is president.

Davis, brother of Norman H. Davis, ambassador-at-large, is under arrest on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the state of $22,800 and using the money to elect Gov. Hill McAlister in 1932.

McLane told Universal Service he recommended the investigation as a result of a letter he had received from a national bank examiner. After making the recommendation, he said, the Department of Justice notified him he would be relieved of that matter by Wayne Williams, special assistant attorney general, who was sent here from Washington.

PROBED BY U. S.

Williams remained here several days and returned to Washington. In the meantime, the federal grand jury adjourned, but was instructed by Federal Judge John Gore to hold itself in readiness for special service.

McLane also said he wrote the Department of Justice last autumn that an attorney for the bank had told him he would lose his job if he persisted in the investigation.

He was relieved of his duties Tuesday by Horace Frierson, an adherent of the Davis-McAlister political machine. McLane is a Republican, but had another year to serve.

Although Davis or Vance Alexander, president of a Davis chain bank at Memphis, and A. V. Louthan, attorney for power interests, who were arrested with him, have not commented on the case, their friends raised the cry of "politics."

PREPARING CASE

Lea's supporters, however, declare this is not true. They say Lea has no time to play politics as he is too busy perfecting his appeal to the Supreme Court from his sentence to the penitentiary of North Carolina where he was accused of violating banking laws.

Another reason why Lea would not take part in a campaign against the Davis political machine, his friends declare, is because such action might injure his case before the Supreme Court.

Davis and the others accused have been bound over to the grand jury and have been released on bond signed by 145 prominent business men here.

the city, or his safety director, if authority is delegated, as Mr. McNair says it has been.

Political World Strange, Diverting

In view of that situation, it is plain the purpose which lay behind the councilmanic visit.

It is a strange and diverting spectacle to see Mr. McNair and Mr. Verona so energetic and earnest in the same cause. It cannot help but recall the stormy scene of last election day, when Mr. Verona and Mr. McNair almost clashed at the polls. Mr. McNair was touring the city, according to report, when he dropped into a polling place where Mr. Verona was about. There were some words, so say the observers, and Mr. Verona intimated that it might be a pleasure to sock Mr. McNair with something more substantial than Republican ballots proved to be on November 7.

Mr. McNair was indignant, as he had a perfect right to be.

And now he finds Mr. Verona in his corner on behalf of Mr. Malone.

This is a strange and diverting political world in which we live.

MILLVALE HEIR TO $500,000 STILL ON WELFARE

Refused 'Advance' On Riches; Fan Mail Pours In

George C. Jones, heir to nearly half a million dollars, is "still poor and on the Welfare."

At his home, 730 Stanton avenue, Millvale, he said of his paradoxical financial affairs:

"I tried to get an advance but they told me I will have to wait a while yet. But the Welfare didn't leave me flat—they gave me a raise."

But if Jones is still "financially embarrassed" he is rich in "fan mail." Since June 20, when he first got word of the estate, left by a grandfather in Wales, he has received five bushels of letters.

MOST FROM GERMANY

Of the mail which comes from every state in the Union and almost every country on the globe, he said:

"You have to inherit money to find out how many smoothies and how many rackets there are. There is hardly a letter that doesn't ask for money. One fellow wanted $15,000 right away.

"Germany seems to be the hardest hit country of all. I got more letters from Germany than anywhere else."

One letter from a young man in Syracuse, N. Y., wants him to finance the publishing of his song. It's appropriately called "Prosperity Days Are Here."

'HEIR WITH PUNCH'

Only a few of the letters have his home address. Most of them have nothing more than his name and Pittsburgh on the envelope. Others are addressed thus:

"Heir to ½ Million $ $ $ $ $. "The Heir With a Punch."

When Jones first heard of the inheritance, he promised:

"I'm going 'round, and everybody I don't like I'm going to punch on the nose."

SAILS MARCH 1

On March 1 he said he is planning to sail for England to receive the fortune. He said it amounts to $375,000 in cash, with more than $10,000 royalty yearly on 400 acres of land and 76 houses and other securities.

Jones has been unemployed three years and on the welfare list for more than a year. He has a wife and two small children.

The letters have not phased Jones, so to speak. When 22 he inherited $35,000 from his uncle and spent it in two years. He said he is going to be more saving this time, adding:

"This depression has been a good thing and taught us all a lesson. It has made us more saving and economical."

NEW ICE PERIL FACES BYRD

Universal Service.

S. S. JACOB RUPPERT, OFF ANTARCTICA, Jan. 5.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition flagship was in peril last night as a menacing ice pack pressed in upon it.

The craft remained in a small "lake" in the ice with steam up in two boilers, prepared to move at a moment's notice. A bitter snow squall swept across the decks.

The threat against the ship and crew came after Rear Admiral Byrd made a stirring flight south across the ice pack toward the continental front of Antarctica, which indicated there is no land along what has heretofore been known as the eastern edge of the Ross Sea.

It was Byrd's second flight into the unknown reaches south since the S. S. Jacob Ruppert entered the ice pack.

CUBA OPPOSES PEACE PLAN

HAVANA, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Amid rumors of impending revolt, strong opposition rose today to a plan for the restoration of political peace in Cuba.

Benjamin Fernandez de Medina, Uruguayan minister, annnounced his plan late last night and asserted it bore the backing of warring political factions.

But today close friends of Dr. Anthony Guiteras, secretary of the interior, revealed that he would not approve it.

The Medina peace program calls for Carlos Mendieta to succeed President Ramon Grau San Martin next month. Grau would be given a place on the proposed council of state.

Havana merchants received an unsigned circular today requesting them to cancel United States orders within eight days, European orders within 30 and Japanese within 45 days, "in order to reduce to a minimum Grau's customs income."

EX-BANK CLERK GETS 10 YEARS

J. Wesley Emanuel, 29, of 1635 Leland street, Carrick, former bank clerk, today was sentenced to 10 years in jail after entering pleas of guilty and no defense to 81 counts of embezzlement involving $12,202.

Judge James H. Gray stipulated a parole would be granted if restitution were made and a position obtained.

Emanuel was a former collection clerk in the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company while also serving as bookkeeper for John A. Kane, broker.

It was charged that while playing the stock market four years ago he carried a margin account with Kane. When stocks started to drop, it was alleged, Emanuel failed to make deposits in the bank to Kane's account totaling approximately $8,000, giving the money to Kane to carry his margin. At the same time, it was charged he, likewise, took about $4,000 already deposited to the broker's account in the bank. Partial restitution has been realized through sale of some of Emanuel's stocks, it was testified.

Cash Pledges Urged To Retain Airport

Retention of Rodgers Field with finances pledged by aviation enthusiasts was urged yesterday by Maj. Hal Bazley, director of the City-County airport, at a meeting of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh in the William Penn Hotel.

Bazley expressed doubt that the County Commissioners could retain the field because of economic conditions. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, invited to attend, was not present.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Convicted of distrubing the peace at the home of Robert Armstrong, a 26-year-old bead stringer, Zina Simon, was given a 90-day jail sentence yesterday by a Municipal Judge, who suspended it on her promise to write no more love letters to the film actors.

Miss Simon was arrested Saturday night after Armstrong's housekeeper and gardener complained she created a disturbance in attempting to enter the actor's home.

WYNEKOOP CASE SECRET REPORT REVEALED

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—A bullet fired into her nude back, and not chloroform, brought death to Rheta Gardner Wynekoop as she lay on an operating table, it was disclosed today in a hitherto secret report made by physicians who exhumed the young wife's body at Indianapolis.

This analysis of Rheta's body showing no trace of chloroform in the brain will form the basis of the state's case against Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, mother-in-law of the victim, prosecutors hinted reluctantly. Dr. Wynekoop will go on trial for the pretty violinist's murder January 11.

In a signed "confession," later repudiated, the woman physician held that her daughter-in-law had died from an overdose of chloroform while submitting to a medical examination. The bullet, according to the statement, was fired into Rheta's back to conceal a medical blunder.

If chloroform had caused the death of Mrs. Wynekoop, medical authorities say, traces of the anesthetic would have been evident in the brain fluid. But the report of Dr. J. J. Kearns and Dr. John Frost, who made the exhumation, reported that the brain contained no evidence of chloroform, according to Asistant Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty.

The operating table on which the victim died will remain in the possession of the state under a ruling by Judge Joseph B. David upholding the right of the state's attorney to seize a score of articles found in the Wynekoop mansion.

Prosecutors plan to use the operating table in a courtroom "reenactment" of her death, it was reported, using an effigy of the slain wife to carry out the drama.

The true taste

OF

*Produced entirely and exclusively by DISTILLATION —no mixing or artificial flavoring.

IT IS not surprising that many Americans have forgotten, or have never known, the taste of really good gin. If you are interested in comparing a superlative distilled gin with the mixed, synthetic, bathtub product of Prohibition days, make this simple little experiment.

Pour a little Fleischmann's Dry Gin into a glass and sip it slowly, as you would a cordial. You will be surprised at the soft, smooth, velvet-like body—free from all bite or sting; the delightful bouquet, the fine flavor.

"Yes, indeed," you will say, "this must be gin at its best."

And you'll be absolutely right. Fleischmann's Dry Gin is the finest that modern science and human skill can produce.

It is made entirely by distillation from selected American grains—even its delightful flavor is distilled into it—not mixed. What's more—the makers of Fleischmann's, not satisfied with triple distillation, carry their process forward through a fourth distillation—to achieve greater purity, richness, dryness, smoothness.

That is why in any drink requiring dry gin, you will find Fleischmann's a matchless mixer. Ask for it at any licensed dealer. Identify it by its red and yellow label and its pilferproof cap which should come to you unbroken.

U. S. CRIME WAR PLANS GIVEN CONGRESS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Moving in the government's campaign against interstate predatory crime, Attorney General Cummings in his annual report to Congress today announced that suitable bills and supporting memoranda soon will be made available to the committees. He said:

"Study has been given to matters of proposed legislation.

"Among these measures may be mentioned:

"Regulation of traffic in machine guns and other firearms; prison escapes, including complicity of prison officers or employes; resisting and killing a federal officer; interstate transportation of stolen property; simplification of removing proceedings; escape from lawful custody while awaiting trial; waiver of indictment by grand jury in certain criminal cases, and regulation of alibi defenses."

Under emergency legislation and executive order the work of the Department of Justice has been increased vastly, Cummings declared.

Additional strain, he pointed out, has been placed on the department by the extension of existing activities, among which are matters relating to kidnaping and racketeering.

DISCUSSES KIDNAPING

Discussing kidnaping and extortion in the section of the report dealing with the division of investigation, J. Edgar Hoover, director, said that in investigating these cases it was soon found that it would be impracticable to restrict activities to those cases of interstate scope.

In many cases it was found that the federal angle could be discovered only after the return of the kidnaped person. Hoover said:

"Then, too, the efforts of the department to co-operate to the fullest extent with law-enforcement agencies throughout the United States in combating kidnaping and racketeering necessitate the immediate entry of the division into the case the moment that a kidnaping is reported."

Sanford Bates, chief of the Bureau of Prisons, emphasized the necessity of scientific treatment of prison inmates aimed at returning as many as possible to society in mental and physical condition to resume normal life. He said:

"Undeniably, a large group of men leave our state and federal prisons each year embittered, unregenerate and either unwilling or unable to abide by the laws."

PRISON POLICY TOLD

Bates advocated mental and physical treatment that would remove the handicaps from which prisoners are suffering and equiping them with a vocation that they may resume their place in society. He said:

"Men are deterred from committing crime by the speed with which a criminal is apprehended and the sentence meted out by the court, and not by what happens to the prisoner after he is placed behind walls."

Bates said that there was a substantial reduction in the number of Federal prisoners chiefly due to the anti-prohibition sentiment. He said that if all prohibition prisoners were removed there would be 9,000 inmates of the Federal institutions.

ARSON SUSPECT CLEARED

Samuel Goldstein, 68, of 242 Meyran avenue, was discharged for lack of evidence at a hearing before Magistrate Ralph E. Smith in Central Police Court today on an arson charge in connection with a series of fires in his home.

City Detectives Michael Tortorelli, of the bomb and arson squad, testified that firemen twice answered alarms to find several distinct fires burning in Goldstein's home. Battalion Chief John Callaghan and Fire Capts. Patrick Kane and James Baker, of Engine Company No. 24, corroborated his testimony.

Goldstein pointed out that he was asleep in the home and had to be aroused by neighbors when one of the fires broke out. On the other occasion, three members of the household were in the home, he testified.

BOY SHOT; LINK COCHRANE SON

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Eight-year-old Keith Culverhouse is recovering today from a slight wound which his mother says was inflicted by a bullet fired accidentally from a rifle held by Gordon Cochrane, Jr., 9-year-old son of "Mickey" Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers Baseball Club.

The boy was wounded in the back late yesterday while playing with several other lads. Physicians removed the bullet last night.

Mrs. Walter Culverhouse said:

"About eight of the children were playing in the yard. Gordon, to add to the realism, got his father's rifle.

"I didn't know anything was wrong until Keith came into the room where I was sewing and said: 'Mother, I'm shot.' Then I saw blood on his jacket."

Suicide Bequeaths 'All' In Each of Two Wills

After scribbling two wills on small pieces of brown wrapping paper, Rollo Douthett, 73, of 336 Hemlock street, North Side, ended his life by firing a bullet into his neck late yesterday, according to the coroner's report.

Douthett, a roomer, was found seated in bed, a 32-caliber revolver clutched in his right hand. Nearby Deputy Coroner Roy Addiesburger found the wills. One read:

"I bequeath Ruth Reese all the money I possess and all other possessions that she would care to have."

On another piece of paper he wrote:

"Dear Sister Bessie: I am thankful for the money and package that you gave me and in return I give all the money in my possession in the bank book and all the personal belongings. With kindness to you and George and all others. Goodbye."

Douthett had been employed as a night watchman. He was a widower.

SECURITIES ACT FACES FIRST 'TRUTH' TEST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The first action under the "truth in securities act" to determine the accuracy of statements by corporation officials in issuing securities has been initiated by the Federal Trade Commission against the Laclede Gas-Light Company of St. Louis.

The commission set January 12 for a hearing in Washington to determine whether the company's denial in its registration statement that it was involved in suits affecting the value of the issue was a misstatement.

The commission said it had learned that the company did have pending suits involving rates it could charge for its service and will seek at the hearing to ascertain if such suits were not materially important to investors.

Harley L. Clarke, of Chicago, is chairman of the board. He did not, however, sign the registration statement, its legality being fixed by the signatures of a majority of the board of directors.

If the commission applies a stop-order against the securities after the hearing, holders of the bonds may claim either the former securities or cash from the company, while individual officers and directors become liable to civil proceedings.

Groy was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital for lacerations to his face, received when he remonstrated with the robbers.

BANK COLLAPSE PERILS FRENCH GOVERNMENT

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Resignation of an important French cabinet minister was reported imminent tonight as public clamor grew in connection with the scandal arising from collapse of the Credit Municipal of Bayonne and the flight of its founder, Alexander Stavisky.

French afternoon newspapers almost unanimously demanded to know without delay who was responsible for protecting Stavisky, previously convicted for fraud, during the years he amassed a fortune through control of the Credit Municipal. The institution failed with losses of $25,000,000 to investors.

SEARCH PRESSED

Search for Stavisky, "Junior Kreuger," sought by French police as the chief figure in one of the greatest financial scandals in French history, turned to the New World today.

International News Service learned that Stavisky left Paris for Portugal about December 26, and he was believed to have taken a steamer from there to Venezuela, a country from which there could be no extradition on the charges made against him.

He was believed to have had two million francs (about $120,000) in cash with him.

As the search for Stavisky was speeded there were frequent hints that Americans were involved in the nation-shaking collapse of Stavisky's Credit Municipal and 21 associated companies, although no names were mentioned.

GOVERNMENT SHAKEN

The Chautemps government faced five specific interpellations in the Chamber of Deputies, asking it to explain "the political and administrative responsibilities of the Bayonne scandal."

Banking and financial circles were extremely uneasy, and the government itself was shaken severely.

Stavisky's "general contrasting company" in Bayonne was visited today by Examining Magistrate Demay. He was greeted by President Alfred Wurtz, a commander of the Legion of Honor. In the safe were two five franc notes and four one-franc pieces (about 84 cents).

The prospectus of the company was discovered to have contained several lines of poetry.

The press charged that the condition of the Stavisky companies has been known for months, and that means had been sought to cover it up, but that insurance companies insisted upon reimbursement privately or by having the government invest large sums with Stavisky.

JUNIOR PATROL

A great flood killed many people in California recently, fellows!

Here in Pittsburgh, we aren't in much danger of floods or earthquakes. Southern California, where this flood occurred, is a beautiful place to live, and the people there won't let the misfortune discourage them. They will build their houses, ruined by the high water, again, and they will probably make sure by building dams and walls that the flood waters do not come again.

But it just seemed to us that the flood there shows that every place has some advantages. Some people are very discontented because they must live here in Pittsburgh where it is pretty foggy and dirty. But they forget that Pittsburgh is beautiful, too. They just don't stop to think that their own home town could be beautiful.

But go look at the hills around Pittsburgh, and the wooded parks, and look up and down the rivers, crossed by dozens of great bridges with their banks lined with railroads and big steel mills. These things are beautiful.

Everywhere here there are fine schools, many of them modern new buildings. The roads and streets around Pittsburgh are almost all smooth so that it is a pleasure to drive in your automobile.

But perhaps the best of all, the people here are friendly. And sociable. And that's a wonderful thing, fellows. We hope that every Junior Patrol member will do his part by being friendly, too. Be pleasant to strangers when they ask you for directions. In your own home, thank your brothers and sisters and your father and mother when they are kind to you and help you.

We have noticed this week that the new automobiles which will be shown for the first time this week will be new and different in their appearance. They will be stream-lined, the advertisements say. Do you know what that means, fellows? Wave your hand. Did you feel the air against it? Everything that moves on the earth has to push the air aside before it can move at all. Men have figured out now that it is easier for an automobile to slip through the air if it is shaped like a bullet or a fish. So now they are making automobiles look more and more like a fish or a Zeppelin.

TULIP CUTWORK PATTERN 585

Cutwork Is Easy to Do

To set a beautiful table is the ambition of every housewife. Here is a pattern of cutwork—that embroidery that is conceded to be among the most handsome forms of needlework—that gives her the opportunity not alone of enhancing her table linens, but making delightful scarfs or smaller pieces for any room in the house. Simple to do, this tulip pattern—graceful and effective—has an added advantage. Unlike other cutwork, there are no bars in this design. Through this, the work is simplified and at the same time the contrast of the plain open sections set off the design.

Pattern 585 comes to you with four 6x12 inch motifs, four 4½x6 inch motifs and six 2¼ inch corners for napkins, complete directions for doing cutwork and suggestions and yardage requirements for a variety of linens.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

JANUARY, AS nearly everyone knows, is named for the Roman god Janus, to whose care the month was dedicated. Janus it was who presented two faces to the world (one fore and another aft!) and therefore is the inspiration for the new "two-faced" dishes which have a double purpose in life.

These food-duets are eaten solo but provide a regular trio or even quartet of courses. Sometimes they are salad and dessert combined, sometimes they are meat and vegetable in one, and sometimes a whole meal on one plate!

Since the old god also busied himself with the beginning of all new enterprises, it is appropriate and perhaps even lucky for you to try them right away this month! Some of the most choice recipes follow—unlike some members of the two-faced category, they are gay, but not deceivers!

JELLIED GINGER SALAD—2 tablespoons gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 2 cups ginger ale, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup cherries, cut up; 1 orange, sliced; ½ package pasteurized dates, 1 apple, diced; 1 banana, cut round; 1 cup whipped cream.

Soak gelatin in water. Dissolve over hot water. Remove from fire, add to lemon juice, ginger ale and sugar. When it begins to stiffen pour over the fruit, arranged in layers, in individual molds. Serve with whipped cream on lettuce. Serves eight.

MACARONI A LA KING—½ pound macaroni, boiling salted water, ½ pimiento, minced; 2 cups milk, 6 tablespoons onion, minced; ½ green pepper, 1 cup mushrooms, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, grated cheese.

Cook macaroni until tender in boiling salted water. Drain, saving one cup water for sauce, and rinse with cold water. Put into buttered baking dish and cover with sauce and minced pimiento. To make sauce, combine the chopped onion, chopped pepper and mushrooms, sliced, and cook slowly until tender. Add cornstarch, and stir constantly while boiling two minutes. Add milk and stir over fire until smooth and thick. Sprinkle grated cheese over top of macaroni, and brown in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., about 15 minutes.

PEANUT BUTTER BREAD—3 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ cup sugar, ½ package pasteurized dates, ⅔ cup peanut butter, ½ cup milk.

Sift the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Place the peanut butter in a bowl. Add the milk slowly, and then the dates, which have been pitted and sliced. Add the dry ingredients. Stir until mixed. Pour batter into a well-oiled loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Makes one loaf.

Poverty Is Poor Argument In Some Cases

"Too poor to marry"—

So, then what?

Is that a good argument for Free Love?

Or is it a selfish rotter's camouflage for evading the law and breaking a girl's heart?

Lillian wondered. There was the Boy Friend. Was it his fault if he didn't have a job?

But still Lillian waited—hesitated—said "No!" Said no though her heart was aching and her blood was pleading for the tenderness she, too, craved.

Was she right to stand by the standards her mother had taught her? Or was she terribly wrong . . . holding up "old-fashioned notions" against a "good man's" plea?

So she wrote—and here's an answer from a girl who belonged to a generation that knew what waiting meant.

Dear Elsie—

I've just finished reading Lillian's letter about her Cry Baby boy friend, who wants her to go in for free love "because times are hard and they don't know when they can ever marry," and it made my blood boil.

I wonder how that boys' character would have stood the test that my generation had to go through? Of course, many of us didn't have what it takes, either—but a great many more did have. Nor do we deserve any praise for just acting regular!

BOYS WENT AWAY

I'm of the generation that, in 1917, said "good-bye" to our sweethearts, and saw them go to war. So I'm not so old as to be classed with the relics—just 36. Some of us never saw our darlings again. Others were more fortunate and did. However, the fact that we did, didn't make our partings any easier.

You can just bet that the last few evenings we spent with our boys were the stiffest character tests any youngsters could have faced.

And before the U. S. A. entered the war there was a depression on, too. Jobs weren't so plentiful, and hardly any young man of 21 or 22 made over $75 a month, if he earned that much.

All of which made marriage just as far off for us as it is for any young people of this day.

Most of us stood fast. And in the fortunate cases where our sweethearts did return, the ability to look each other squarely in the eye was worth all it had cost.

Self-respect was worth all it cost, whether it was a case of going to war or of a long engagement—sometimes as long as three or four years. And what's more, there was no complaint. There were no demands, such as Lillian's Boy Friend made, proving the men were men and not babies.

OFFERS ADVICE

And we girls were totally unaware that our sweethearts were "sacrificing" anything for us. Those boys had backbone.

My advice to Lillian is the same as yours—to hold fast and drop that boy friend. He is asking too much. He wouldn't think of going into a store and asking for a $100 suit of clothes on the promise that he would pay for it when his salary was raised. But that is equivalent to what he is asking of Lillian.

He sounds like a rotter to me, and if I were you, sister, I would just drop him down the gutter where he belongs, and get me a regular man.

He is thoroughly selfish. He doesn't love you. He loves himself, and what he wants is the only important thing in his eyes. I have lived enough to know a few things about people like that. They're poison.

And there are too many of them nowadays. Are men going soft, or what?

A 1919 BRIDE.

What's the answer to that, boys?

Are you too soft to match the spirit of '17?

Foolish Girls Are Warned by Fay King of a Lothario Rascal

By FAY KING

The foolish girl who falls in love with another woman's husband and believes him when he tells her that he was never in love with his wife, insults her own intelligence.

If this were true, then she had better begin instantly to doubt that he is in love with her also, for he must be the world's best actor and no lover at all.

No woman was ever won by any man without being convinced that she was really loved. The more reason there may be for doubting, the more he must make her believe.

The man who repudiates and denies his love for one woman is apt to marry a number of wives and forget them each in turn as easily.

Better avoid him!

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Bottle of Acid Is Found By Madge and Lillian.

At Lillian's triumphant announcement that she believed she had guessed the hiding place of the bottle which Avis Arlen had secreted in the bathroom. I forgot poise, "poker-face," all the attributes of the modern woman, and jumped up as excitedly as any boarding school girl might have done.

"Where?" I exclaimed, thanking my particular little joss the next instant that I had remembered to lower my voice. "In this room? I can't believe it!"

"All right! Call me Sapphira if you feel like it," she retorted. "If tempus wasn't fugiting all over the lot, I'd keep you guessing for a while. But as it is, look up there!"

She pointed a dramatic forefinger at a corner of the ceiling diagonally across from us.

My eyes followed hers and I caught my breath in amazement at my own stupidity. The small trap door leading into the attic was not quite in its usual perfect alignment. There was a small crevice distinctly discernible.

"She climbed up there, and hid it!" I exclaimed.

She wrinkled her nose at me. "I can't say 'Elementary Watson,' because you have seen how long it took me to tumble. But neither one of us overlooked a bet, as the fair Avis did. You'd think that after she'd been clever enough to think of that hiding place, she wouldn't have slipped up on putting the trap back. Here! You're lighter than I, also younger, although I hate to admit both points. But it gives you the honor of getting that bottle. Can you reach it from this chair?

ACID IN BOTTLE

She had placed a chair beneath the trap door as she spoke, and I quickly mounted it.

"Easily," I said, and, pushing back the trap door, I felt around the edge cautiously. An instant later I drew out the bottle triumphantly.

"I am sure this is the one," I said. "It looks exactly like it, and no one else would be apt to put a bottle there, especially so near the edge."

Her hand was outstretched, and I put the bottle into it. She took out the cork cautiously, and sniffed it gingerly. The look on her face held me motionless for an instant, then I jumped down from the chair.

"What is it?" I said breathlessly.

She held it under my nose.

"Do you get it?" she asked.

I nodded. The bottle was filled with a colorless liquid which, diluted many times, I knew was used in cleaning certain fabrics. Always, in using it thus diluted, the warning was given to be careful, for if not diluted according to the directions, it would hurt the fabric. It needed no imagination to point out what would happen to the new bridesmaid's gown, should Avis Arlen be able to put even a few drops of this undiluted liquid upon it. The cloth would be eaten into holes—hopelessly ruined.

"A few seconds' session with that gown, and Avis would be able to wear her green and silver concoction without any protest, because there would not be anything else for her to wear," Lillian drawled.

CONTENTS DESTROYED

"She won't wear that green and silver dress in the wedding procession under any circumstances," I said vindictively. "If she manages to spoil the other before time for the ceremony, she won't 'join the procession —Philip Veritzen or no Philip Veritzen'."

"Atta girl!" Lillian commented with a grin that brought me back to poise a bit shamefacedly. "And now"—she held the bottle aloft—"What's to be done with the evidence?"

"Pour the contents down the drain and put the bottle back where we found it," I said promptly. "I'd like to be up there watching the girl's face when she discovers it's empty."

"Here, too, Pete!" Lillian assented promptly. "But, don't you see, we mustn't let her know that we are onto her diabolical little scheme. However, we'll put this out of commission before we go any further."

She tilted the bottle and drained the contents out, then re-stoppered it and handed it back to me.

"Put it back up there and draw the trap back," she said, "then I'll stay up here on guard while you skim down the back way and get Jim on this job as quickly as you can."

Household Hints

Ham sandwiches are more interesting if the ham is chopped and mixed with savory aspic jelly which has been whipped up with a fork.

Gray furs that are soiled will look like new if cleaned with fig dust. Apply to the fur with a cloth, stroking firmly the way of the fur. Shake, and brush out with a fairly stiff brush. Failing fig dust, the next best cleaning agent is hot dry bran. Apply in the same way and brush out.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Fine hairline lamberquins make the face expressionless. They are treated ruthlessly, take on strange quirks and outlines, and it is all a bit sad, if you ask us. All right to weed 'em, direct them the way they should go, but they should retain at least a suggestion of the natural trend.

Even the best complexion has its off color days. It is changed for the worse by digestive difficulties, harsh winds, emotional sprees, late hours. It is a health barometer. Gray, yellow and florid complexions are the direct result of internal upsets, one might just as well save on the cosmetic overhead at such times, buckle down to the business of getting the physical condition right again. Eat wisely, sleep nine hours, drink plenty of water, breathe deeply, exercise regularly.

Some of the ahead-of-time girls are affecting the dead white skin and red, red lips. They get that way by using a liquid powder. That they look as if they were about to pass away seems not to bother them. This style of make-up doesn't belong to the times, when health is fashionable and girls are supposed to be firm of muscle, look well exercised.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

An Unusual Grand Coup

"A Grand Coup in Whist was indeed a masters' play," remarks Mr. Walter Wyman, of Arlington, Mass. "But in Contract Grand Coups should be shorn of capital letters and played with a yawn."

This is a safe generalization, as the principal value of most Grand Coups is to exhibit a rare but in no sense masterly play.

There are exceptions to the generalization, however, as witness the hand below, which Mr. Wyman submits as having been played against him by Mr. George M. Leghorn, of Boston, Mass. The Grand Coup depends upon shortening up an overlong trump holding so as not to be forced to trump in and had to a tenace at the right of the Declarer. This shortening up becomes a Grand Coup only when an extra trump is played upon a winning card held by the partner. The ordinary play of the Grand Coup then consists of trumping partner's winning card in a plain suit. Rarely indeed is the Grand Coup made by under-trumping partner, which is the other way of playing a superfluous trump upon partner's winning card. The hand below, played by Mr. Leghorn, is of this extremely rare type and is well worth adding to any collector's records of advanced plays. Mr. Leghorn, vulnerable, was paired with Mrs. Chester A. Porter and playing against Mrs. Leghorn and Mr. Wyman in a match-point Duplicate game.

South: Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

The Opening bid of one heart by Mr. Leghorn was doubled by Mrs. Leghorn, sitting West, and passed all around. Mr. Wyman, in explanation of his rather light pass of his partner's Double, states that he felt that a 200-point penalty would be a better score than any part-score East and West could make and that a 500-point penalty would outrank any game score East and West might make.

East and West can make three notrump by winning the first trick if a low heart is led and then proceeding to cash four spades and four diamonds. The contract, however, would have been hard to reach.

The Opening lead was the club 3 by West, Mrs. Leghorn being unwilling to open either the Ace of spades or from her diamond tenace. This was won by the Declarer with the King, and a small diamond returned. This was won by Mrs. Leghorn, who now laid down the spade Ace and continued with two more rounds of spades, which were won by Mr. Wyman. He now returned a club, and the Declarer took his second trick and led from his own hand another diamond. This was won by West, who then cashed the club Queen. West was in difficulties for a lead, and finally decided upon the lead of the now established thirteenth spade. This was ruffed with the heart 4 in Dummy, and when East discarded the diamond Ten, South undertrumped with the heart 3.

This and the next play assured the contract. The heart Ten was now led from Dummy, East playing the Knave and South winning the trick with the King. A diamond was returned and ruffed, and now the purpose of the undertrump was clear. An additional entry had been provided in Dummy for another trump lead through. As a result, on the twelfth and thirteenth tricks Mr. Wyman's remaining trumps were led through and captured.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Should South always make some response in the following bidding situation? North is the Dealer and North and South are vulnerable.

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	?

Answer—North's bid is an Inferential Force. Having opened the bidding, his only Sign-Off over two notrump would be a pass. If he has sufficient values to rebid at all, the hand ought to play at game. South should make some response, probably three notrump, unless he has a four-card major suit he might conceivably bid, or strong support for the diamonds and some hope for a Slam.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Discovery of Insulin a Boon to Diabetics.

If you should ask your doctor what he considers the outstanding medical discovery of the past decade, I feel sure he would say "insulin". Prior to its discovery in 1922 by Dr. Banting, a Canadian physician, diabetes was a hopeless and fatal disease. Since this remedy has been used, diabetes is no longer a dreaded affliction.

Dr. Copeland

In addition to the use of insulin, other great advances have been made in the control of diabetes. For example, many sufferers from diabetes can control this disorder by adhering to a well planned and rigid diet. But where diet is of little aid, and the sufferer cannot remain sugar-free, insulin is necessary. It is especially indicated when the appetite cannot be satisfied and the patient continues to lose a great deal of weight.

What is insulin?

It is a substance secreted by certain cells in the pancreas, the "sweetbreads." It is developed by all healthy individuals. It is essential to health, because it helps burns starches and sugars. When absent or present in small amounts, the body is unable to handle the starches and sugars of the diet. Consequently the body does not get the necessary heat and energy.

There is a lack of insulin in the body of the diabetic. In consequence, he is unable properly to utilize his food. As a result of this weakness an excessive amount of sugar accumulates within the body and it soon appears in the blood and urine. If this condition is overlooked, thirst, weakness, dizziness and frequent and painful elimination soon annoy the sufferer.

When insulin is administered the symptoms disappear and the excessive quantity of sugar in the body is burned up, as it should be. Insulin is given in varying amounts, depending upon the age and weight of the sufferer, and the extent of the disease. It is injected under the skin with a hypodermic needle. It should never be used unless under the guidance and direction of a physician.

I am often asked whether insulin is a dangerous drug. It is not a dangerous drug, but if given carelessly, alarming reactions may occur.

Occasionally, the diabetic complains of trembling, weakness and excessive sweating after insulin has been taken. This is due to the excessive burning of sugar caused by the insulin and the uncomfortable effects can be overcome by taking a little sugar, or drinking some orange juice or milk. Another danger to guard against is taking insulin at the wrong time. It is preferably administered before meals. If insulin is taken, the meal should never be omitted.

Do not be afraid of insulin. Follow the directions given by your doctor. Report to him at periodic intervals so that he may determine the progress you are making. It may be necessary to reduce the amount of insulin, increase it, or omit it. This depends entirely upon the progress you have made.

We should rejoice over this discovery. It has meant much to the human family.

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Oysters and Hors D'oeuvre

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you please tell me the correct way to eat an oyster on the half-shell? Is the whole oyster put into the mouth with the aid of a fork, is it cut into pieces then eaten in that way, or should the shell be taken between the fingers, the liquid drunk and the oyster swallowed whole?

2—When an oyster cocktail is served, should the oyster be first eaten with a fork and then the liquid drunk?

3—What is the correct pronunciation of the word "hors d'oeuvre?" H.

1—With the oyster fork take the oyster from the shell and eat the oyster whole. "Spear the beast, and it is yours!" Do not cut the oyster, even if it seems to have more or less the personality of the big bad wolf.

2—No. When the cocktail sauce is served with the oysters, lift the oyster from the shell, dip it in the sauce, and then eat it. The sauce is for "dunking" the oyster.

3—Hors d'oeuvre is pronounced in two syllables. The first syllable is like or, with the o as in cord. That is, the h and the s are not pronounced. The second part of the word is also pronounced in one syllable, with a bit of lingering on the final r, but not making the final r a full syllable. It is as if it were spelled duvr, with the u having the value of the u in fur.

Cheese Is a Staple Food Of Every Race

Rich in Proteins and Vitamins, This Product From Milk Has Twice as Great Food Value as Meat, And, Contrary to the Belief of Many Persons, If Properly Used It Is Easy to Digest

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Visit any shop where only cheese is sold, and you will be amazed at the varieties displayed. They are so attractive that each looks more appetizing than the rest.

The "humblest" or the "fussiest" taste can easily be satisfied. There are domestic and imported cheeses in various shapes and colors. Every country of the world is represented by its particular brand or varieties of this valuable food.

Cheese is a concentrated product made from whole milk, skimmed milk or milk and cream. It is one of the oldest known of the milk products. It is made by compressing the curd when the milk is coagulated, and then allowing it to "ripen" or "age."

It is said that there are over 400 varities of cheese. The kind purchased depends upon the individual taste. In general there are two classes—the hard and the soft. Some of the soft cheeses are cottage, cream, pot cheese, Brie and Camembert. The most popular of the hard varities are Swiss, Roquefort, Edam, Parmesan and Gorgonzola.

IMPORTANT SUBSTANCES

Cheese contains the important food substances found in milk. Made from skim milk it has less fat, of course, than when made from whole milk. Hard cheese contains less water than soft cheese. But whether hard or soft, the chief constituents are practically the same.

The proteins found in cheese make it valuable as a substitute for meat, milk and eggs. Many prefer the taste of cheese to that of milk and eggs.

Cheese gives heat and energy because of its high fat content. It is an economical source of fuel for the body and therefore a valuable addition to the diet. It provides about twice as much food value as meat.

EASY TO DIGEST

Lime and phosphorus are found in great abundance in cheese. These minerals are necessary for the proper development of strong bones and strong and healthy teeth. Cheese carries the vitamins which are essential to the growth of the body and its protection against general disease and local infections.

Many persons believe cheese is difficult to digest. Some find it so because they eat large amounts or at the end of a large meal. As a matter of fact it is easy to digest. Repeated experiments have proven this statement to be true.

When it is not served as the main dish, eat it in moderation, and always chew it carefully. The soft varieties, such as cream and cottage cheese, are more suitable for invalids and children.

Arrange ham, apple and bread crumbs in alternate layers in a baking dish. Mix together remaining ingredients; bring to boil. Pour over mixture in baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven at 375 degrees F. about 45 minutes.

UPSIDE DOWN CAKE—1½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ cup liquid shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup pineapple syrup.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Break eggs into mixing bowl, beat slightly with egg beater and add cool shortening gradually, stirring constantly with beater. Stir in sugar. Add pineapple juice and beat one minute. Add dry ingredients.

FRUIT-NUT MIXTURE — ½ cup syrup, 1 cup canned pineapple, 6 or 7 nutmeats, whipped cream.

Into well-oiled heavy aluminum or iron frying pan pour syrup and heat a moment to spread syrup over bottom of pan. Drain pineapple slices and arrange to cover bottom. In center of each place a nutmeat (or maraschino cherry). Pour in cake mixture (above) and bake in moderate oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 minutes. Remove from oven. Let stand 5 minutes and turn out upside-down on platter. Serve with whipped cream.

"WASTE NOT, WANT NOT."

"A penny saved is a penny earned." "Take care of the pennies, and the pounds will take care of themselves!" These and other axioms from the Almanack of Poor Richard are the kitchen mottoes for January, for the 228th birthday of their author, Benjamin Franklin, brings thrifty dishes into the spot light. Other great men's birthdays bring us parties and feasts, but Franklin's, on January 17, brings us economy.

There are all manner of thrifty dishes to serve in honor of the day, but "newsiest" are those related to the history of the great Benjamin himself. And, certainly, since he is often called the father of American printing and journalism, we should be "newsy"!

"Poor Richard" was born in Boston where he must have dined of a Saturday night upon the traditional baked beans and brown bread. His private recipes are not available, but these are thrifty of practice and delicious of results:

BAKED BEANS—2 cups pea beans, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 small onion, peeled; ½ cup syrup, ¼ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 2-ounce piece salt pork.

Wash the beans and soak over night in cold water. In the morning add soda and cook beans, in the same water, until the skins begin to loosen. Place one-half the salt pork, sliced, in the bottom of the bean pot; add one-half the beans and seasonings; add remaining beans and seasonings; bury the onion in the beans. Drizzle the syrup over top, cover with salt pork. Add enough boiling water slowly until it seeps through the beans to the top. Do not use too much. Cover and bake in slow oven for four hours or longer, until liquid is absorbed and beans are dark and mealy.

BROWN BREAD—1 cup whole-wheat flour, 2 cups wheat flour, ¾ cup syrup, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 cups sour milk, 1 cup flaked bran, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1½ teaspoons soda.

Mix dry ingredients; add syrup, melted butter and sour milk. Beat well. Pour into oiled bread pan and let stand one hour. Bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees F. for 1 to 1¼ hours. Recipe makes one large loaf.

From Boston to Philadelphia, the young Franklin journeyed, and as everybody knows, "munched upon a loaf" en route. Some historians claim it was a crusty white bread and some claim it was a cinnamon bun. Fence-sitters may make both, but the latter will enjoy this recipe which requires no yeast:

CINNAMON BUNS—3 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons shortening, ¾ cup cold water, soft butter, ⅔ cup currants or small raisins, brown sugar, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, cinnamon, 1 egg or 2 egg yolks.

Stir flour, baking powder, salt and white sugar together; cut in shortening. Beat egg slightly in measuring cup and add water. Mix liquid with dry ingredients to make a soft dough. Turn out dough on floured board and knead slightly to smooth the dough. Roll ⅜ inch thick. Spread with butter, cover with fruit; sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Roll up dough like jelly roll and cut off pieces two inches thick. Melt four tablespoons butter in a heavy skillet; add ½ cup maple syrup. Place biscuits, cut side up in the prepared pan. Bake in moderate oven at 400-425 degrees F. about 35 minutes or until biscuits are done. Invert skillet and turn out biscuits immediately. Recipe makes 8-10.

It was in Philadelphia that Franklin met Deborah Read, who became his wife and "dear Debby," and, it is supposed, got his first taste of the economical pepper pot, economical and savory native of the City of Brotherly Love.

PHILADELPHIA PEPPER POT—⅓ cup chopped green pepper, ⅓ cup chopped beet, ¼ pound tripe, diced; ¾ cup chopped tomato, ⅓ cup chopped onion, 2 tablespoons rice, 1 quart cold water or white stock, 1 pound veal knuckle, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons salt.

Cook together all except tomato 2 hours; add tomato, cook 20 minutes longer. Remove veal, and retain meat for later use.

MAYFLOWER PLUM PUDDING—1 cup fresh bread crumbs, ¼ cup suet, chopped fine, ½ teaspoon soda, ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ cup molasses, 1 egg, 1-3 cup milk, 4 tablespoons raisins, 4 tablespoons nuts.

Mix the bread crumbs, suet, soda, cloves, cinnamon, salt and baking powder. Add the raisins cut fine and the nuts. Break the egg into the molasses. Beat well, and add the milk. Mix with the first ingredients. Stir and mix thoroughly. Fill a well-buttered pudding mold one-half full. Steam one and a half hours and serve with yellow sauce.

Walter Winchell
+ ON BROADWAY +

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I certainly started 1934 off with a bing-bang. I did . . . I said that Yale would ban fraternity houses soon—when, as a matter of fact, they banned them long ago . . . Was I drunk! . . . Then to make matters worse—the horse called "Ben Bernie" which always came in last at Jefferson Park—until it came in second recently—came in first twice in three days last week—paying fancy prices. If you wagered $2 on a win parlay the last two starts it would have paid you $256.30—which I certainly hope Bernie, himself, forgot to do . . . At least the horse with that name—is good . . . I got a good laugh out of the NBC announcer at the Rose Bowl . . . When he remarked that it was beginning to rain, again . . . "But," he added, "this is what we call a clearing up shower—clear up to your neck!" . . . A sensayuma like that always throws me . . . They tell me Milton Berle, the noted joke-pirate, now has an appropriate theme song—to wit—"Everything I Have Is Yours" . . . And Vivien Ruth's description of Broadway belongs in my archives—"Where they wish more power to you—hoping you'll explode."

Interesting feud between Edna Ferber, the novelist, and Alexander Woollcott, the playwright, born in Phalanx, N. J. . . . The explosion came when Miss Ferber walked in at the premiere of his and George S. Kaufman's new play "The Dark Tower" at 9:20 p. m.—almost half an hour after it started . . . And so Alex lost his temperament and made cracks about her. . . . And when she heard of his cussing—she told friends: "Oh, I'm so weary of the tyranny of that New Jersey Nero!" . . . It was a very funny retort, of course, and Woollcott, upon hearing it, laughed himself . . . When I confronted him with the story, which I said would be published, he said he couldn't be peeved with so clever a woman—and that when he saw her next he would embrace her—for which he expected a sock in the eye . . . Walter O'Keefe's gag rates a nod . . . He tells of the two old ladies from Kokomo, who came to New York, went into Childs, had nine highballs, and then the manager came over and gave them corn flakes and cream—on the house.

It certainly takes plenty of nerve to get away with the gag . . . I mean those characters on Sundays, who go through the streets of New York, bellowing fake headlines with their unintelligible at times leather-lunged throating . . . "America At Wardiddle-dee-dor!" is one of their cries . . . Or: "Murder at the White House!" . . . Or some such terrifying news—which they exact a dime for—and then, after you've searched every page, and discover you've been swindled—you mutter a little . . . But you do not make a scene—because you think people will laugh and snicker at you for being fooled . . . If, however, they use your name for a fake sale, you must be pretty big news, you say to yourself, and what the devil! You're helping some thieves make a living . . . But the snakes went through a territory last Sunday where my mother dwells—and the shock might have laid her low . . . "Woller Winchell Killed in Crash!" they yelled up and down the mid-town streets . . . My ailing mother didn't happen to hear them—for which hurray! . . . But think of all the people who did—and who were so disappointed . . . However, if one day you read about these mice being at one of the local hospitals—tell the gendarmes that Mrs. Winchell's little boy—arranged it.

Fascinating stunt that one planned by Mathias Connes, the attorney. He is dickering now to place with a syndicate his "Legal Oddities"—a form of "Believe It or Not"—a series of crazy laws on our books! . . . What with the papers saying how the new mayor's police will go after gambling—it is something to worry about . . . For Mr. Connes says the following statute probably would put you and yours and me in the hoosegow . . . For instance: If you are caught playing cards in New York City at your home and you win or lose $25 or more in the game (or any game) you may be fined $125 or go to jail, if you can't pay it . . . If, however, you win or lose only $24.95 you're immune!

Oh, Mayor La Guardia—you're the only man I know who knows a sappy law when he hears of one . . . Please don't allow any cop to take advantage of it . . . Some cops are funny like that.

Amazing what liquor will do . . . New Years Eve at the Casino de Paree, waiters' tips alone, all of which were pooled, totaled $2,600 . . . The gross receipts were terrific—$31,000 . . . My recent moaning because people I went to bat for—failed me—brought this healing salve . . . From the President of the town's newest gazette: "Please accept our regrets over that slap at you. The persons in charge when that copy passed thru the editorial department are no longer with us. We write this to let you know that we appreciated your boost before we began to publish—and that we deplore the seeming act of ingratitude" . . . Well, all right . . . Just so long as it was recalled that I gave them exploitation that might have brought my paper and others big revenue in advertising copy, which apparently they did not need, any more . . . Nor do I expect any writer to spare me with criticism, especially when I am news—which I appear to be—what with this argument and that one . . . But the poke complained about—was a hammy and worn-to-shreds squawk, used at least a thousand times in the past decade . . . If only they would think up a new angle! . . . And it didn't name me, at all . . . It was aimed at the craft in general, and it made me mad because I am a part of it . . . And when I am mad—they tell me I read breezier—and so I wish someone would irritate me . . . Of course, when I make no reply to an attack—it is either because I think the teaser wants a free ad—or because I can't think of a good answer.

As One Mayor To Another

Open letter from Joe Cook to Mayor McNair:—

Dear Mayor McNair:

As one Mayor to another, I want to wish you a calm and prosperous administration.

As you may know, in my play, "Hold Your Horses," I run for Mayor of New York City on the horse car platform, and, to everyone's astonishment, I am elected.

In these many weeks I have been Mayor, many problems have arisen, and I wonder if in my treatment of them, I have not struck on something that would be of profit to the Mayor of Pittsburgh.

For instance—the first thing I would do would be to move Schenley Park downtown. Then people would get the good of it. Imagine how grateful the tired shopper would be if she could step out of the store and into Schenley Park.

This brings us to the question of schools, or, as more commonly known, the school question. I think we have been a little too hard on the kiddies. I would have them attend school one hour a week. With running to the store and other things, the children have very little time for Mickey Mouse and Mae West. Besides, these tots are the voters of tomorrow and the voters of tomorrow, as everyone knows, are the voters of tomorrow.

I have just two words of advice on cabinets: abolish them.

As you can see, my ideas are not only sane and sensible, but have that reactionary progressivism that our cities need so much today.

JOE COOK.

Friends Give Blood to Help Eddie Sutherland

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5.—The fighting heart of Eddie Sutherland must beat all the stronger to know that 125 of his friends are pleading with the doctors to let them give blood for the vital transfusions that might save the director's life.

Not in a long time has Hollywood been so moved as by the valiant struggle Eddie has waged against pneumonia that has kept him, for many days, on the very brink of death. Holiday revelers at dozens of parties have halted their celebrations to call the hospital for the latest news. When hope was given up at one time, it cast a damper upon the entire Yuletide and New Years festivities in the film colony.

Mr. Sutherland

The director has had five blood transfusions to date. The latest was given to him by Leroy Prinz, Paramount dance director, who worked with Eddie on "Too Much Harmony." As the sick man lay with the top part of his body in the glass oxygen cage, he murmured:

"Who is the man?"

Someone told him it was Prinz.

"No fooling," he said and smiled weakly.

A bit later, when the transfusion was over, Prinz sat up on the table, looked into the glass cage and exclaimed:

"Boy, from now on you're a hoofer!"

There never has been any thought of using professional blood-sellers. Doctors are deluged with volunteers. And they are all insistent.

Barring further complications, he now has more than a fighting chance to get well.

New Years Eve was a bad night for George Raft. In addition to fracturing a small bone in his ankle as he stepped from the Cocoanut Grove Orchestra platform to the dance floor, the star's swank new automobile was wrecked. It was all very mysterious. They took Georgie to a room in the Ambassador to spend the night. The next thing they knew the Hollywood police called to say that his car was wrapped around a telephone pole in Sunset boulevard. The massive engine was pushed back into the seat and the body of the car was smashed in. The telephone pole was split in the middle.

Mr. Raft

Problem is who took the joy-ride, and how did they get the car.

The Los Angeles record rainstorm over New Years brought many strange experiences to the film people.

Dorothy Dell arrived at the studio at 4:45 a. m., to get in makeup for her ride on the Paramount "Search for Beauty" float in the Pasadena parade. The studio gateman, who always is the target for revelers on New Years Eve, refused to let her in.

Having come all the way in the driving rain, Dorothy was pretty mad.

"But I work here!" she cried. "I'm going to be in the Rose Tournament parade!"

"Ah, naah, lady, that's way over in Pasadena," squelched the gateman.

When the players for the float finally did get in, the studio electric plant had gone out and there was no light by which to make up. Someone finaly invaded the sacred Von Sternberg set, lighted the huge candles they've been using in "Catherine the Great" and put on the grease paint there.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Trip to the Coast

AMBASSADOR HOTEL, LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Yes, I packed the old bag again. It all happened a short time ago when Mr. Ted Husing, the broadcasting wizard, phoned me at my office.

"Mark," he began, "Columbia and Stanford are about to play that all-important game of football on the Coast. Please do not think me presumptuous if I——"

"Cut it short, kid," I interrupted. "I'm up to my neck in work these days. So let's have the dope in as few words as possible."

That was a dangerous crack on my part. Asking for a few words from Mr. Husing is a nervy business. Because any amount of words up to 20,000 is considered a few by that gentleman.

"Well," he asserted, "if you continue to interrupt me, it will be necessary for me to repeat myself. For example, I began to inform you that Columbia and Stanford universities are engaging in a football encounter in the glamorous Rose Bowl, in Pasadena, within the space of——"

I was growing more nervous by the second.

"For the love of Winchell, Ted, let's have what you want to say and get it over with."

Mr. Husing went into a dramatic pause. Then—

"What about you and I," he said softly, "going out to that game? It wouldn't take us long—and you haven't traveled those thousands of miles in at least a couple of months. What do you say?"

The idea hit me right between the eyes. Almost eight days of travel, back and forth, in order to see a football game. Plenty of discomfort in trains. Plenty of worry about columns. Meeting plenty of people that I wouldn't care to see at all. Yes, sir. The idea was terrific.

"Ted," I replied, "I have known you ever since you started broadcasting. That was some nine years ago, and I have watched you develop enemies with great glee. I like you, and I must now congratulate you upon your greatest achievement. You are the first man in radio ever to hit upon an idea.

"You're on, kid. We leave tomorrow on the Century."

A few hours later, at home, I talked to the Missus about the thought. After all, it wasn't very nice of me to leave home at this time of the year—even for a football game. So I talked to the dear lady with great care.

"Honey, baby," I murmured in my best murmuring fashion, "I have news for you. The travel urge has hit me again, but I don't think I'm going to yield to it. Honestly I don't.

"You see, dear, it's that Columbia fotoball team. They're going all the way out to Pasadena to win a ball game for Lou Little. And when I heard about it, I thought that maybe I would go, too. I—"

Whereupon the Missus tossed her arms around me.

"By all means, darling," she enthused. "I want you to go, too. You must go. And I want you to have a grand time. When does the next train leave?"

That's the kind of a wife to have, my friends. Always make them beg you to stay before you leave.

"When does the next train leave?" I'm still wondering about that . . .

Down at the station the following afternoon, tremendous crowds gathered to say goodbye to Mr. Husing and myself. The ovations were positively thrilling. The crowds consisted of Mrs. Husing, Mrs. Hellinger, my secretary, the ticket collector and the guy who sells the books.

"Are you the man that's going with Ted Husing?" he wanted to know.

I told him I was.

"You're not supposed to open this package," I was informed, "until the train pulls out. It's from the boys in the office."

My heart swelled with pride. A present from the boys. Dog-gone decent, said I to myself, said I. It's great to have people think about you when you least expect it. Makes you feel as though you really amount to something in this world.

No sooner did the train leave than I hurriedly unwrapped the package. On the top of the box was a short note:

And in the box was a large pair of ear muffs . . .

For the next few days, at least, I'll be writing about Hollywood and the mugs therein. I'd like to give you a few episodes today, but my space is running short. I'll wind up, however, with just one little item that should be rated as a classic.

Lew Brown, now producing the "Fox Follies" for Winnie Sheehan, is a very important figure on the Fox lot. I met him out there a few hours after my arrival here, and we chinned about old times.

Lew grew pensive.

"You know, Mark, everything was swell out here when I arrived. Everything but one thing. Everybody on the lot called me 'Chief.' I got it from morning till night. It was 'hello, chief' and 'goodbye, chief,' all the time. I didn't like it."

I told Mr. Brown I didn't see anything wrong with that. He glowered at me:

"Is that so?" he returned. "Didn't you know that 'Chief' is the name of the fast train that leaves here?" . . .

Play for Children Saturday Morning

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Hold Your Horses," in which Joe Cook and his company will be seen in the Nixon next week, has its locale in New York at a period when the naive nineties were giving way to the sophistication that symbolizes the Gay White Way era on Broadway. Besides its star and his chief supporters, the cast includes some up and coming youngsters, such as June O'Dea, Jerry Norris, juvenile; Dorothy Dare, radio singer and former dancing partner of Hal Leroy, Franklyn Fox and Charles Senna. The matinees next week will be as usual, Wednesday and Saturday.

Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon, has just returned from a hurried trip to New York in frantic search of some plays, and succeeded in lining up a number, including "Let 'Em Eat Cake," sequel to "Of Thee I Sing," for the week of February 5. "Double Door," dramatic play with the original New York cast, will be the fifth subscription play of the American Theater Society, the week of February 25.

* * *

George White's "Scandals," boiled down so that it can be presented in one continuous act of something more than an hour, will open in the Pitt with a Sunday midnight show, the cast being headed by Shaw and Lee, dead-pan comics who always have been popular here.

Eugene O'Neill's "Days Without End," which has its premiere in Boston this week, will go into New York next week as a Theater Guild production. The big town opening likely will be one of the events of the season.

The games are held in a villa in which exiled members of the Greek royal family are living. Prince Michael is visiting his mother, Princess Helene, woh is estranged from King Carol II, of Rumania.

NEW PICTURES ON SCREEN

"Sitting Pretty," a musical comedy now showing in the Penn, is a story of a couple of song writers who crash Hollywood after they hear that the sweetheart of one of them is a star. In the cast are Jack Oakie and Ginger Rogers.

Gene Raymond is an orchestra leader who falls in love with Dolores Del Rio in "Flying Down to Rio," musical photoplay in the Stanley. Raul Roulien, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire also have prominent roles.

Clark Gable and Joan Crawford in "Dancing Lady" are the Sheridan Square stars. Franchot Tone is in the cast.

More Profit Reaped on Stocks

By B. C. FORBES

MOTOR EXECUTIVES swarming into New York for the annual automobile show are radiating sunshine, cheerfulness, optimism.

Mr. Forbes

Business has been good and they are confident it will be still better.

Sales of various popularly-priced cars have doubled or trebled the volume of a year ago. And orders for new models, even those not yet priced, have astonished even the most hopeful producers.

Motor shares have reflected the transformation in business and prospects.

At the low prices of last year 10 shares of 11 motor companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange could have been purchased for $860. This year these same shares could have been sold for $2,490, a profit of 190 per cent.

Chrysler has enjoyed the most spectacular recovery of all. It is now selling higher than any other motor common stock. Hudson has enjoyed the second-best percentage gain. General Motors ranks third.

	Low '33	High '34	Gain
			Percent
Auburn	31	56	81
Chrysler	7	59	638
General Motors	10	36	260
Graham Paige	1	3	200
Hudson	3	15	400
Hupp	2	4	100
Mack Trucks	14	38	171

Those who doubt America's recuperative powers either lack knowledge of the nation's economic past or have allowed themselves to become jaundiced by the gruelling experiences of the last four years.

DIVIDEND announcements, long discouraging, have become encouraging. January's record promises to be especially inspiring, because not a few corporations last month postponed taking dividend action until the turn of the year, in order to avoid the 5 per cent tax on dividends—this levy expired January 1, thanks to repeal and the income it affords the government.

There was a greater number of favorable dividend announcements last quarter than in any quarter since the end of 1930.

December made much the best monthly showing of the year, the best since December, 1930.

Unfavorable declarations last quarter were the fewest for any quarter during the entire depression.

Public utilities make much the worst showing. Reductions are running drastically ahead of increases. Nor is the outlook regarded as even remotely satisfactory.

	1933	1932	1931	1930
January	30	69	117	172
February	42	31	70	117
March	29	43	80	161

The 1934 record should prove distinctly better.

ALSO IT had been hoped—either than believed—that the President had abandoned all idea of experimenting with a "commodity dollar," the species seriously described by critics as "baloney dollars," "rubber dollars," "elastic dollars."

The President makes it clear that he has not yet dropped this offspring of the brain trust. Bankers are distinctly less optimistic than industrialists over 1934 prospects.

NRA'S STOCK is quieting down.

STOCKS MOVE IN NARROW RANGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Perplexed financial markets, forced to figure in budgetary billions, appeared to be overcome with indecision today and were unable to move very far in any direction.

Stocks were almost at a standstill in the early hours, with most of the speculative favorites dipping and rallying only feebly. The metal group turned a little heavy, after its late rally of the previous session, when inflationary protagonists lost some of the fervor which they had drawn from implications of the government's huge expense account. The dollar also recovered in foreign exchange dealings. Grains, cotton and most other commodities held to a narrow groove. U. S. Government securities eased a bit, but other bonds did little.

While the financial district was still wondering just how the government was going to spend all of 10 billion dollars it intends to borrow in the next six months, few doubts were expressed regarding the ability of the Treasury to negotiate the huge total without any serious difficulty.

It was generally conceded that the majority of the funds would be raised through the Federal Reserve banks on short-term paper. In some banking quarters it was felt that an effort might be made, if conditions warrant, to float a long-term issue because of the immense amount of existing short-term securities.

Issues already outstanding, of five year's maturity or less, have risen to large proportions. Among these are $5,124,810,000 in Treasury notes, $1,627,501,000 in certificates and $1,002,730,000 in Treasury bills.

There was a sharp division of opinion as to the inflationary aspects of the new budget. In some brokerage offices the opinion was broached that, in the face of the big government spending program, it would be virtually impossible to avoid both credit and monetary inflation. The "sound money" elements, however, were inclined to lean toward the belief that drastic currency expansion was not in the financing picture.

Industrial observers were highly interested in reports from Washington that the formation of a government corporation to facilitate the development of foreign trade in agricultural and other products, of which there is now a large surplus, has been recommended to the President by George N. Peek, the Chief Executive's special adviser on commercial matters. Whether such a corporation might conflict with consular services and other State Department agencies was a matter of discussion.

BUDGET NEWS AIDS WHEAT

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Grain prices averaged higher early today. Buying was largely on account of a bullish construction placed on President Roosevelt's budget message and on overnight lack of moisture shown in winter wheat territory southwest.

Opening unchanged to ½ higher, wheat afterward reacted somewhat. Corn started at ⅛ off to ¼ up, and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Tending to give more firmness later to grain values was the fact that Liverpool wheat quotations as well as British exchange rates were stronger than expected. Oats sympathized with upturns of wheat and corn prices. Provisions were responsive to hog market gains.

SCHOOL QUINTETS OPEN TITLE CAMPAIGNS TODAY

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Many Duties of Orsini.
Pitt Coach Always Busy.
Randour Lauds Lion Star.
Calls Montgomery Best.
Freedom in Basketball.
McLarnin Tops Fighters.

As a close approach to perpetual motion, how about Joe Orsini, the University of Pittsburgh's boxing coach? Other sports figures have their rest periods, but Orsini is always on the go. Though he received his degree from Pitt last June after three years of really hard work, during which he was a student, an instructor, a coach and a referee, all at the same time, Orsini has not allowed himself to become idle. At present, the industrious coach is very much engaged in developing a boxing team at the Oakland school, but that is not his only occupation.

Joe Orsini

Not content with a bachelor of arts degree, Joe is working for master's certificate, is teaching in the school of education, referees both professional and amateur bouts, and in addition is in business for himself in his home city of Clairton. There, Orsini runs a restaurant and handles the sale of newspapers, which keeps him and his younger brothers pretty busy.

Joe rises early in the morning to take care of his Clairton business, then comes to Pittsburgh to teach and to go to school himself. By mid-afternoon he has to be at the Stadium to take care of the boxers, and they keep him stepping until late in the day. After that, if there are any boxing bouts to be refereed, that's where you'll find Orsini. If there are no refereeing duties to claim his attention, he can take himself home to his own business again. There are few moments when Joe isn't on the jump. It won't be his fault if he doesn't get ahead in the world.

RANDOUR RATES MONTGOMERY ALL-AMERICA

If the builders of all-America football teams failed to do justice in any particular direction, it was in omitting the name of Cliff Montgomery from the mythical lineup. That's the opinion of George (Whitey) Randour, captain and star halfback of the Villanova eleven of 1933. Before returning to school this week from his home in McDonald, where he spent the holidays, Randour took occasion to pay a high tribute to the Columbia captain who put Natrona Heights in the national spotlight at the Rose Bowl last Monday. Whitey made no exceptions or qualifications in pronouncing Montgomery the king of quarterbacks.

"I have been in close touch with Montgomery's career in the East," said Randour, "and if ever a football player deserved an all-America award and didn't get it, that player was Cliff. And I am not basing that rating on his great work in the Pasadena victory over Stanford. Montgomery played the same way in every game. He is a natural star who would stand out in any company. He did all the kicking for Columbia, all the passing, carried the ball, was a fine blocker and tackler, played safety, and ran the team as smartly as any eleven in the country was directed. What more can a quarterback do? See if any of those given a higher ranking did even nearly as much. And Montgomery was a 60-minute player, too, though he had to take plenty in every game. To my mind, Cliff was in a class of his own."

WHITEY RANKED WITH FOREMOST IN EAST

Though he couldn't be persuaded to talk about his own football achievements, Randour himself, in his final season at Villanova, again was one of the shining lights of the season in the East. Good football judges who have followed his three brilliant varsity campaigns, including Coach Harry Stuhldreher, quarterback member of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen, are a unit in the opinion that if the McDonald lad accepts the congressional appointment open to him for admission to West Point he can't miss making the gridiron team and proving one of Army's greatest backs in a long time.

Whitey Randour

Randour was generally ranked among the foremost players of the 1933 season on eastern college gridirons. Not only did his long runs and consistent ground gaining cause him to be called the White Streak, but he did all the kicking for Villanova and threw all the passes with a single exception, and in that instance he was on the receiving end of a toss from the quarterback. Moreover, he was one of the most durable players of the year, and lost so little time that he averaged 58 minutes per game. Randour thinks there is no ground for the reports that Stuhldreher may become coach at Dartmouth. He says the former Notre Dame star is thoroughly satisfied with his Villanova berth.

COAST USES FREEDOM OFFENSE ON COURT

On the Pacific Coast, where they play this continuous-shooting percentage basketball, Stanford is using what they call the freedom offense. Coach John Bunn told Ralph Cannon he is convinced he can install a system that does not force his players to move about as though they were led by a leash, and he has been grooming them in a style of play that he feels will instill new life in the game in the Far West. Ever since he went to Stanford from the University of Kansas three years ago, Coach Bunn has clung to the idea that definitely organized offenses prevent the men from doing their best work.

Bunn maintains that the system of working out an offense much as you would play a game of chess destroys the thrills of a contest. He holds that the players are like pawns, and that they don't take the initiative frequently enough because they are afraid to move in any paths except the beaten ones they have followed in practice.

M'LARNIN VOTED BEST ALL-AROUND FIGHTER

In a poll of 100 of the country's boxing critics, conducted by Wilbur Wood, Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight champion, was voted the best all-around fighter in any class for 1933. Size does not enter into this annual voting. The award may go to a flyweight if he has the necessary class. The crown went to Mickey Walker in 1929-30, and to Tony Canzoneri in 1931-32. This time, with six critics declining to express an opinion, McLarnin took the honors with 36 out of 94 votes. Jimmy fought only once last year, but was given top ranking in view of his long career of spectacular fighting, combining skill, punching power and gameness.

Jimmy McLarnin

McLarnin's closest rival was Barney Ross, lightweight champion, who polled 26 votes. Max Baer finished third, with nine selectors naming him. Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, was given five votes; Tommy Loughran and Tony Canzoneri each received four, Lou Brouillard three, and Billy Petrolle and Maxie Rosenbloom two apiece. At least one critic thinks Teddy Yarosz is the best battler in the game, as the Monaca man was given a vote, as were Kid Chocolate and Midget Wolgast.

Come January, and Right Away Our Thoughts Turn to Baseball

BABE RUTH BEGINS TRAINING GRIND — You know spring can't be far away when the Bambino swaths himself in towels and blankets and begins to get himself ready for another (is this to be his last?) season out there in the outfield and up there at the plate. And, right at home, we have Manager George Gibson and President Benswanger and Secretary Watters, of the Pirates, going over the equipment and making plans for the annual trek to the Paso Robles (Cal.) training camp. How time does fly. Ruth picture is by International News Photograph Service and Pirates' picture by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

DUKES ARRIVE HOME FROM FLORIDA

Duquesne University's football heroes are back in their classrooms today, ready to settle down to the old text books after the most eventful gridiron campaign in the local university's history. The Duquesne squad arrived back from Miami shortly after midnight, where on New Years Day they walloped the University of Miami, 33 to 7, in the second annual Festival of the Palms game.

A good sized crowd was on hand to greet the Dukes as their train rolled in at 12:30 at the P. R. R. station, and it was a tired band of gridders and their followers who detrained, loaded with baggage and souvenirs.

Elmer Layden, the retiring athletic director and football coach, will put in his time between now and January 15, when he will go to South Bend to take over his new job as athletic head and football coach at Notre Dame, at settling his affairs at Duquesne and completing the Red and Blue's gridiron schedule for 1934. Two dates remain to be filled for next fall.

Joe Bach, Layden's assistant and the man first in line for the post vacated by Elmer, did not return with the Duquesne party, having decided to remain in Florida for a brief vacation. He will return to the city January 15.

M.-A. Loop May Be Six-Club Affair

The Mid-Atlantic League broke into the 1934 baseball picture yesterday with the word from Wheeling that the league would operate during the coming season as a six-club affair; that the Huntington (W. Va.) Boosters would have the backing of the St. Louis Cards and that Springfield, O., was certain to retain its franchise in the loop.

At Huntington, Branch Rickey, Cardinal president, conferred with Harry Hutton, club president, and a working agreement was reported as being effected. At Springfield, Alex Pisula, of Scottdale, Pa., owner of the club franchise, said he would have a cash forfeit ready for the January 14 meeting of the league, to be held at Zanesville, despite the fact that he lost $5,000 last season.

Penn State Five Wins First Game

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 5.—The Penn State College basketball team scored a decisive triumph over Susquehanna University in the Lions' inaugural clash of the season last night, 47 to 22. Wittum, State forward, led his team in scoring with 10 points.

The visitors played in suits borrowed from members of the Penn State squad because fire last night destroyed Susquehanna University's gymnasium and all the school's athletic equipment. The lineup:

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: LORD MOUNTSTEPHEN—George Stephen Lord Mountstephen, born on a farm in Scotland, in 1829, came to Canada in 1850. IN 1881, he became associated with Lord Strathcome, his cousin, in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which led to his being given a baronetcy in 1886. In 1891, he was elevated to the peerage, taking the title of Lord Mountstephen from a peak in the Canadian Rockies previously named after him. THE "PACK OF CARDS"—The "Kings Arms" Inn in Combe Martin, Devonshire, England, constitutes one of the sights of that village. It is a queer looking hostelry, and is commonly known as the "Pack of Cards" for resembling a card structure. Each story is smaller than the one below and it incorporates many features of a deck of cards. It was formerly the residence of Squire Ley, who won a fortune at cards.

LOCAL PASSERS ON EDGE FOR LID-LIFTERS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Their pre-season schedules completed, members of the City League, City Junior League and the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League usher in their championship basketball races this afternoon and evening.

Four teams in the W. P. I. A. L. jumped the gun earlier in the week, Evans City defeating Shippery Rock in a Section XVIII contest, 42 to 19, while Ellwood City lost its first Section III battle to Beaver Falls at Beaver Falls last night, 25-12.

Today's contests find both sections of the City senior and junior leagues in operation as well as 19 divisions in the W. P. I. A. L. The latter circuit has been enlarged by one section, 18 having been in force up to the present season.

CHAMPS WELL FIXED

The opening of the championship races in both the City League and the W. P. I. A. L. finds the two defending champions in fine shape to begin the defense of their laurels.

Duquesne High School, coached by Ray Henry, is the defending W. P. I. A. L. champion, while South High, coached by Grover C. Washabaugh, is the defending titleholder in the City League. South also defeated Duquesne in a P. I. A. A. playoff contest after winning the City League crown in 1932-1933.

The opening contests in the City League find South High idle today. In Section I, two of the pre-season favorites, Taylor Allderdice and Connelley Trade, swing into action in two of the headliners. Schenley is the attraction at Connelley, while Allderdice meets an arch-rival in Fifth Avenue at Allderdice. Westinghouse goes to Peabody in the third game.

Section II likewise offers a program of three games. Carrick plays at Langley, Oliver at Allegheny Vocational and Allegheny at Perry. Perry is the defending champion in Section II and has a promising squad on the floor this season.

ALLDERDICE STRONG

Taylor Allderdice High School, undefeated in its pre-season schedule, is expected to set the pace in the first half of the Section I race. The Squirrel Hill passers have adopted the nickname of Dragons, this insignia gracing their uniforms for the first time this season. While the Dragons are likely to maintain a winning pace for the first half, John Irwin, popular coach of the team, will have a real problem on his hands for the last half of the race because all of his experienced players will be graduated in February.

Prominent in the success of Allderdice in its pre-season games has been Bernard (Buzz) Greenberg, half-pint forward of the team, whose play during the last three years has stamped him one of the best passers in the City League. A great shot, a good floor man and above all a team-worker, Greenberg has played a sterling game for Allderdice. He will be lost to the squad in Februa.y, leaving a vacancy in the lineup that is going to be difficult to fill.

Up at Connelley Trade School, where Johnny Dickson holds the reins, visions of a Section I championship are being seen. Connelley has a championship contender composed of veteran players and with Allderdice

W. Liberty Loses To Morris Harvey

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Morris Harvey's basketball machine steamrolled over West Liberty in their initial game of the West Virginia State Conference season last night, winning, 45 to 29.

Lead by Forbes, Morris Harvey guard who ran up 23 points on eight goals and seven fouls, the invaders were out in front throughout the game and held a 23-to-12 margin at the half.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP.)—One of the greatest fields in 10 years of competition got under way this morning in the $2,000 72-hole Miami open golf tournament.

COLLEGE QUINTETS SET FOR BUSY WEEK-END

TITAN, GROVER FIVES CLASH TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

The intercollegiate basketball campaign breaks out with its first full week-end program tonight, a program that is graced by the district first "natural" as Westminster meets Grove City this evening and by the city's second Eastern Intercollegiate Conference tussle as Pitt takes on Temple here tomorrow.

The list of games, although somewhat light numerically, is never the less, attractive. Tonight, beside the Westminster-Grover battle, Geneva meets Valparaiso and West Virginia faces Maryland at Cumberland.

TECH MEETS W. VA.

Tomorrow, supporting the Pitt-Temple meeting here, Carnegie Tech opens its 1934 campaign by taking on West Virginia at Morgantown; the Dukes play host to Valparaiso, and Westminster engages Glenville State Teachers. Not a bad setup, eh wot?

The Westminster-Grove City tussle is worthy of the top spot as far as the program for the entire district is concerned. There is not likely to be a more torrid session put on by any set of varsities all season than the one booked for the Grovers' gymnasium tonight. Westminster is a plenty hot favorite, as has been the case in the last half dozen Titan-Crimson clashes, but merely being the first choice won't make it any easier for Johnny Lawther's rangy United Presbyterians to crash the Crimson defense or to find the range. There will be quieter places and places more restful for the nerves than the Grove City gym this night, you may lay the grocery money on that.

Carnegie Tech, looking ahead anxiously to the inaugural against the Mountaineers at Morgantown tomorrow, gets a break in that said Mountaineers will be playing their second tough game in as many nights. Taking on Maryland tonight at Cumberland hardly can be classed as the sofest way to spend the night before playing Carnegie.

GENEVA FACES HOOSIERS

Geneva tonight and the Dukes tomorrow may have more trouble with this Valparaiso outfit than they at first imagined. After losing to Marshall Wednesday, the touring Hoosiers knocked off Cam Henderson's Davis-Elkins varsity last night, a tough job under any circumstances and especially when the job is to be done in Elkins.

The Covenanters, fortunately, will be a sight better off tonight than they figured they'd be a week ago at this time, for Art Grahame is back in the lineup, making the Genevaians at least 50 per cent stronger.

In the event you didn't know, the Duquesne-Westminster game next Tuesday will be played on the Pitt Stadium floor and not in the Bluff gym as originally scheduled.

PUBLIC WORKS DIRECTOR LESLIE M. JOHNSTON SHOWS PUBLIC SAFETY DIRECTOR HARMAR D. DENNY HIS PITCHING HAND

JACKETS PLAY NIGHTLY

The Yellow Jackets, Pittsburgh's entry in the North American Professional Lacross Association, are to play three games in the next three days.

Handed their first defeat of the season, 11-9, at Chicago Wednesday night, the Jackets will oppose the Blue Ribbons there again tonight. They are to meet the Buffalo Indians, whom they conquered in an exceedingly rough game earlier in the season, at Motor Square Garden here tomorrow night. At the conclusion of tomorrow's struggle, both teams will rush to Buffalo, where they are to continue hostilities on Sunday night.

MORENZ INJURED

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(INS.)—A bone fracture in the left ankle will keep Howie Morenz, Montreal Canadiens' center, out of the hockey lineup for the next 10 days, club officials announced yesterday.

Leslie Johnston Sought By Pirates as Hurler

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pittsburgh's sometimes notorious politicians will have to warm up in advance before they'll be able to throw any fast ones past our new Director of Public Works. Leslie M. Johnston, Mayor McNair's latest appointee, knows a lot about fast ones, and he also has a few curves and slow pitches up his sleeve, for he was on his way to the major leagues when the industrial world called him.

Taking time out between the pleas of scores of job seekers yesterday, Director Johnston said:

"Yes, it is quite an honor to be the Director of Public Works in a great city like Pittsburgh, but pitching for the Pirates is quite a feat, too, and I might have been another Babe Adams."

SOUGHT BY PIRATES

A crack hurler for Yale during his college days the director had no less than three major league offers and one of them was from the late Barney Dreyfuss. He continued:

"I don't want to be considered as being chesty, but I actually had three scouts on my trail when I was a young fellow. I am sorry that I cannot recall the name of the man sent to talk to me by Barney Dreyfuss; the Cubs also were in touch with me. The Boston Braves sent Fred Crolius to sign me, but, after I had played for several years in the minors, I decided to get into the industrial field."

Johnston played with Springfield, of the old Eastern League, and New Haven, of the Connecticut State League, during and following his collegiate days. He graduated from Yale in 1902 and coached the Yale team for several subsequent seasons.

DENNY SPORTS FAN

With the blood of baseball in his veins, Johnston naturally is sympathetic toward all sports programs, inasmuch as the parks and playgrounds of the city come under the director's authority the city may expect some progressive measures looking toward the furtherance of sport.

Johnston started in life as a poor boy around his New York state home. He worked his way through college and looks back at 28 years of service with the A. M. Byers Company, of which he was a director until recently.

Johnston has a fitting companion in sports in Harmar D. Denny, Director of Public Safety. Denny is a former West Penn Golf president and a hot Pirate supporter and also a Yale man. As the two were sitting for a photograph, the Safety Director reminded:

"We hope to be in the same box at the world series at Forbes Field next October."

CAN'T KEEP THIS GINO GUY OUT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

One of these days a wrestling show is going to be billed in Pittsburgh without Gino Garibaldi, the Italian, in the main bout, and no one will believe it and everybody will call it a fake and stay away.

Garibaldi, who drew gradually decreasing receipts as the headliner in all of the shows held by the Olympic A. C., in Motor Square Garden, to the end that the club has ceased to function, now is with Jack Curley under the new deal among the cliques, and what does he do but bob up in the main event announced for the Arena on the North Side one week from tomorrow night. Just when the fans thought they'd see somebody else for a change.

Stanley Pinto, the veteran, who gave Jim Browning, the championship claimant, a tough battle at the Arena last week, will be Garibaldi's opponent, and the tough part of it is that Garibaldi probably will win this bout, too, and will be back again. The promoters really ought to spread him out over the territory a little more. A person'd think the guy lived here and was being featured on account of being "a local boy."

Ray Steele meets Hans Kampfer in the semi-final. Len Macaluso takes on John Sokolis, former Penn star; Frank Bronowiecz meets Bruno Sorassini, and there will be an opening bout between local talent.

Edward C. Foster, president of the N. B. A., writing about boxing's prospects for 1934, urges that boxers and their managers take a sane view of the economic situation and realize that big purses are a thing of the past, that boxing commissioners frown upon the so-called "junior" class titles and that the A. A. U. put a limit on the number of years a boxer may remain in amateur competition, suggesting that after a youth has boxed three years as an amateur he either should turn professional or quit. The most sensible suggestion ever to come from the N. B. A., if you ask us.

SPORT VIGNETTES

FLASH! (as Walter Winchell would put it): The rumor mongers have it that the football coaching setup at Dartmouth next fall will be All-Western Pennsylvania in this manner: Jim Marks, of Kiski, head coach, and Andy Gustafson and Bill Kern, of Pitt, assistants.

"I can do without coffee and eats, but I must have a cigar . . . I've always said that a man with a cigar never is lonesome." . . . Don't pay any attention . . . It's only Lew Raymond speaking, and he's getting all warmed up to deliver a sales talk about his Teddy Yarosz-Jimmy Smith fight for the state middleweight title at Motor Square Garden, Friday night, February 2 . . . He was handing out the same line as Yarosz and his manager, Ray Fouts, were signing a contract for the battle in the State Athletic Commission office yesterday, occasionally dropping in a word or two about what a tough manager Foutts is with whom to do business.

"The greatest fighter in the country, and the greatest manager," Lew was saying for all to hear, all the while hoping to keep Foutts from discovering that the contract did not stipulate that Marty Gornick and General Burrows, stablemates of Yarosz, were to be on the card, and that Mayor McNair would have to take a back seat for the day and that Raymond would have to wear evening clothes and look like a boxing man instead of dressing as he does and looking like a pre-panic banker.

Once the ink was dry on the contract forms, Lew switched to telling what a tough guy Jimmy Smith is and predicting that this will be the greatest show in Pittsburgh's history, or any history . . . It's a wonder he didn't scare Foutts and Yarosz into tearing up the papers . . . And such a drawing card! . . . Goodness me and land sakes alive, if he had the tickets printed he could sell the first five rows just like that, if he had them printed . . . And, on the night of the show, 5,000 people will be turned away. Lew says, which is a lot of turning away, judging from what has been turning in for recent shows here.

But, then, you can't blame a guy for trying . . . Especially if he's never lonesome when he has one of those things Raymond calls a cigar, but which you wouldn't give to your worst enemy . . . If Lew can just spread this enthusiasm, maybe you can have the honor of being one of the 5,000 turned away, which will hurt Mr. Foutts very much, for he and Teddy are to get 35 cents out of every dollar paid at the boxoffice, minus the 10 per cent federal and 5 per cent state taxes, and ringside tickets will be up to $3.30 for this show . . . Smith will get 20 per cent, and Matchmaker Raymond and Promoter Jules Beck will get some cigars, so they won't be lonesome, out of what is left after the Garden gets its rent and the preliminary fighters get their usual several thousand dollars.

Just back from Miami, where she broke some more records, Miss Lenore Kight, of Homestead, will swim at the Detroit Yacht Club tomorrow night . . . It was in Detroit that Miss Kight first gave promise of becoming an outstanding star two years ago when she won the national junior 220-yard free-style event . . . She trailed a Detroit mermaid for six laps and then sprinted to win easily in the last three laps . . . Now she's the world's greatest woman free-style swimmer . . . Saturday's meet is a preliminary to the National A. A. U. outdoor championships for women, to be staged under the auspices of the Detroit Times, a Hearst newspaper, next July.

Out in California they're debating now whether Stanford really was the best team in the West for the Tournament of Roses game . . . Before the Cardinals lost to Columbia last Monday, they were supposed to be a cinch bet to clean up the event, while Columbia was supposed to be a phony Eastern entrant . . . Commenting on the game, Ed Thorp, the umpire, said Bobby Grayson, Stanford's leading threat, was the equal of any back he has ever seen, adding: "I don't know of any player who could hit as low or as hard as Grayson."

One year ago yesterday, Jimmy Crowley was signed to a three-year contract to coach Fordham, and one year ago tomorrow Tiny Thornhill took over the reins at Stanford.

If anyone has an idea that Elmer Layden, the Duquesne coach, will have a team thrown into his lap when he becomes head coach at Notre Dame, let him ponder the fact that Elmer loses all of the following lettermen: Ed Krause and Tom Roach, tackles; Harry Wunsch, Joe Pivarnik and Jim Leonard, guards; Kitty Gorman, center; Hugh Devore, end; Nick Lukats, Ray Brancheau, Johnny Tobin and Frank LaBorne, halfbacks, and Steve Banas, fullback.—HARRY KECK.

M'LARNIN MAY BOX DUNDEE

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—An offer to Jimmy McLarnin, world welterweight champion, for an opportunity to increase his titular holdings by boxing Vince Dundee, of Newark, N. J., the middleweight champion, at Madison Square Garden this winter, was telegraphed yesterday by Matchmaker James J. Johnston to Pop Foster, McLarnin's manager.

Terms and a definite date for the match, in February or March, will be discussed, Johnston said, after he hears from Foster, who is in Los Angeles. McLarnin has not been in the ring since he knocked out Young Corbett III for the welter title.

Dempseys Admit Heir Is on Way

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, admitted last night he and Mrs. Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams, of Broadway, are expecting an heir.

Mrs. Dempsey was a smiling witness to her husband's statements. She is Dempsey' third wife. He was divorced from Estelle Taylor, movie actress, last year.

Akron is one of the two teams to defeat the Willigs this season, scoring a 40-30 victory at Akron. The other lefeat came at the hands of the Rosenblum-Celtics, 34-28.

Lobert, Spalding To Aid Wilson

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Philadelphia baseball club of the National League, announced that Honus Lobert and Dick Spalding, of Philadelphia, will be his coaches and aides next season. They signed one-year contracts.

Three of the bouts were five-round affairs, each round being of two minutes' duration. Ray Hatton, state 112-pound champion, won by a technical knockout over Irwin Lostetter, of McKeesport, in the first round. The summary:

'29 HEIDELBERG SOCCER TEAM SCATTERED

By TOM BIRKS

When the Green and Gold clad Heidelberg eleven takes the field against the Castle Shannon Riehls Sunday afternoon at Greenlee Field in the second round of the national amateur cup elimination tourney, Johnny McCosky will be the only player to be wearing the Heidelberg colors who played on the famous 1929 team that won the title at Newark, N. J., defeating the German-Americans of that town, 9-0.

The classy little inside left, probably the trickiest soccer player this district ever has claimed, has stayed with his first love. Soccer, like every other sport, finds many changes as the seasons roll around. Of the other members of that famous team, Dante Villani is playing with Morgan; Chappell and Fred and Buff Donnelli with Curry; Howard Mangus plays for Morgan occasionally, while Duke Stenzel and Alex Kusis also play when the spirit moves them.

The other members of the team, Joe Fagan, Berky Jones, Bill O'Donnell and Gerald Fagan have passed from the picture, although it was rumored that Joe Fagan was planning to attempt a comeback with Heidelberg.

Four games are carded in the Central District League tomorrow afternoon. Arsenal and Dunwick Rovers meet at Leslie Park, the Pittsburgh Rovers go to the Westinghouse High School stadium to meet Clan Douglas, Beltzhoover hooks up with Union Switch and Ambridge crosses the bridge to meet Aliquippa.

In the Panhandle League only one game is listed, the Fink A. C. being slated to meet the Houston Merchants.

should make it extremely tough for South to repeat. South, despite the loss of Bill Jesko, brilliant forward, still has Eddie Spotovich, star center, and Slip Czlapinski, veteran guard, and should play a prominent part in the Section I race.

Perry High School, seeking its second straight Section II title under the coaching of Chester Smith, likewise has a veteran team. Bob Kornick, all-scholastic forward of last year, is back. With Kornick are Seifert, Fleming, Keene and DiMatteo, all seasoned performers.

BAILEY HOLDS EDDIE SHORE BLAMELESS

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—Irvin (Ace) Bailey, injured Toronto hockey player whose escape from death probably will go down in medical annals, yesterday was permitted to make a fleeting contact with the world outside his sickroom.

The world, or rather its representative, a newspaperman, was admitted to his bedside to hear his own story of the most serious accident that has befallen the game of hockey in more than 30 years.

Before he had passed into a coma in a Boston Garden dressing room on the night of December 12, he had absolved Eddie Shore, the Boston player, who collided with him and felled him to the ice with such force that his skull was fractured. Yesterday, the same charitable spirit dictated his version of the happening. He said:

"I didn't see Eddie and he didn't see me and we crashed. I don't remember anything leading up to the play or anything about the game except what I have been told."

Dressen Given Blood Transfusion

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 5.—(INS.)—Charles Dressen, 35, manager of the Nashville team of the Southern Association, who is ill from typhoid fever here, was to receive another blood transfusion today as physicians battled to save his life.

Dressen was given a transfusion yesterday, and he appeared to rally.

LOCAL COLLEGES IN PROPOSED NEW GROUP

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—(AP.)—The proposed formation of a Pennsylvania Collegiate Eligibility Conference was discussed last night by Dr. Parke R. Kolbe, of Drexel Institute and chairman of the committee considering organization of the state-wide group.

Addressing the annual athletic award banquet at Drexel, Dr. Kolbe said 24 colleges and universities in the state, and one outside of Pennsylvania, would be represented in Harrisburg tomorrow to consider the possibilities of forming such a conference.

Dr. Kolbe said that among the institutions which will be represented in the meeting are Carnegie Tech, University of Delaware, University of Pennsylvania, Duquesne, Franklin and Marshall, Elizabethtown, Juniata, Lafayette, Lehigh, Pittsburgh, Lasalle, Lebanon Valley, Moravian, Pennsylvania State College, St. Thomas, Susquehanna, Swarthmore, Washington and Jefferson, Waynesburg and Westminster.

LOCAL MEN TO ATTEND

Dr. M. J. Brannigan and Dr. Albert Wright will represent Duquesne and Prof. Robert E. Ayars will represent Pitt at a meeting to be held in Harrisburg tomorrow for the purpose of banding 24 colleges and universities from Pennsylvania and one from Delaware into an athletic eligibility conference.

Dr. Brannigan is dean of the college of liberal arts and Dr. Wright is dean of the school of business administration at Duquesne. Ayars is professor of accounting and a member of the eligibility committe at Pitt.

Carnegie Tech also is to become a member of the conference, but President Thomas S. Baker today quit the city before announcing what member or members of the Tartan faculty were to attend the meeting.

FOURTH DEGREE

By K. S. DAIGER

this terrible thing?" moaned Paige. "Everybody liked Sunny. Who would have murdered her?"

"Have a look around on the first floor, will you?" said the Sergeant in a low voice to one of his men. "Be careful, too."

Then to the doctor he gave a nod of the head and the two moved over to the embrasure of the window.

"Make an examination, will you?" said the Sergeant in a whisper. "Be certain there's been no assault."

The doctor nodded his understanding.

"Ranny," he said gently to the horrified husband who was still bending over his wife's body, "I want to be alone with Sunny for a little while. Go down in the library, will you, and try to pull yourself together."

Paige turned silently and left the room.

For a little while there was silence in the room. Then Dr. Warner turned to the waiting policemen.

"There's been no criminal assault, gentlemen," he said definitely. "I have no hesitation in saying that this is a case of suicide. And it's all the worse because I find that this little girl would soon have become a mother. I'll go down and tell Ranny."

At this second, Biggs, who had been making his examination of the first floor, returned to report.

"Not a thing out of place," he said. "All doors and windows locked. Not a sign of anything missing."

"And everything is in order here, too," commented the Sergeant, his trained eye taking in the orderly clean room. "Here—what's this?"

Going over to the body, he raised in his hand a magnificent pearl and diamond pendant which hung around the neck. The jewel glowed in the soft light of the boudoir. "Guess you're right, Doctor. No burglar ever missed this. It seems to be a suicide right enough."

Mysterious Case

"I'll break the news to Ranny," repeated the doctor. "Poor boy! He seems to think his wife was murdered — this will be a doubly hard blow when he learns she did it herself."

"Go ahead down," said the Sergeant. "I'll have to make out a report and send word to the Coroner. As soon as you've finished with Paige, I want to talk to him, find out just what he knows about this, and meantime, we'll have a look around up here. Maybe she left a note or something."

Dr. Warner nodded in assent and ran lightly down the stairs to the library, where Ranny Paige, his head buried in his hands, was awaiting him.

That was the way the Paige mystery started, on the fifth day of October—a mystery so horrible, so amazing in its intricacies, so startling in its denouement that it has gone down in the history of Maryland criminology as The Great Paige Case. Not only did it involve the wealthiest and most exclusive social set of this southern city, but it created as much interest and received as much newspaper publicity as any case which ever happened in the entire South.

At the time when this story broke, I was the chief crime investigator of a chain of newspapers. It was my job to cover and to investigate any outstanding murder or criminal case regardless of the section of the country in which it might have happened, but my home office was located in Baltimore, and my activities, as a rule, were confined to the eastern section of the United States. Let it be clearly understood, however, that I was a reporter first and last and not a detective, except in the most amateurish sort of way.

Questionable Friends

The Paige case, at its beginning, had nothing to particularly distinguish it from hundreds of similar cases. The young Paige couple had led the life common to their status in society, racing, cards, nightclubs, dancing. They had been married some three years, and although on the surface, their lives seemed harmonious and happy, it was a well-known fact that Ranny had never abandoned his bachelor days nor considered that he had a wife to whom he had pledged his honor and fidelity. There had never been an open scandal, but it was no uncommon thing to encounter Ranny Paige at some questionable nightclub with a more than questionable companion.

Their home was located upon a section of the main Paige estate. It had been built for Ranny by his father, old Col. Paige, who had given it to the couple as a wedding gift, just as he had given his other two sons similar houses which also stood upon the place. Of money, the young Paiges had little—Sunny, none at all, it was said, and Ranny only the small amount that he earned in his father's bank. Some day, when the old man died—and he was already in his eighties—he would be rich, vastly so, but at the time of this story it must have been a somewhat difficult matter for the couple to live in the manner in which they did and to maintain the social position to which they were both accustomed.

Arrived Home Late

Here is the story which Ranny Paige told first to Dr. Warner, and early the next morning to Coroner Arthur B. Mason, of Baltimore County. It brought no new ar e into the tragedy and served to strengthen the conclusions already reached by the physician and the police.

It could have been only a few minutes after Officer Carroll had started his motorcycle back toward Towson before Ranny drove full speed down the state road, ran his car into his garage, and let himself into his home with a latch-key. The front door was locked.

He had been in Washington on business and was much later than he had expected to be—it was then almost 2 o'clock. He had telegraphed his wife earlier in the evening that he would be delayed, but he was pleased to see a light in her little boudoir or sitting-room on the second floor which meant that she was still waiting up for him. A dim light was burning in the main entrance hall on the first floor.

He called upstairs to his wife, but received no reply.

Dropping his hat and light overcoat in the hall-way, he ran up the stairs, and was slightly surprised to see that the door of her room was closed.

He knocked lightly, before entering, because he feared that she had fallen asleep and he did not wish to frighten her.

Again receiving no answer, he opened the door softly.

DANIEL WEBSTER'S ANSWER TO HAYNE (1830)

The first administration of Andrew Jackson was filled with struggles between advocates of a strong national government and the believers of supreme rights of the states, cropping out chiefly from the "Tariff of Abomination," hitting farmers, planters and affecting also manufacturers.

Senator Hayne, of South Carolina, held the tariff unconstitutional, sectional, and claimed the right of the states to void it. Webster, in his famous answer, aroused widespread enthusiasm for a strong national government, emphasizing the Supreme Court as arbiter of disputes between states. He saved the situation.

Two years later South Carolina nullified that year's tariff bill. Civil war threatened, was averted through the Compromise Bill of Henry Clay, (1883) with a gradual reduction of the tariff during the 10 coming years when the level of 1816 was to be reached.

VITAMINS C, D, E AND THEIR EFFECTS

Still another vitamin called E was found necessary for the nutritional process of reproduction. Lacking this, muscular degeneration and sterility result. Sources of vitamin C: Grains (sprouted), malt (green), berries, oranges, lemons, tomatoes, carrots, lettuce, potatoes, milk. Sources of vitamin D: Cod liver and fish oils, egg yolk and butterfat. Sources of vitamin E: Germ wheat, meat, and cod liver oil. Vitamins A to G are needed to maintain health.

PETER THE HERMIT—BEGINNING OF THE CRUSADES

Beginning in the seventh century, Mohammedanism spread through Asia. Pilgrimages of the Christians to the Holy Land went on undisturbed, however, until the Seljuk Turks conquered Palestine. Cruelty toward the Christians prompted Peter the Hermit to cross Europe, preaching war to liberate the Holy Land. Pope Urban II in his address joined this action (1095) and the first Crusade followed. Kings Richard Coeur de Lion, Louis IX, Barbarossa and others, with princes, knights, soldiers, adventurers, partook in the Crusades which yielded little result but cost much blood. Palestine, except for a short while, remained in possession of Moslems. The end of the Crusades is considered 1291, when the last Christian possession in Palestine was lost.

The Crusades influenced civilization by bringing higher culture of the Byzantine empire into western lands, developing means of transportations (especially ships) and by exchange of ideas.

FEDERAL AND STATE GOVERNMENTS FIGHT DRUGS

Drugs as: Cocaine, opium, morphine, heroin, eucaine, hemp, chloral hydrates and their compounds are poisonous, habit-forming, undermine health and moral qualities of the addicts. Horrible crimes are committed to provide money for drugs—a grave menace to society. The sale and use of these habit-forming drugs (except medicinal administration by a physician) is prohibited by federal and state narcotic acts. NITROGEN CYCLE Courtesy of John Wiley and Sons (Cole: Introd. to Biology)

Nitrogen, along with carbon and hydrogen, is one of characteristic elements of living matter. It is a constituent of proteins, fundamental compounds of all protoplasms. Nitrogen as free gas is part of the atmosphere. It is entered into compounds by nitrogen-fixing micro-organisms and taken by plants as food. Animals feed on plants, return N with execreta and cadavers to the soil.

LOCOMOTIVES WITH INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINES

Internal combustion engines have about twice as high thermal efficiency as steam engines, are lighter and use fuel only when working. Locomotives equipped with internal combustion engines —especially with Diesel motors—are more economical than steam locomotives. Generally the internal combustion engine is coupled with an electric generator which supplies the electromotors—geared to the car-wheels—with current. We're Against Driverium Tremens

Might as well broach a keg of traffic rules for the drunken drivers, vintage of 1934.

We have talked with many judges in a professional way and they are going to be tougner than a leather vest and rawhide noodles.

Public safety must not be jeopardized because the soused chauffeur has stopped at too many filling stations for man and beast. The judges intend to toss the book at woozy Hen Hurs who think that every green light starts a chariot race.

If you have that kind of a breath that keeps your windshield wipers working in clear weather we advise you to get into the rumble seat. When the police surgeon arrives with the stomach pump don't tell him you want 36 pounds all around.

Traffic is so heavy now that it calls for a clear eye and a steady hand. When you skid into South Carolina don't say, "Pardon me, I thought this was North Carolina." You're guilty in both.

Control all civic desires to lock horns with a 60-passenger California bus. Those juggercarts can run right up your back and down the front without skipping a button. Drinking and driving don't mix on the highway. If you think you are the best in the world wait until July Fourth and you can win a big silver cup in Indianapolis.

We have never sat in a car with a three-paint job at the wheel. When we spot the chauffeur blowing Scotch bubbles we smack him on the whiskers and climb out. We have seen too many motor cars barking up the wrong tree.

Punishment for dilapidated driving runs into three figures on the calendar. A year in the granite alcove is plenty of time to plan your next tour. The trouble with our wilder and younger generation is that they think blowing the foam off removes the poison.

Paste this on the windshield. When you see the road starting to wind around a steeple, clip your ignition, cancel the gas and handcuff yourself to a fire plug. We know we are old and timid. But you've got to be timid to get old.

We have started up Sixth avenue with the chauffeur trying to win the fancy roller skating championship. He made a May pole out of every telephone pole. We grabbed him by the neck and gave him a barehanded lynching. When we both got out on the street he knocked us down six or seven times.

We may not be able to fight. But we are cautious and resilient.

'Pagliacci' at City Hall

If They Were Not Tragic, the Antics of the New Administration Would Be Funny

Scenes enacted daily at the City-County Building since the new municipal administration assumed office suggest Leoncavallo's famous opera "Pagliacci." The principal character in the opera is a clown, and the action of the piece consists largely of buffoonery; but a sinister note runs through the proceedings, and the outcome is tragedy.

If it were not tragic it would be funny—and that aptly characterizes the situation at City Hall.

Destitute persons, taking the executive at his word, apply for work—and are answered with banal jests. That is all the satisfaction that they get. They smile wanly at the jests, but you can be sure that back of the smiles are aching or breaking hearts.

A financial institution holding the city's bonds is reported to have taken alarm at the executive's ill-considered talk of issuing scrip to pay the city employes.

That the situation is bad cannot be denied, but it is not as bad as the bank feared. The city is solvent, and there are level-headed men in Council and administrative offices who will not permit it to be wrecked. We believe all the Councilmen to be men of common sense.

Councilman William A. Magee, with his years of experience, his cool head and demonstrated courage, and his unselfish devotion to Pittsburgh's best interests, is a tower of strength. And so, too, is that veteran "watchdog of the treasury," the City Controller, Dr. James P. Kerr. The citizens can rely on them if things come to the worst.

Leslie M. Johnston, the new Director of Public Works; Cornelius D. Scully, the new City Solicitor; Ben R. Marshall, the new Superintendent of Police, and Percy Williams, the Mayor's secretary—also, are city officials in whom trust can be reposed. For the appointment of these men, the Mayor is entitled to the thanks of the public.

The embarrassment to which Pittsburghers are now being subjected hardly will be intensified into serious danger so long as these men remain at their posts.

The Building Slump

Slum Clearance Furnishes a Splendid Opportunity to Revive a Stricken Industry

Building operations in Pennsylvania during November have just been summarized by the Department of Labor and Industry. They fell to the lowest level recorded for any month in the 10 years in which the department has been compiling building permit data.

The estimated cost of the buildings for which permits were issued in Pittsburgh in November was $71,290, as compared with $3,968,095 in November, 1932. Building operations in Pittsburgh during the first 11 months of last year were 73 per cent under the figures for the same period in 1932—and 1932 was far from being a big building year.

As Gov. Lehman, of New York, pointed out in his address to the National Public Housing Conference Tuesday night, at least 75 per cent of the workers in the building industry are jobless, and our economic salvation may lie in their employment.

Gov. Lehman made an eloquent plea for slum clearance as a means of furnishing the employment. He said that housing is no longer a matter of individual responsibility—the time has come when the whole community must accept responsibility for the provision of good housing for people of low incomes. The health and moral welfare of the community demand it.

What Gov. Lehman said, with particular reference to New York, applies with equal force to Pittsburgh.

The National Recovery Administration has made federal funds available for clearing slums and constructing low-rent houses. Public bodies may receive outright grants for projects which are approved by the PWA. Housing commissions have already been created in Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Toledo to take advantage of this opportunity.

Is Pittsburgh going to let the opportunity slip?

A Pennsylvania Anabasis

Tomorrow Is the Anniversary of a Heroic March, of Which Most of Us Know Too Little

When Greek was in the curriculum Pittsburgh high school boys and girls spent many a weary hour in the study of the anabasis or military advance of 10,000 Hellenic soldiers serving under Cyrus the Younger in the year 401 B. C. But not a word of instruction did they receive about the much more interesting and important anabasis of the 8th Pennsylvania Regiment in 1777.

It is appropriate to recall the story at this time, because tomorrow is the 157th anniversary of the start of the regiments' heroic march across Pennsylvania to join the army of Gen. George Washington. Those who would like to learn more about it can obtain detailed information in C. Hale Sipe's "Fort Ligonier and Its Times."

The 8th Pennsylvania Regiment was recruited from this and adjoining counties and mustered in at Pittsburgh in 1776. In the autumn of that year it went into winter quarters at Kittanning.

The regiment had been formed at Washington's suggestion to protect the frontier from the Iroquois Indians, who had allied themselves with the British. But soon after its organization Washington, hard pressed, called for reinforcements, and the 8th Pennsylvania was ordered to report to him in New Jersey. It began its fateful march on January 6, 1777.

That 500-mile trek of those early Western Pennsylvanians is worthy of an epic poem. They marched across the mountain ridges amid snowstorms. Lacking tents, they slept in the open in the woods. Huge fires were kept burning all night to keep the soldiers from freezing to death. Hunting parties managed to procure some game, but the men were half starved most of the time. Many died on the way. On the arrival of the regiment in New Jersey in the latter part of February, the soldiers were in so pitiful a condition of exhaustion that 50 of them, including the colonel and lieutenant colonel, died within two weeks.

How many readers of the Sun-Telegraph are familiar with this story? Not many, we dare say. It stands out as another illustration of THE SHAMEFUL NEGLECT OF PENNSYLVANIA HISTORY IN PENNSYLVANIA SCHOOLS.

At Uncle Sam's Door

(Copyright, 1934.)

France—defaulter France—wants MORE American dollars and purposes to get them out of our wine trade.

So France offers us a "bargain" in order to increase the French quota. France agrees to buy some apples from Uncle Sam if Uncle Sam will buy a lot of wines from France.

And just as soon as our guileless State Department agrees France imposes new quotas and higher import taxes on American fruits—including apples!

Meantime France says nothing about the war debts on which France has defaulted payment three times running.

Italy faithfully acknowledges the war debts as "obligations of honor." And France should be made to do likewise.

How? Andrew Jackson showed how when he was President and France was defaulting a debt of honor.

Jackson proposed to seize French property, under international law, and France promptly paid the just bill.

If America refuses now to buy the products of defaulter nations France is more than likely to back down again.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Thoughts while strolling: A columnist is in constant flight against interruptions. Fannie Hurst has the right idea. From 9 to 1 she works in a locked, telephoneless study. Funny why we like to have others feel our job is most difficult of all. Whatever became of Carol McComas?

Una Merkel and Nida Westman not only look alike but voice the same whine. First choice for back yonder town names: H. T Webster's Tomahawk, Wis. Wonder where Pecora does his banking? Sad about de Segurola's failing sight. What a romantic opera figure he was!

One word description of Grover Whalen—cyclonish. Old boys of the club windows. Like frogs in a pond, with eyes bulging over newspaper tops. The theater grows bawdier and bawdier. It couldn't be any fun to be Barney Gallant's barber. That is without a blow torch.

What die-hard bravado in that western millionaire's tombstone inscription: 'I got my share!" I don't believe those tales of young Fairbanks' "reah-lly d o n c h a know" accent. Jack Haley suggests the youthful pictures of Byron. And how effortless Jack Benny's radio endeavors!

One of my favorite people—Ward Morehouse. Burton Rascoe's knowledge of the classics for his years is astounding. He could pass as a head office boy. Can't something be done about that unfinished decaying apartment spire on Central Park West? It's getting spooky.

When George Arliss and his wife first arrived in New York from England they had only a day before joining a show in rehearsal. That evening they strolled from the old Waldorf for what they thought was t h e i r first glimpse of famous Fifth avenue. They said nothing, but their enthusiasm plopped to zero. Six weeks later upon returning they learned they had been wandering up shoddy Sixth avenue.

Ted Woodyard motoring through West Virginia hills rounded a road bend to come suddenly upon a horse and buggy carrying a young man and an old lady. It was the couple's first sight of an automobile. The horse crouched and started to quiver as though to leap out of harness, while the old lady jumped to the ground and tore through the briar patches yelling at top voice. Woodyard left his car and said to the young man: "Don't worry, I'll help you get your horse by."

New York, after much punishment, has thumbs downed on stray bits of royalty floating around the past few years. Young ladies who tingled to such companionships have grown chilly. The royalty racket was spiked by the most effective of all weapons against phoneys—ridicule. Society chatterers began it and musical revues added to the blisterings.

Division street, that gloomy under-elevated thoroughfare, skirling off a hip of Chatham Square, so badly hit by the depression, is being slowly rejuvenated. In boom opulence its five-block length was besprent with women's ready-to-wear shops and fur stores in bright-windowed glitter. It was where chorus girls went for cheap overnight productions of uptown styles. Something like Peggy Joyce wears!

Charles B. Driscoll recently rounded in from a visit to his native Wichita, Kan., after a long absence. He was struck by a realization of the gray hairs among old friends. Then he looked in the glass. Voltaire once observed: "Long absent friends of youth bring man's most vivid consciousness of years."

I wish I could be a big-strong silent man instead of twittering mamby pamby. Last night at 2 a. m. a sharp tinkle of the phone jousted me out of a sound sleep. Someone I never heard of in the foyer wanted to share a bottle of wine 150 years old from an Afghan frontier. What do you suppose my bright mind thought up? Give up? I was in a conference. Why couldn't I tell him I was in bed, did not drink and hang up in his ear? In a conference! I was never in a conference in my life. I'm not one of the conference people.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

'Not in Your Time Nor in My Time But in God's Time'

That lovely, lovely film "Berkeley Square"—how often did you go to see it? I went four times. And each time came away comforted.

How much we all are needing comfort these days. Big things happening—yes. But will they happen quickly enough to give us our chance—quickly enough to stop the widespread misery; to prevent the world from cracking? Always that sense of looming disaster—that feeling that we must hurry, hurry—that there is so little time left to cure it all.

But in "Berkeley Square" time drops away. For a young man comes to believe that time doesn't matter; that time is a bogey which we humans have conjured up, out of our own stupidity; that in reality, all time is one and endless.

"Suppose," he says, "you were in a boat going along the river. And you had passed a group of trees which now lay behind you, around a bend in the river; and you had not yet come to another group of trees w h i c h still lay ahead of you—then that would be like the Past and the Future, and you, and you, in your little boat, would be in the Present.

"BUT NOW SUPPOSE THAT INSTEAD OF BEING IN A BOAT YOU WERE IN AN AIRPLANE—THEN, LOOKING DOWN, YOU WOULD SEE IT ALL AT ONCE—THE TREES YOU HAD PASSED, THE T R E E S YOU HADN'T COME TO—

"THEN ISN'T T I M E LIKE THAT—ALL ONE?"

So the young man believed. And because he believed that time was all one, the barriers went down—and he walked into the past, to find his heart's love.

And then you watch through tears—seeing how beautiful life might be if we could do away with our foolish fears, and the walling years. For here are two spirits who triumph over time—over birth and death, and the fret and terror which accompany them.

And, as you watch them, you yourself feel free. And you, too, feel that life goes on in spite of anything—that all our worry and our hurry is a troubled dream—that somewhere, some time, we will find our heart's true home.

And you, too, cry with that brave, tender girl who dared to love and laugh across a waiting grave.

"NOT IN YOUR TIME NOR IN MY TIME, BUT IN GOD'S TIME."

Not in your time nor in my time, but in God's time—it will all come true, my dear.

All that beauty and kindliness of which we dream—all that honesty and decency and fair play—some day it will all come true.

Nothing can stop it. The years cannot stop it. Man's hate and fear and stupidity cannot stop it. The poverty that is binding you now—the pain in my side that will soon make an end of me—these things cannot stop us. For love and life go on forever!

Behind us there lie millions of years of darkness and fear and savage cruelty. Yet love and life went on in spite of everything. Why should we fear they will be conquered now?

Don't fear! Don't count these anxious moments, as though they were the end. There is no end. Some day the dreams will all come true—and you and I will see them come true.

"NOT IN YOUR TIME NOR IN MY TIME, BUT IN GOD'S TIME."

God's time is endless. God does not worry. Life does not hurry. There is always another chance—around the bend.

Stop counting the hours. Stop dreading tomorrow. Be still.

"BE STILL—AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD!"

Be still, and know that the power which put that dream of love within your heart, that hunger for truth and justice, will not fail you now.

Our bodies bind us now. So do the years. We cannot cross the wall while in the flesh, as that boy did.

BUT BY OUR FAITH WE CAN STRIDE OVER TIME — AND TOUCH HORIZONS HID FROM LIVING EYES.

Be still, and do the best you can for now. But do not do it frantically, as though it were the end.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Lazy Lovers

American husbands have the reputation of being the finest in the world. But American lovers are probably the laziest in the world.

Funny! We pride ourselves on being a nation of go-getters, energy, efficiency, pep, and high-power. And, perhaps we are, when it comes to chasing the almighty dollar. But, mentally, spiritually and emotionally, we are LAZY!

When it comes to thinking, feeling or expressing ourselves, we are filled with a deep inertia. And a vast shyness.

We are too lazy (and too inarticulate) to write letters, so we do our love-making and make our dates over the telephone—and call it "saving time."

* * *

Most men and some women are too inert to fall in love. Too lazy to bother with the high pressure emotions and rarefied idealism of real honest-to-goodness LOVE.

* * *

So, when we feel it coming over us, we simply run for cover or put on a gas-mask, and manage to escape it or to dodge it. It might put a tax on our hearts or our loyalty or our fidelity. We might have to PAY for it w i t h some sacrifice or service. It might cost us some amusements or freedom or self-indulgence.

* * *

We prefer to "play around" with a lot of little imitation loves, to feed our vanity with passing triumphs and light romances—and call it "living our own lives."

We are even too lazy to make these synthetic affairs charming or beautiful or convincing. That would take skill—and ENERGY. We pass over all t h e graceful little beginnings and subtleties; we don't even pretend to any emotions or glamour. We start right off with the kiss and the tempestuous embrace—w h i c h would make a lover of the old school shudder with distaste.

Lots of men are too lazy to face the thought of marriage and the struggle of supporting a home or a family; and lots of women are too lazy to face the burden of bringing up children and keeping house for a man. So they stay single—and call it "independence."

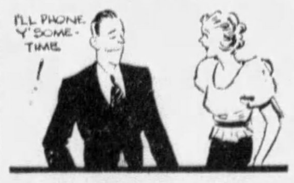
And lots of those who do get as far as the altar are too lazy to adjust themselves to each other. So they rush to Reno—and call it "desertion" or "cruelty."



But love and marriage and happiness are the highest priced things in the world—because they are WORTH more than anything else in the world. They require effort and sacrifice and brains and skill; and you've got to PAY for them if you want to make a success of them. But they are worth the PRICE! Lazy lovers are emotional panhandlers—and they get just as little out of life as any other sort of panhandlers!

Text for Today

A Vice-President Who Sticks To the Constitution

By James T. Williams, Jr.

"TO keep in all things within the pale of our constitutional powers," declared Thomas Jefferson in his second inaugural, "is one of the landmarks by which we are to guide ourselves in all our proceedings."

This has been the goal of Mr. Garner ever since last inauguration day when he relinquished the office of Speaker of the House shortly before noon and walked over to the Senate chamber to take the oath as Vice President of the United States.

Mr. Garner's return to the federal city from his home in Uvalde County, Texas, just in time to preside over the opening session of the Senate, recalls the promise he made w h e n he left for Uvalde on the evening Congress adjourned last June. This promise was to remain there until his official duties called him back to Washington.

In adhering steadfastly to his determination not to involve his high office in responsibilities beyond the limits of his authority, Mr. Garner is exemplifying the kind of Vice President the framers of the Constitution had in mind when they created the office. This office was designed to be, as one of them said, "the guardian of the presidency." Its chief duty was to be that of presiding over sessions of the Senate. The Vice President votes only to break a tie.

As the second officer of the republic, the Vice President always holds himself at the call of the President for advice and counsel or to represent him on ceremonial occasions when it is the President's pleasure to be represented.

Washington Consulted Adams

GEORGE WASHINGTON frequently solicited the opinion on public matters of his Vice President, John Adams, sometimes verbally and sometimes in writing.

On one occasion—April 11, 1791—at the request of Washington, Adams met with the cabinet. The full report of the meeting, at which there was a discussion of foreign and domestic affairs, was sent by the Secretary of State, Mr. Jefferson, to President Washington.

With a view to increasing his political strength as a candidate for President, Mr. Harding announced early in his campaign that, if elected, he would invite Mr. Coolidge, who ran on the ticket with him as a candidate for Vice President, to attend all meetings of the cabinet.

When Mr. Coolidge became President in his own right, following his election in 1924, it was his intention to follow the precedent set by Mr. Harding and invite Mr. Dawes, the newly-elected Vice President, to attend the cabinet meetings. Before the invitation was extended Mr. Dawes announced he did not expect to attend the cabinet meetings and for that reason he was never invited.

Curtis Attended Cabinet Meetings

WHEN Mr. Curtis was notified at Topeka, Kan., in August, 1928, of his nomination for Vice President on t h e Republican ticket, there was read at the meeting a telegram from the Republican presidential nominee, Mr. Hoover, in which he said that, if elected, he intended to invite Mr. Curtis to attend the cabinet meetings as Vice President. The invitation was extended and accepted.

This precedent was followed by Mr. Roosevelt who, as a candidate for President, gave notice that in the event of his election, he had obtained Mr. Garner's promise to attend the cabinet.

Upon the invitation of President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner attended all sessions of the cabinet while Congress was in session. His opinion was frequently asked by Mr. Roosevelt on questions under consideration by the cabinet. In fact, the relations with Vice President Garner, during the extra session of Congress, were much closer than those between President Harding and Vice President Coolidge and those between President Hoover and Vice President Curtis.

By holding himself aloof during the recess of Congress from executive affairs, Vice President Garner returns to the federal city possessed of a good perspective, in close touch with public sentiment in his part of the country, and in a good position to respond effectively to President Roosevelt's call for advice and for other assistance during the coming session.

There is every reason to believe that the Roosevelt administration is well satisfied with the policy initiated by President Washington, and revived in recent administrations, of having the Vice President meet with the cabinet while Congress is in session.

Signs of Returning Prosperity—Hardships of Civil War Times—Atterbury Praises Roosevelt

By Edwin C. Hill

SIGNS multiply that the country is squaring its shoulders, getting its chin up again, ready to stride forth on a new era of prosperity. Hard times are definitely receding. They leave plenty of wreckage and debris, like a receding flood, like Old Man River retreating to his banks after a ruinous rampage.

But one wonders, sometimes, whether the present generation knew the full meaning of hard times. I don't mean individuals, or groups of individuals, such as have suffered almost to the point of desperation in the past few years. I mean whole sections, like the South during and after the Civil War. There are living today ladies and gentlemen below Mason and Dixon's Line who could tell a thrilling tale of what hard times really are, of what destitution can do.

As Allen Tate writes in his fine book on Jefferson Davis, the ingenuity of southern women was strained to the limit to provide substitutes for a thousand and one articles of necessary use. Coffee was so scarce that it was hoarded for medical use only, to give to soldiers suffering from exhaustion and shell shock. Instead of coffee, millions drank a liquid made from parched corn, browned wheat and sliced, dry yams. Tea was made from strawberry leaves. Medicines were terribly scarce. A quinine pill cost a dollar in 1862.

The ladies wore homespun and dyed it with the sap of trees. The pine tree root gave them garnet. From myrtle was boiled a soft gray. Hickory bark made a bright green. Walnut hulls made a warm brown. Rusty nails were used to set the dye for these homespun dresses. Paper, pens and ink were almost unprocurable. The reverse side of wall paper was used for writing paper, and ink was made out of oak galls.

One of the severest privations suffered by the ladies of the Southern Confederacy was the lack of stays to support the weight of their voluminous skirts. A blockade runner who slipped into a southern port with a cargo of corsets disposed of the lot at an enormous profit. The belle of a wartime ball in Richmond appeared in a dress of homespun, ornamented with gourd seeds dyed red. Women knitted far into the night by the faint gleam of Confederate candles—ropes dipped in tallow and wound around bottles. Flour went up to $1,500 a barrel, bacon to $20 a pound.

"Burn it all up. We will live on the acorns."

That was the spirit which carried a great section of America through a terrible epoch. And that spirit is not dead or even dormant in this country, as the last few years have proved. With all of her faults, there's reason to be proud today of this old U. S. A.

Atterbury Praises Roosevelt

THE Great White Father in the White House must be a bit surprised and even a little pleased as he reads the words of praise and confidence coming from the lips of one who, up to now, was popularly numbered among the Tories. He is no Administration ballyhoo, no Democratic officeholder, but a rock-ribbed Republican, a Pennsylvania Republican, and on top of all that, an outstanding representative of big business.

It is tall, brusque William Wallace Atterbury, president of the billion dollar Pennsylvania Railroad, who says:

"I am an enthusiastic believer in the patriotism, the courage and the resourcefulness of Franklin D. Roosevelt. I do not believe it is a time for gloom. And this sentiment on my part is not whistling to keep up my courage. Business is improving. More men are being employed. Goods are moving into consumption. The purchasing power of the farmer is already vastly improved."

Since coming of age in 1887, after being graduated from Yale, Gen. Atterbury has been a Republican stalwart, always playing on the other side of the fence f r o m the ultra-liberals of the Roosevelt school. Only this year, when the President's railroad czar, Joseph B. Eastman, ruled that no loans would be made to the railroads unless executive salaries were r e d u c e d, Gen. Atterbury lopped $49,000 from his own salary, cutting it from $109,000 to $60,000. And now he strikes a chord of non-partisanship which must win popular and general applause.

Changing Fashions In Toys

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, niece of the great Theodore and wife of the reigning Roosevelt, has issued an appeal to toy manufacturers to abandon the making of warlike toys. She wants no more of tin soldiers, tanks, battleships and cannon in the hands of young children. She wants them to have armies of foresters and farmers and mills with model workmen. Begin disarmament by taking warlike toys out of the hands of children, is the theory of the First Lady of the Land.

Ninety per cent of the Christmas toys of 1933 were American made, by the way, and rather more sophisticated toys than the youngsters of 10 or 15 years ago cared about. Toys in tune with the machine age. Boys are leaning more and more to construction toys, and chemistry and drawing sets. One of the most popular items with little women is a doll doctor, fully equipped with a medicine bag and a case of toy instruments with which to keep all the other dollies in perfect health.
